EXPERIMENT STATION ASKS MORE MONEY FOR RESEARCH

An increasing demand for research work will prompt the North Carolina Experiment Station to ask the General Assembly for an increase of $82,735 yearly for the next biennium, said Dr. I. O. Schaub of State College, acting director of the Station.

At the present time, the income of the Experiment Station from state sources amounts to $45,600. Of this $5,000 comes from the general fund for special apple research, $26,350 from the agricultural fund, and $14,200 from miscellaneous receipts.

If the increase is granted, it will provide the necessary offset to meet the $128,285 in Federal funds authorized under the Bankhead-Jones Act.

The request calls for an additional $5,000 for apple research so that the work might be spread more evenly over the State and take care of problems other than disease. Peach research would be appropriated $15,000 for the study of insect and disease control, fertilization, soil building, and other problems in connection with the production and marketing of this fruit.

The 1937 General Assembly provided for a peanut farm but did not appropriate funds for necessary expenses and the employment of workers. It is proposed to allocate $10,000 for special peanut research.

Bulbs and flowers, because of their increasing importance, would
