

KUDZU HAY

From one acre of kudzu, H. C. Carson of Rutherford County cut five tons of hay from the first growth and allowed the second growth to remain on the land. It now forms a mulch about three inches thick and acts as an erosion control. Mr. Carson says kudzu also makes fine pasture if not grazed too closely.

COTTON COVERS

George Elmo Curtis of Graham, RFD, has applied for 40 of the cotton covers for beehives to be distributed by the Triple-A in an effort to find new uses for cotton. A limited number of the covers will be distributed free this winter to those beekeepers agreeing to make full reports of the results secured.
