THE QUEST ETERNAL

By Margaret Widdemer

Where go ye, singing angel-bands all robed in red and gold,
Hurrying in starry crowds along the snow-filled sky?
What seek ye, on this winter night, singing in the cold?
"We seek the Lord Christ Jesus in His lowly cattle-fold,
We sing of His white peace on earth, that shall not ever die."

Where go ye, Kings of Orient in silk and gold and vair,
Pacing on your milk-white camels through the little town?
What look ye for more marvelous than all earth's gifts ye bear?
"The Child most great and glorious, the Child most pure and fair!
We ride to find His stable floor and there kneel down."

Where go ye, simple shepherds all who haste so fast by night,
Leaving these your flocks and herds to wander as they will?
What thing can be more beautiful than this Star's perfect light?
"Nay this fair Star but leads us to the World's most perfect Light;
We seek the radiant Son of God past starry vale and hill."

Where go ye, all ye weary folk so wise in this world's lore,
Hasting past your city streets so bright and wide and far?
What thing can be more glad than these, the joys ye knew before?
"O Love that lives and Christ that lives, our God that we adore!
The joy that lives forever we have found who find His Star!"

—Good Housekeeping (New York).

PERRY-JEANS

On Saturday afternoon, Dec. 17, at 5:30 Miss Stella Mae Jeans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Jeans of Louisburg, was united in marriage to James P. Perry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harris Perry of Zebulon, R. 2. The ceremony was performed before the necessary witnesses in the home of the officiating minister, Rev. Theo. B. Davis.

Hendrick-Eddins

On last Sunday evening at 8:30 o'clock in the home of her parents Miss Creola Eddins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eddins of Wakefield, was married to Raymond Forest Hendricks of Nashville and Raleigh, the groom's brother being the officiating minister.

For the ceremony the couple stood under an arch of evergreen which was decorated with bells and candles. The bride, who entered with her father, was attended by her sister, Miss Sarah Eddins. Her small cousin, Ben Allen Rhodes, carried in a calla lily the ring used in taking the vows. Prior to the ceremony Mrs. P. P. Pate at the piano gave a program of music and accompanied Mrs. T. C. Pippin, who sang.

For her marriage the bride wore a costume of teal blue with black accessories. Her flowers were white.

Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks will be at home in Raleigh.

Miss Edna Earle Sexton arrived on Tuesday night from Duke University, where she is a member of the senior class.

Ralph House, student at Duke University, will work in the Raleigh post office during the Christmas rush.

GOLDEN WEDDING

One of the most enjoyable receptions ever given in Zebulon was on last Saturday evening when, from eight o'clock until ten, callers congratulated Mr. and Mrs. John D. Finch upon the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage.

At the front door Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Coltrane greeted guests who were presented to the receiving line by Dr. and Mrs. L. M. Massey. With the host and hostess stood Mr. and Mrs. Wayland Finch; Elmer Finch and son, Douglas; Mrs. Carl Harper and son Talmadge, of Nashville; Dr. and Mrs. Sigma Finch of Oxford and sons, Sigma, Jr., John D. and Charlie B.; Mr. & Mrs. L. E. Finch of Dillon, S. C.; the Rev. B. F. Boone, pastor of the Zebulon Methodist church, and Mrs. Boone; the Rev. Edgar Fisher and Mrs. Fisher of Roanoke Rapids. White chrysanthemums and white carnations were used with ivy in hall and living room.

Mrs. G. S. Barbee showed the way to the dining room where at a table covered with a hand-crocheted lace cloth Mesdames J. M. Whitley and M. J. Sexton poured coffee. Sandwiches, beaten biscuit, cheesestraws, cakes, mints, and nuts were served by Mrs. C. M. Revere of Raleigh, Mrs. Mamie Britt of Oxford, and Mrs. C. V. Whitley, assisted by little Misses Mary Fisher Finch and Ruth Anne Fisher. The table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake appropriately decorated and flanked by white tapers in silver holders.

Mrs. F. D. Finch led the way from dining room to hall where Mrs. Guy Massey had charge of the register. Mrs. L. E. Long directed to the gift room where Mrs. Robert Herring of Oxford presided with Mrs. Donald Stallings. Goodbyes were said to Mrs. R. V. Brown by the many who rejoiced with this loved couple over the years they have had together.
