

THIS, THAT, & THE OTHER

Of course it is absolutely none of my business. I just feel that if we women play, and play "free for nothing" so much of the time — for we are prone to go only at the free hours — we ought to be extra careful to be as good sports as possible. No score means enough to be won by the slightest unfairness; and the chances are that those who overstep are wholly unconscious of it.

Since writing the foregoing lines I have been told that men are fully as bad as women about sliding their feet over the line when bowling. I won't take back a word, though. Even if the King of England and President Roosevelt slide, it still is not fair. Abide by rules, or change them. Don't break them.
