BULB-PLANTING

Bulbs should be planted during October and November. The pebble-and-water method of growing these flowers indoors is the simplest way to grow the plants.

Bulbs that are easy to force are Roman hacinths, paper white narcissi, Dutch hyacinth, crocus, tulips, many of the old-fashioned daffodils, freesias, and lily-of-the-valley.

To grow bulbs indoors select a container that will hold water, pour in pebbles until the container is about three fourths full, place the bulb in position, and add just enough water to moisten the pebbles, but not enough to touch the bulbs. Some recommend placing the bulbs in a cool, dark place until the roots are about two inches long, but this makes the stems too long for some flower-lovers.

Bulbs should not be kept in a room that is too hot. The temperature should range from sixty to seventy degrees, keeping the water level just below the bottom of the bulb itself. "To keep a succession of flowers, bulbs should be potted at intervals from September through January.

For outdoor plantings, the specialist recommends a shady position for winter-aconite, snowdrop, the Regal lillies; part shade for snowflakes, wood hyacinth, other lillies, and daffodils and various narcissi.

The colors of the various species of lillies are as follows: Madonna, white; Crocus, white and yellow; Regal, white with wine stripes; Canadense and Henryi, orange.

PUBLIC RESENTMENT THE ONLY CURB

Since the World War, Great Britain's national debt increased only $2,000,000,000, up to the end of last year.

In the nine years since depression struck the United States, the national debt has increased more than $25,000,000,000.

In those two sets of figures you see vividly illustrated the magnitude and gravity of our debt problem. No nation in the world has been so prodigal as we in spending what we have not earned. In no nation has the national debt—which means a mortgage against all that we have, and all that may be produced by our children—soared so rapidly or so high.

Worst of all, the debt problem grows more menacing every day. The national budget is almost as far out of balance now as it was early in the depression. In spite of the highest and greatest number of taxes in our national history, the Federal government continues to spend billions more than it receives in revenue each year.

It is obvious that we can expect no help from the politicians—they will spend and spend and spend as long as the voters acquiesce. The solution must come from public rebellion against wasteful spending. There must be an end to Federal competition with business and financing projects which are purely local and ten years ago would have been paid for with local money. There must be an end to grab-bag tactics by countries, municipalities, states. There must be an end to the insane delusion that we can get something for nothing.

THAT SCHOOL LUNCH

Once again magazines and some departments in papers carry articles filled with directions as to foods for the school lunch and suggestions as to preparation. Most of these are good, some being more practical than others. But there is one trouble about them: One and all, they presuppose or insist that a regular lunch box be carried by the child. And not one tells how to proceed when the child in the reader's home refuses to carry anything more elaborate or weighty than a paper bag which may be discarded after lunchtime. Mothers may prefer packing a lunch that contains all vitamins, calories and such that experts advise; but when a youngster flatly declares he'd rather do without food than to lug a box and bottle back and forth daily, what's the best thing to be done?

SETTING FRUIT TREES

Fruit and nut trees may be set anytime during the winter in Eastern North Carolina. In the western section, where weather conditions are often severe, planting may be delayed until spring. Grapes and other small fruit may be planted in the fall or spring. In setting out the young trees, be sure that they are planted from one to two inches deeper than they stood in the nursery row. The hole should be wide enough to receive the roots without bending them from their natural position. Apple and pear trees should be set at least 35 feet apart, with peach, plum, and cherry trees as much as 25 feet apart.
