THIS, THAT, & THE OTHER

By MRS. THEO. B. DAVIS

When I speak of fans I don't mean those persons who go wild over moving-pictures, baseball, football or boxing. I refer to an article designed for stirring air and making it seem cooler. Years ago we had "open and shut" fans to go with our Sunday dresses. They—the fans—were made of colored paper, cotton or linen cloth, lace, or satin, and some had lace or ostrich feathers for trimming. There was one summer a fashion of wearing the fan on a long string of beads or a ribbon around the neck. A distant cousin, who was low in stature and who walked with short, quick steps would hurry down the aisle of our church with her fan on so long a ribbon that it would whack against her knees as she went to her seat. She had an odd habit of keeping her eyebrows raised and gave the appearance of being much surprised each time the fan hit her.

Fans like these were really more in the nature of dress accessories than for service. For that we used palm leaf fans, large or small, or stiff cardboard on the order of those placed in public buildings these days. Some of the older and less stylish had turkey-wings dried with the feathers wide-spread, which were more efficient than beautiful. But none of us knew about electric fans and the idea of being cooled by any artificial breeze except that created by your own strength or that of a considerate beau would have seemed the height of luxury.

I don't mind not having had electric fans for dress-up occasions. There is something flattering and a bit romantic about the gentle breeze wafted your way by an admirer, even though he himself grows limp in the process; something personal that has no connection with wire cord and metal blades and an outlet in a wall. However, I feel sure the young men of my day would have preferred mechanical devices.

But when I remember the hours that grew into days of fanning me when I was a girl and had typhoid fever, and how members of the family and helpful friends grew numb in the arms from waving palm leaves, I do wish they might have been able to plug in an electric affair that would have left them free to rest a while.

My scientific son claims that fans are practically useless and also unhealthy; that they do not reduce temperature and the added comfort they give is fictitious. But he is young and in love with textbooks; and Mrs. Mary Kemp and I don't care what he says. We are going to fan our way—or be fanned—through each summer as it comes.

One of my amusing memories is of a young girl who had a new silk fan and a new beau at the same time. She was sixteen, the beau was about ten years older, strong and gallant. He took her fan at the church service to which he had escorted her and worked with it so hard and so long—all through the

W. B. BUNN HELPS IN CAPTURE

Once more the Georgia chain gang comes into prominence here. On Friday night, between one and two o'clock, W. B. Bunn went to the Philette station to relax in conversation before trying to sleep after a specially hard day's work—that extended well into the night. He saw a man passing on a bicycle, remembered that Raleigh police had sent out notice of a stolen wheel, called Policeman Hopkins and started in pursuit. The cyclist proved to be the thief wanted, and also to be an escaped convict—"a fugitive from a Georgia chain gang."

STUDENTS RETURN FROM CAMP

Vocational students of Wake-lon, who went last week on a camping trip to White Lake returned with accounts of an enjoyable stay. With their new teacher as supervisor the following boys went on the outing, which is an annual affair: Harold Pippin, Earl Antone, Donald Joyner, Frederick Bobbitt, Claudie Duke, Allen Hood, Jack Hinton, Wilbur Hales. The trip was made in Rondal Phillips' truck.

sermon—that the fragile fan couldn't stand the strain and wore out. The girl was divided between pride in her conquest and dismay at what was happening to her property, but decided that of the two she preferred losing the fan. Anyway, the young man, once he saw what he had done, bought her another. Yes, they got married.

WOMAN'S CLUB TO HAVE Housewarming

The newly remodeled Woman's Clubhouse will be open to inspection on Thursday night of next week from 8:00 o'clock till 10:00. At this time the general public is invited to attend an informal reception at the club where officers and members of the organization will welcome them.

Enlarged plans are underway for the club. The present inadequate library is to be enlarged, a closer relation with other local civic organizations will be sought, increased facilities for social functions will be provided.

The club recently gave to the Boy Scouts a site for the hut which they will begin at early date to build. This is in line with the organization's deep interest in all good things that concern Zebulon.

At present donations are greatly needed for the cooking and serving of meals and for additional furniture. It is hoped that the house-warming may provide a shower of useful articles from those who are willing to help in this work. While any gift will be appreciated, persons desiring to give something specially wanted may receive suggestions by conferring with the house committee: Mesdames J. F. Coltrane, E. C. Daniel and C. V. Whitley.

WESTER ARRESTED

A young man whose name is said to be Ned Wester of Spring Hope was arrested in Zebulon on Friday of last week, charged with forgery. He had presented checks signed with the names of A. G. Kemp, L. T. Britt and R. B. Whitley. Both Debnam's Hardware Store and Bunn's Wholesale Co. had let him have goods and taken checks, giving money in change. Making a similar attempt in Baer's Store on Friday, he was refused, and went to Zebulon Supply Store, where he asked Mrs. Screws to cash a check. Mrs. W. B. Bunn notified the police that he was in town and the arrest was made in Zebulon Supply Store.

Wester is a young man, apparently not much over twenty years old.

ROTARIANS HEAR DISTRICT GOVERNOR

Zebulon held its twenty-third consecutive hundred percent meeting on Friday evening July 5.

Fred Woodcock had the program. Miss Grace Coltrane, accompanied at the piano by Miss Jocelyn House, sang several selections. The speaker of the evening was Carter Darrow, District Governor of Rotary International. In his remarks, he stated that the Zebulon Rotary Club did not need his service. The hundred percent meetings are evidence enough that the club is functioning all right. He highly praised the interest being shown and wished other clubs to do likewise. He stated that in the present chaotic condition of the world people are looking for leaders to inspire them and keep them in courage. No time in history of Rotary has the world needed their spirit of trying to serve others more than at this time.

It was an inspiring address coming when things look so blue as one thinks of the European situation. Lonnie Knott and Fred Pearce were welcomed from the Wendell Club, also Larry Whitehead of San Antonio, Texas.
