"A Time For All Things"

A long, long time ago a wise man said there was a time for all things. Since we have lived only a short time a lot of things have never happened so far as we know, while a lot of things have happened which we felt happened at the wrong time.

Last week we made a statement concerning Wakelon school on matters pertaining to its interests. We tried to speak without criticism or antagonism to any one connected with the school. About that time a student brought us something concerning Wakelon which was meant to be published in the Record. Since we felt the matter involved was strictly an affair of the school board, we believed it wise to leave such request out of the paper. Since then we have received another communication from another student, we presume (it was unpublished), who asks that it be published. Were we disposed to do so, we could not since this paper makes it a rule never to publish unsigned communications. If the writers are unwilling to assume responsibility, then we certainly can not.

The Record has no criticism to make nor any advice to offer to our school board. We believe they are fully competent to represent the patrons of the school. Only when they show they are not, will it be time for us to suggest their course or protest their action. Even had we something to say to them as to our opinion regarding the future of the school, we think it wiser and more appropriate for us to write them a personal letter as to our views and opinions.

Only when matters that affect the whole community have become known and affect all the people do we believe it best to appeal through the public forum. No such situation confronts Wakelon school. Our Board can well handle the situation and we are confident they will give us a competent faculty for the next school year.

Trained Worker

Mrs. R. H. Jenkins begins this week her work as special representative of the Spencer Foundation Garment manufacturers. These garments are made for individuals from special measurements and are vastly different from custom made foundations, being prescribed by many physicians for their patients. Mrs. Jenkins has taken training which enables her to act as consultant and will be glad to see any who need such service.

Ingenious 4-H Club members of Johnston County have been adding money they made from treating cotton seed to their club treasuries, reports Assistant Farm Agent M. E. Aycock.
