This, That and the Other

By MRS. THEO. B. DAVIS

Sometimes I wonder how I've ever managed to get along with no more brain than I have. For instance: One day last week I told my son's wife she and I were invited to a tea on Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Irby Gill and Mrs. Robert Dawson, hostesses. We planned a way for us both to go and still have some one with the baby; we expected a thoroughly enjoyable time. And on Saturday afternoon we were doing our hair and hunting up good stockings when Nancy Whitley came in. We told her we were going to the tea and she said, "But the tea was yesterday." And so it was. Mildred had carefully told me but still I got it wrong. And I hadn't been to Rhoda's since she got her new furniture, so there was an added disappointment.

Several of our friends have expressed surprise that not one of those little cans of vegetables prepared for feeding babies has ever been bought for my youngest grandson, who lives at our house. Being told that he is given some of the same vegetables we use makes some think we just feed him from the family dish. It isn't exactly like that. When I cooked turnip greens in the spring a little was taken out before being seasoned and was mashed through a sieve, a little butter was put on it with a pinch of salt and Leary ate it. His share of the squash is the neck part that has no seed, and it is steamed, sieved and buttered. Butterbeans, carrots and snap beans are fixed for him the same way. He has not had corn, cabbage, beets, cucumbers, onions, peppers, nor any raw fruit except bananas, mashed fine. He has orange and tomato juice and a few times has had a little juice from a fresh, ripe watermelon. He can eat potatoes since they are fully mature, and they, too, are mashed and buttered. Applesauce for him is run through the sieve and sweetened as we like it.

When we have chicken the baby has the liver, not fried but steamed and mashed. He may also have a bit of meat from the inside of the breast. If we have fish, he has a little piece wrapped in waxed paper and baked in the oven till done. If we have beef, I scrape it with a spoon and get enough meat, free from fiber, to make a tiny patty which is broiled before any salt is added and only slightly cooked. He is given plain ice cream. We bought zwieback for him but found he prefers hard toast to gnaw on. He drinks milk from our cow and takes it whole now.

The above diet list might not suit your baby. No doctor has been consulted about it, because the baby has stayed well. We had the advantage of my experience with five children and my daughter's with three — and Leary's mother is willing to use the rules we lay down. He has not had upset stomach or bowels once all sum-

K. P. Leonard Is Grower of New Variety of Peach

Plans to Inform State College; Peach Is Sweet

K. P. Leonard of near Zebulon brought some beautiful peaches up to the vocational building at Wakelon School. These peaches were bright red in color, of very good taste, yellow-fleshed, large in size, and of the cling-stone type. They were grown on a seedling tree (one that grew from seed without being grafted).

Since peaches that come from seed are not true to variety due to cross-pollination, there is great possibility of this peach being developed into a new variety.

Mr. Leonard intends to inform the Horticultural Division of N. C. State College of his discovery. For this reason some of the peaches were put into preservative fluid to use as samples.

He is going to bud some seedlings next spring, so as to produce more trees of this kind. This is accomplished by grafting a bud from the desired variety on to any year-old peach seedling.

S. A. BUNN

S. A. Bunn, 70, prominent farmer of the Hopkins Chapel community, died at his home on Zebulon, Route 1, Sunday at 9:30 a. m.

Funeral services were held from the home Monday at 3 p. m., with the Rev. A. D. Parrish officiating. Interment followed in the family cemetery at the home.

Mr. Bunn is survived by three daughters, Mrs. A. H. Perry, Mrs. William Richards, and Miss Exie Bunn; one son, S. A. Bunn, Jr., all of Zebulon, Route 1; 14 grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

According to the RECORD statistician his careful computations show that there remain but 126 days until Christmas. Only 108 of these are shopping days.

MAXWELL FIELD, ALA.—Col. Elmer J. Bowling, commanding officer at this post, has announced the promotion last month of Falc Elmo Bunn, Jr., to the grade of Staff Sergeant, United States Army Air Forces.

The soldier, who was a sergeant prior to the advancement in rank, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Bunn of Zebulon.

FORT KNOX, KY. — Private First Class Clarence Watson has been promoted from the grade of Private recently. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Watson of Zebulon.

MAXWELL FIELD, ALA.—A-C Ferd L. Davis was transferred last week to the Navigation Pre-Flight School at Monroe, Louisiana.

Rom Moser has been called by the Army and is now an aviation cadet at Nashville, Tennessee.

Earl Antone of the Navy was home for a few days this week.

Dwight Chamblee of the U. S. Navy was home for the weekend.

Carl D. Bunn Claims Tallest Wake Tobacco

Averages Eight To Ten Feet In Height

Carl D. Bunn, former Wake County compliance supervisor AAA, claims to have some of the tallest flue-cured tobacco in Wake County this year on his father's farm about six miles from Zebulon.

This tobacco now averages from eight to ten feet in height and Mr. Bunn has already harvested 644 sticks of tobacco from only .6 of an acre. He has not yet harvested more than two-thirds of the crop.

We do not know the variety of this tobacco but it was grown from some seed that he located in Johnston County last year. The quality of the tobacco already harvested seems to be fairly good, but some of that left on the stalks is now damaging from too much rain. However, Mr. Bunn is expecting an exceptionally large yield from his small acreage of this variety.

Vance Brown Is Tried at Meeting

Irby Gill had the program at the last meeting. He staged a trial with Vance Brown as a criminal with several aliases and himself as lawyer for the accused, pleading as if before a judge. Irby ended his plea by asking Rotarians to forgive Vance for not being a good Rotarian and to give him another chance on parole. This was one of the most humorous programs ever given at the club and furnished many laughs for Rotarians.

Several members were absent but have made up their attendance, Mr. Moser attending a meeting of the club at Ahoskie.

Do You Have A Spare Car Seat?

Town Manager Leon Thompson announced this week a plan whereby there need be no more empty seats on cars going to Raleigh, and much gasoline and tires may be saved.

A blackboard will be placed in the Post Office, and all persons who plan to drive cars to Raleigh at any time are requested to post the date and time of their trip. Likewise any person who wants to go to Raleigh but has no way is to place his name on the blackboard.

Everyone in Zebulon should be happy to cooperate in this plan, which carries Zebulon's good-neighbor policy further than has before been attempted.

The reality and individuality of man are good and God-made, and they are here to be seen and demonstrated; it is only the evil belief that renders them obscure. —Mary Baker Eddy.

Funeral Services For Mrs. Bunn Wednesday P. M.

Funeral services for Mrs. Rosa Bunn, 62, were conducted Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Hopkins Chapel Baptist Church by the pastor, the Rev. A. D. Parrish, and the Rev. L. R. Evans. Burial was in the church cemetery.

Pallbearers were Graham Bunn, Bertie Bunn, W. T. Gay, W. D. Hopkins, B. R. Richards and P. R. Horton.

Mrs. Bunn died Monday night at 7:10 o'clock at her home after an illness of nearly a year. She was the wife of the late J. Howard Bunn, of Zebulon.

Surviving are five daughters: Mrs. Melvin Strickland of Baltimore, Mrs. D. A. Cope, Mrs. Iris Bunn Pearce and Rosalee Bunn, all of Zebulon, and Mrs. Milford Killion of Fayetteville; five sons, the Rev. C. H. Bunn, of Durham, Royal Bunn of Zebulon, Hoyle Bunn of Durham, and Noble Bunn and Barbee Bunn, both with the army in the war zone; and three brothers, W. H. Doyle of Cary, B. S. Doyle and L. W. Doyle, both of Zebulon.

Mrs. Alford Was Buried Monday

On Monday afternoon burial services for Mrs. Charlie Alford were conducted in the Baptist church here by Rev. R. H. Herring and interment followed in the church cemetery. The daughter of the late John Strickland of Rosinburg, Miss Strickland first married Walter Medlin, a deacon in the Zebulon church, who died a number of years ago. The family had for some time lived near Tarboro. Surviving are the husband, three children by the first marriage and five by the second; four brothers, O. E. and Robert Strickland of Zebulon, J. H. of Garner, and T. A. Strickland; three sisters: Mrs. Johnnie Johnson of Norfolk, Mrs. Vernon Mitchell, and Miss Pearl Strickland of Zebulon.

Wakefield Church Calls New Pastor

The Wakefield Baptist Church has called Rev. M. M. Turner of Wake Forest as pastor. Mr. Turner was reared in Cleveland County and is a graduate of Wake Forest College. He has been preaching for some time at Perry's Chapel near Franklinton and at Macedonia Church near Nashville.
