$1.50 Per Year, Payable In Advance

Small Alton Temple, son of the L. R. Temples, was getting ready to attend the Coleman-Barrow wedding. Wishing to observe all the proprieties of such an occasion, he inquired, "Will they take up a collection at the wedding?"

This weather we're having—one sunny day and one rainy—is driving good housekeepers frantic. They don't have time to finish up things. A friend of mine has a big crocheted bedspread in her bathtub and no chance to dry it. She can hang up hose and some other garments by the stove, but that bedspread has "got her down."

Twelve years ago this month I commented on bachelors, leap year and matters connected therewith, also publishing a list of unmarried men to make it easier for the spinsters. I remember Deputy Guy Massey's helping me to get up that list and the fun it afforded him to put in the name of his son, G. C.

Now, of all the list, I believe A. G. Kemp, Jesse Kilpatrick and G. C. Massey, are the only ones still single. I'm not taking the credit, even for Proctor Kemp and Zollie Culpepper; but our bachelors got some good publicity in 1932. If another list is desired for this hunting season, women wanting it will please notify me.

(N. B.) File the names given already.

Last week's mail brought me a letter so filled with loving kindness that I sat down and had a good cry, which may seem a queer way to express appreciation. But it did me loads of good and all week I've felt uplifted, though realizing I do not deserve one-fourth the nice things the writer said.

And I've made up my mind to try to pass on, in part at least, encouragement and sympathy that letter brought me. These are not easy days and I am too prone to dwell on my own problems, forgetting those of others.

Our youngest son had a birthday last December 22. We tried to send him a caramel cake for that date, mailing it in a specially made box to the APO given. He had not left the states then, but did leave before he got the cake. His address has changed several times and we had almost decided he would never taste his birthday cake, when last Sunday a letter came saying he had just eaten the last of it. After following him 45 days it overtook him in North Africa and he said it was in good condition, the filling not hardened.

Reading Barrie's letter I remembered a tale told by a neighbor when I was a girl. He said he went deer hunting and late in the afternoon shot at a buck which he thought he missed, as it kept going. He returned home, ate supper, and sat by his fire till early bedtime, when he heard the sound of running hooves in the yard. Hurrying to the door he was just in time to see a deer fall. That bullet had chased it for hours and caught it right at the door. At least, that's what Mr. Hagood said. An the deer was said to be as good as Barrie thought his cake was.

Mrs. W. T. J. Eaton Dies Here Thursday

Mrs. Sarah Eaton, widow of the late Wood Tucker Johnson Eaton of Franklin County, died at her home here on Thursday afternoon of last week after an extended period of failing health. She was 68 years old.

Funeral services were held at the home on Friday afternoon at three o'clock, conducted by the Rev. George Griffin, assisted by the Revs. C. F. Vale and Theo. Davis. Burial was in the Fairview cemetery at Franklinton.

Surviving are three daughters: Mrs. Mahlon Temple and Miss Sarah Eaton of Zebulon; Miss Janet Eaton of Wilmington; four sons:

School News

Mr. D. McLean, from the Wake County school maintenance department, is completing this week a portion of the project started last year to improve the appearance of our building. This part of the project consists of refinishing the tops of the desks. Upon the completion of this work Wake-lon will have the distinction of being one of the few schools in the state that can be proud of having no marks or cuts on any desks throughout the entire buildings.

We feel greatly indebted to Mr. Randolph Benton, our county superintendent, for making this work possible and we hope that the student body will cooperate in keeping it in good condition.

By Bessie Kay Williams and Betty King.

Mr. Miller received the following letter last week:

Dear Mr. Miller:

I want to express my personal appreciation to you and your other teachers who assisted us in the Physical Fitness Institute conducted at Garner High School on January 6.

The success of this meeting was in a large measure due to the splendid work of your teachers in the conduct of the rhythmic program. I also want to express my appreciation to the students through you. We have never had a finer group of children to work with in an institute of this type, and a large part of their spirit of cooperation grew out of the attitude of the pupils from the Wake-lon School.

Yours truly,
Chares E. Spencer, Adviser,
Health and Physical Ed.

Monday we were glad to have Miss Eunice Outlaw, who is with the State Department of Public Health, with us for our high school assembly. Miss Outlaw is working on the state health and physical education program and Monday she showed us two motion pictures on nutrition. Some of the lower grades were interested in this program and were present also. All those who saw the movies enjoyed them and found them quite helpful. The boys and girls also enjoyed Miss Outlaw's comments and interpretations.

Tuesday morning the Rev. C. E. Vale, of the Methodist Church, conducted our devotional exercises. Judy Robertson announced the program and presented Mr. Vale, who spoke interestingly and instructively to the high school girls and boys.

Friday night Miss Benton, of the Blind School, visited us again in our health and physical program at the gymnasium. A few citizens of our community were also present for a part of the evening. We have enjoyed having Miss Benton with us very much. She has added to our program and we feel fortunate indeed that she has given us so much of her time.

Ira Eaton, Raleigh; William Eaton, Franklinton; John Eaton, Wilmington; Sgt. Preston Eaton, with the army in Texas; eight grandchildren; one brother, P. G. Curtis, Zebulon.

Until her strength forbade much activity Mrs. Eaton was a faithful attendant at church services and took part in civic organizations, making many friends during the years she lived in this town.

Pallbearers were: D. W. Stallings, W. D. Finch, M. J. Sexton, J. B. Cahoon, A. S. Hinton of Zebulon, and H. P. Howell of Smithfield.

Miller Speaks To Rotarians

B. K. Miller spoke to Rotarians last Friday night on companionship, fellowship and association with one's fellow man, stressing the mutual obligations involved.

The obligation, he said, extends to those who make ready for use the man ythings employed in everyday living. We need good will as well as good products.

The speaker read clippings from newspapers giving opinions of statesmen who say that capital and labor antagonize good government because of greed to make money at the expense of others.

Red Cross Sewing

From the local sewing room forty T-bandages have been sent to county headquarters in Raleigh. The work continues on each Tuesday afternoon with volunteer workers from the community. Wakefield workers were welcomed this week. Reporting for work were Mesdames W. L. Green, J. A. Kemp, S. H. Hoyle, W. G. Temple, R. H. Herring, C. V. Whitley, D. W. Stallings, E. C. Daniel, E. H. Moser, R. H. Jenkins.

A donation of cloth from Mrs. A. D. Antone was much appreciated.

Fuel is much needed and any in the country who can give even a few pieces of wood are asked to bring it to Temple Market or leave it at the clubhouse. It may be that some who can not come to sew may be willing to help by providing a fire for those who do the work.

Mrs. Temple reports that the bandages taken to Raleigh were the first from any organization outside the city.

Important Meeting

On next Monday evening, February 28, at 8 o'clock, an important meeting of Red Cross workers will be held in the Woman's clubhouse, announces John Sumner, chairman of Little River township.

N. B. McCulloch, county chairman, and Mrs. Sarah Gaines, area staff representatives, will be present for conference and to advise. Not only those taking active part in the coming drive for funds, but all who are interested are invited.

The goal for Little River township is $3,200.

Willie T. Ferrell

Willie T. Ferrell, 65, Wake County farmer, died in Rex Hospital in Raleigh Monday night after an illness of a few days.

Funeral services were held at Wakefield Baptist Church Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. Carl Ousley and the Rev. M. M. Turner. Burial was in the church cemetery. The body lay in state from 2 o'clock until the hour for the funeral.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Lorna Baker Ferrell; three sons, Billie Ferrell of the Coast Guard,

Coleman - Barrow Vows Spoken

The marriage of Miss Mary Rebecca Barrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Knox Barrow, Sr., of Zebulon, and Maj. James Michael Coleman, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James Michael Coleman of Norfolk, Va., formerly of Raleigh, was solemnized Saturday at 8 o'clock at the Zebulon Baptist Church, with the Rev. George J. Griffin officiating.

The church was beautifully decorated with white gladioli, snapdragons and buddleia against a background of pine, palms and ferns. White tapers provided light.

Mrs. George J. Griffin, organist, and Mrs. L. M. Massey, soloist, presented the nuptial music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a Hamburger original model of ivory imported satin with bodice of Chantilly lace, fashioned with round yoke of marquiseette embroidered in seed pearls, long sleeves ending in points over the hands, and a full skirt extending into a long train. Her full length veil of imported ivory illusion was attached to a halo of orange blossoms. She wore a pearl heart pin, the gift of the bridegroom, and pearl and diamond lavalliere worn by her mother at her wedding. Her flowers were a cascade bouquet of gardenias, spray orchids, and buddleia, centered with white purple-tipped orchids.

Miss Margaret Barrow of Raleigh and Zebulon, sister of the bride, was maid-of-honor. Her gown was of sky-blue brocaded satin with sweetheart neckline, bracelet length sleeves, and bouffant net skirt. Her headdress was a band of matching illusion with a short veil attached. She carried a bouquet of Golden Charm roses, Dutch iris, and gerbais.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Kenneth Kennedy of Graham, sister of the bride; Mrs. John Knox Barrow, Jr., of Zebulon, sister-in-law of the bride; Mrs. Charles La Hue Ford, III, of DeLand, Fla., sister of the bridegroom; and Miss Beverly Barrow of Dinwiddie, Va., cousin of the bride. They wore gowns of canary yellow, identical to the maid-of-honor's, with matching illusion bands and veils, and carried cascade bouquets of talisman roses, Dutch iris and gerbia. All attendants wore a single strand of pearls.

J. M. Coleman, Sr., was his son's best man, and ushers were John Knox Barrow, Jr., of Zebulon, brother of the bride; Kenneth Kennedy of Graham; Lt. Charles La Hue Ford, III, of LeDand, Fla., and Carlyle Summey of Shelby.

The bride's mother wore an Eisenberg gown of Changsha green crepe embroidered in rhinestones and pearls, and a corsage of hybrid orchids. Mrs. Coleman, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of seafoam green crepe embroidered in gold and silver sequins, and a corsage of hybrid orchids.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Barrow entertained at a reception at their home in Zebulon.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles E. Flowers greeted guests at the door, and Dr. and Mrs. L. M. Massey introduced them to the receiving line, composed of Major and Mrs. Coleman, their parents, the bride's attendants, and the Reverend Mr. and Mrs. Griffin.

Mrs. Irby Gill and Mrs. Cloyd Wade presided in the gift room, and Mesdames Wallace Chamblee, B. N. Barrow of Dinwiddie, Va., and J. B. Outlaw presided at the bride's book. Others assisting in receiving throughout the house were Mesdames Carter C. Studert, Helen Gregory, G. S. Barbee, Wallace Temple, and Misses Helen Horton of Raleigh and Mary Lacy Palmer.

The home was decorated throughout with arrangements of white gladioli, snapdragons, and buddleia. The bride's table was covered with an imported lace cloth and held a tiered center arrangement of Easter lilies, white buddleia, and bride's roses in a crystal bowl. On each end of the table were crystal cornucopias filled with white flowers, and crystal candelabra holding white tapers attached. The three-tiered wedding cake was flanked by white tapers.

Norfolk, Va., Sprite and Bobby Ferrell of Zebulon; three daughters, Mrs. Proctor Scarboro of Raleigh, Mrs. Thurman Murray of Zebulon and Lillie Joyner Ferrell of Zebulon.

Mrs. W. C. Campen presided at the punch bowl, and the following assisted in serving: Mesdames F. D. Finch, Tom Davis, Vernon Powers of Nashville, and Misses Jean Flowers, Anne Coleman of Burlington, Nancy Lloyd of Warrenton, Deane Hardison and Eunice Outlaw.

Miss Jocelyn House of Raleigh and Zebulon presented musical selections during the entertainment. Goodbyes were said to Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Daniel, and Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Whitley.

Following the reception, Major and Mrs. Coleman left for a wedding trip through the Shenandoah Valley and to points north. For traveling, Mrs. Coleman wore a Mongone original navy blue doe-skin dress suit, with matching accessories and the orchid corsage from her bouquet.

Mrs. Coleman attended St. Mary's School in Raleigh and graduated from Duke University, where she was a member of the Alpha Delta Pi national sorority.

Major Coleman attended The Citadel, Charleston, S. C., and graduated from State College, where he was a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity. He is now with the Corps of Engineers, United States Army, and is stationed as Area Engineer at Blackstone and Radford, Va.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Dr. and Mrs. George M. Schenck, Colonel and Mrs. George F. Wigger, Mrs. E. A. Eggerstead, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Caulfield, and Miss Patsy Caulfield of Norfolk, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Blaha of Hampton, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Bruorton of Columbia, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Paschall of Richmond; Miss Nancy Lloyd of Warrenton; Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Coleman, Rodney Coleman, Jr., Miss Anne Coleman, and Tommy Coleman of Burlington; Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Barrow and Miss Beverly Barrow of Dinwiddie, Va.; Mrs. J. T. Cross of Norlina; Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Massey of Whitakers; Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Summey of Shelby; Dr. and Mrs. Eric Bell and Miss Mary Elizabeth Woodard of Wilson; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Richardson of Wendell; Miss Edna Earl Sexton of Winston-Salem; Mrs. Frank S. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wayne Whitley, Dr. and Mrs. Allan Whitaker, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Jones, and Mrs. R. M. Sanford of Rocky Mount; Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Mattox and Dr. and Mrs. C. S. Corbett of Dunn; Miss Geraldine Jones of Greensboro; Mr. and Mrs. Colin Spencer of Carthage; Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Whitakers of Asheboro; Mrs. Elmo Fish, Jr., of Fuquay Springs; Mrs. W. H. Bullock of Ayden; Mr. and Mrs. Leon Thompson of Sanford; Mrs. T. H. Redding, Jr., of Charleston, S. C.; and Tommy Whaples of Radford, Va., and approximately 30 guests from Raleigh.

Saturday morning Mrs. J. M. Coleman, Sr., and Mrs. Charles Ford, III, entertained at a wedding breakfast at the Sir Walter Hotel for the Coleman-Barrow wedding party and out-of-town guests.

After March 1, Major and Mrs. Coleman will be at home in Blacksburg, Va.
