DOINGS OF THE LEGISLATURE

Hope for adjournment of the General Assembly by March 20, goes a glimmering when 700 bills are still in the hands of Committees. 150 bills have been unfavorably reported, 572 have passed.

Among the most important bills passed, or before the legislators are:

Wine and beer bills. Some to outlaw beer, others to raise the tax on synthetic wines to $1.00 a gallon. Five western counties are seeking legislation to outlaw both all wines and beer. A bill has passed permitting wine to be consumed at place of sale only at grade A hotels and eating places.

The bill to outlaw sale of fireworks failed but one introduced to regulate sales in Mecklenburg county was amended till 53 counties were included in its proposal. It has passed the senate.

A bill has been approved making it perfectly legal for a telephone user to cuss out a man at the other end of the line, but illegal to use such language to a woman operator.

Senator Barnes of Wake believes in big salaries. He has introduced a number of bills increasing the salaries of various Wake county employees. Two of them passed giving a $500. increase or more.

P. P. PACE HURT

Percy Pace, lumberman, was hurt in the woods near Louisburg Monday when a tree, falling, hit another tree which struck Pace, injuring his left shoulder and arm. He was rushed to a Louisburg physician who gave first aid, and was then brought home. The left arm, at this writing, has no feeling nor power of motion; but otherwise Mr. Pace seems not seriously hurt; and it is hoped that complete rest will restore him to strength.

WITH THE 78th INFANTRY IN GERMANY — It was two Infantrymen and a tank against an enemy occupied house 50 yards away. When the tank was disabled by a bazooka round from the house it was two infantrymen against the house full of enemy soldiers. When one of them was wounded rushing toward it, it was one Infantryman against a house. Supported by M-1 rifle fire from his fallen comrade, the lone fighter, Sgt. Henry Gordon of Zebulon, N. C., a 310th Infantry scout, reached the house, entered it, and captured eight prisoners.

WITH THE FIFTH INFANTRY DIVISION IN LUXEMBURG, Feb. 16. — A cedar tree which extended over the edge of the road just far enough to lock the left wheel of his jeep saved the life of T-5 William L. Williams, Zebulon, N. C., a driver with the A Company medics of the 737th Tank Bn., and S-Sgt. Frank Piler, South Carolina, a platoon sergeant with the 737th Tankers.

The accident occurred recently when an oncoming 3-4 ton truck rounded a narrow turn in the road, bordering a gorge, and threatened Williams' vehicle with a head-on collision. To avoid hitting the truck, Williams swerved sharply to the right, and the jeep hung perilously in the balance, halfway down the embankment, where the tree miraculously impeded the downward progress of the vehicle. Piler, who was sitting alongside the driver had his helmet knocked off, but locked his arms around Williams, who in turn hugged the wheel tightly. The pair climbed out unscathed.
