

Zebulon Witnesses Miracle; Record Office Is Now Moved!

NO STORY IS NECESSARY FOR THIS HEADLINE; THE WHOLE POPULATION OF ZEBULON SAW US DO THE JOB.

This, That &
The Other

By Mrs. Theo. B. Davis

Looking at a plan for a home one day last week I was amused to see that what is usually called the sitting room was, in this modern layout, called the family activity room. Years ago that term would have had great appeal for me; but today I long for a sitting room and time to sit down in it.

My thanks to my sister Annie up in Virginia, and to my pastor, Mr. Griffin. They reassured me as to President Theodore Roosevelt's daughter Ethel. Annie remembered her. Mr. Griffin, being too young for that, found her in a book.

For my part, I don't see how we can call it peace when nations that have been conquered have their territory occupied by their conquerors and are forced into obedience. That may be victory, but peace is much farther along the road. God grant we travel toward it.

From Hawaii Lt. Frances Hall sent her mother, Mrs. Ida Hall, a lei of orchids; and they were fresh when they reached Zebulon. A lei, you know, is a wreath of flowers, feathers, fringed silk, or whatever the Hawaiians choose for it. Over there a lei is worn like a necklace. Mrs. Hall did not wear hers, but obligingly took it around in its box for friends to see and help enjoy the beauty of the small orchids.

If I were young, I'd make myself a lei to wear to a party, using whatever flowers were to be had. It would be a lovely change from the corsages we've worn so long.

Right now it seems there's not much use trying to write this column this week, as we don't know whether we shall be able to get out the paper.

After months of work and worry and wondering the new shop is nearly enough done for the moving to begin. And the moving is something else again. Our sons, Ted and Barrie, have lassoed piece after piece of machinery and with a truck and a home-made thing resembling a big sled, have snaked the load up the street to be installed in the other place. Linotypes, the Ludlow, the Kluge (automatic press), the job press, the cutter, the electric saw, both folders, the stone-topped make-up counter, have left big, black vacant places where they stood for years. Except the Ludlow. It stood only a little over one year.

Now the big press has the boys stopped. They have taken it down to where they think the various parts can go through the door. I mean, be carried through. But Ted and Barrie can't move the parts by themselves and they have not been able to get the necessary help. When, and if, they do, their trouble has just begun; for that press has to be put back together exactly right before it will print anything again. When I look at all the rollers, wheels, cogs, pieces that slide back and forth, pieces that turn over, pieces I never saw before and hope never to see again, I feel a sickly doubt of success. My own ignorance of machinery is so profound I

Zebulon, N. C., Friday, September 14, 1945

$1.50 Per Year, In Advance

Mrs. Foster Finch Heads Local Drive

With a tribute to members of the Home Service Corps of the Wake County Chapter American Red Cross, R. A. Snow, Chairman of the Wake County Chapter, this week called upon all Red Cross volunteers to continue on the job, pointing out that the end of hostilities with Japan means no letup in local Red Cross activities.

Mrs. Foster Finch of Zebulon is assisting the Home Service Corps, which will be called upon now more than ever to assist servicemen in their claims. Mrs. Finch has given a great deal of time, both day and night, to this volunteer service, attending staff meetings in Raleigh and assuming the responsibilities of the regular Corps members. Last spring she took over the duties of Mrs. C. V. Whitley, who served in the Home Service Corps from February, 1942, until receiving news of the death of her son in action over Germany.

The Corps is composed of 13 members and has been functioning in the Wake County Chapter for more than a year. Mrs. Raymond O. Debnam is chairman and Mrs. R. C. Hoffman served as Prisoner of War representative during hostilities.

In commenting on the need for continued Red Cross service, Chairman Snow said: "The nature of our activities may change, but there will be important work to do."

Coincident with Snow's statement was this statement from Basil O'Connor of Washington, National Red Cross chairman.

"Although actual hostilities have ceased, thanks to Providential grace, the American Red Cross faces world-wide tasks. We must continue to serve our armed forces overseas for as long as the need exists. Red Cross services to hospitalized servicemen and veterans must be stepped up to keep pace with demands. Our chapter must be prepared for all emergencies, such as disaster, and must build up and strengthen their peacetime programs."

This brief outline of National Red Cross policy, Snow said, means no relaxation in the local Chapter's efforts. In fact, many of the organization's services, such as the Home Service Corps, gradually will expand.

"In the years ahead, veterans' claims upon the Government will increase," Snow said. "The Red Cross is one of several agencies authorized by the Government to handle such claims for hospitalization, pensions, and other legal benefits. Assistance to families of veterans, as well as those of servicemen, also will claim a large share of Red Cross effort."

fear my sons may be tainted with it.

But maybe they can get help. Maybe they can even get a machinist. Maybe we'll all live to get out of this shop and into the other one. You'll know part of it, at least, by the time you see this—if you see it at all.

DANIEL SPEAKS AT SCHOOL OPENING ON LAST TUESDAY

'Twas Quite Nice

One of the few pleasures of moving the Record shop equipment was the courtesy of M. E. Martin and L. J. Clark of the Southern Bell Telephone Company. They seemed to take a personal interest in taking out and re-installing the phone. Thanks to the company and to its efficient employees.

Six Year Old Child Fatally Hurt by Car

George Philip Morgan, six years old, was fatally injured when struck by an automobile last Saturday afternoon. He died in Rex Hospital Sunday night. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the home of his aunt, Mrs. J. R. McSwain, of Route 2, with whom he lived.

The child is said to have started to cross the highway, when the car, driven by Cleveland Perry, colored, of near Zebulon, struck him.

A coroner's inquest was held Wednesday.

A small daughter of Mrs. McSwain was bitten by a poisonous snake only about a week before the death of the little nephew. The family has the sympathy of the entire community.

Emma Jean Pace Phi Beta Kappa

Miss Emma Jean Pace, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Pace, has been awarded membership in the Duke University chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, national scholarship fraternity. This is an outstanding honor, bringing credit not only to Miss Pace, but to Wakelton school, of which she is an alumna. She returns this week to Duke, where she is a member of the senior class.

BITS O' BUSINESS

Quicksilver mining nears a 10-year low in California after soaring in the war years. Government stockpile of several thousand flasks may be drawn on by manufacturers for civilian use before mining activity again rises. . . . House Ways and Means Committee statisticians figure $25 weekly unemployment compensation is equal to $36 in wages because it is non-taxable, does not go for work clothes, carfare and union dues. . . . U. S. will search Japan for rubber and tin stockpiles, also will rush men to Pacific to get out plantation rubber.

E. C. Daniel, Jr., London correspondent for the New York Times, addressed the student body at the opening of the Wakelton School Tuesday, September 4th. Correspondent Daniel pointed out that the most important day for a student is when he realizes why he is in school. His description of events in London, France, and Germany during and after the war were very interesting.

The enrollment for the first day was 682 pupils, 50 more than last year's first day enrollment. On the second day the enrollment jumped to 696.

The list of the teachers is as follows: Mrs. Lois Moore Wall; Mrs. Eva Harris Page, Mrs. Ruby Stell Studdert, Miss Daisy Deane Hardison, Mrs. Mary Goodson Lowry, Miss Lillie Mozelle Rogers, Mrs. G. E. Winston, Miss Mary Evelyn Thompson, Miss Annie Lou Alston, Mrs. Helen S. Gregory, Mrs. Ena Dell Anderson, Mrs. Frances Barrett Massey, Mrs. F. E. Bunn, Mrs. Mary Iva Gay Collier, Mrs. Cliffie E. Hobgood, Miss Mary Rachel Bright, Mrs. Doris Horton Privette, Miss Lowney Olive, Miss Dorothy Brake, Miss Mary Lacy Palmer, Mr. Ed Ellington, Mr. R. F. Lowry, principal.
