

THE ZEBULON RECORD

Volume 24. Number 36

Zebulon, N. C., Friday, October 17, 1947

Theo. Davis Sons, Telephone 2561

Well, here they are, folks. Almost any day now you're going to see someone walk down Arendell Avenue dressed like one of these young ladies, and we figured you need advance warning—otherwise you may think you've pulled a Rip Van Winkle trick, and slept since 1910. Personally we think they're pretty silly looking, but the ladies in New York are wearing these styles; and so, therefore, will be the ladies in Zebulon.

County Health Officer Lifts Township's Dog Quarantine

By A. C. Bulla, M. D., Wake County Health Officer

During the greater part of the time since July 16, 1945, part of Wake County has been under quarantine against rabies, and since July 16, 1947, all of Wake County has been under quarantine. However, for sometime most of the reports of rabies infection have been limited to four sections of the county.

It appears now that we have reached the point where quarantine can be lifted, with the hope that there will be no further reports of rabies in unusual numbers.

In lifting this quarantine which will become effective Wednesday, October 8, 1947 at twelve o'clock noon, I wish to thank the public for its cooperation in this effort to help stamp out rabies. This can only be done by strict cooperation on the part of dog owners in controlling dogs under their supervision. In lifting quarantine, it is hoped that the public will understand that it still has a responsibility in the proper care of dogs; that the law enforcement officers still have authority to take into custody any dog on which license has not been paid and which does not wear an identification tag. The law enforcement officers also have the authority to enforce the law against vicious dogs which reads as follows: "Confinement or leashing of vicious dogs: When an animal becomes vicious and a

State Fair to Last for Two More Days; Horton Takes Hog Prizes

North Carolina's 1947 State Fair, which got under way Tuesday morning, is presenting some of the finest farm and commercial exhibits ever seen in this State, according to Zebulon residents who have toured the packed exhibit halls.

The fair will continue through Saturday night. The big feature Saturday will be auto races sanctioned by the American Automobile Association, starting at 1:30 o'clock. A colorful Broadway musical revue is offered at the grandstand each night. On the midway is the World of Mirth Shows, featuring 50 rides and shows.

Agricultural exhibits at the fair include the Poland China hog show of Pet Horton of Zebulon, Route 4. As usual, Mr. Horton is a prize winner.

Many local men are operating restaurant concessions at the fair, including Wade Privette, Jack Mitchell and L. E. Huddleston.

Chamber of Commerce Boosting Zebulon's Beef-Raising Program

Tons of Dried Eggs Are Given to Lunchrooms In North Carolina

A nutritional boost in the way of nearly a third of a million pounds of dried eggs has been given the school lunch program in North Carolina, which includes Wakelon, Wendell, Bunn, and Corinth-Holders Schools, the State Department of Agriculture has announced.

Nine solid carloads of dried eggs, totaling 310,000 pounds—the equivalent of about 950,000 dozen shell eggs—have been allocated to the State for its school lunchrooms, to be used in enriching the noonday diet of North Carolina school children. The first shipments are expected this week.

The eggs were purchased by the U. S. Department of Agriculture through its price supporting operations, and contributed to the lunchroom program. Distribution of such food commodities is handled by the State Department of Agriculture.

Mrs. Dewey Massey, manager of the cafeteria at Wakelon, stated that the dried eggs will prove a godsend, in view of the curtailed federal aid program for lunchrooms.

Zebulon Ginners Urge More Cotton Planting

Wake County farmers were urged this week by George T. Ashford, Red Springs, President of the Carolinas Ginners Association, to plan now to plant to cotton some of the 6,769 acres that will be idle next year in Wake County by reduced flue-cured tobacco allotments.

With an expected 20 percent blanket reduction in flue-cured allotments in 1948, Wake's tobacco allotment will be reduced from 33,849 acres to approximately 27,080 acres, Ashford said. Tobacco farmers, he added, would be wise to investigate the possibility of taking up a good portion of the reduced acreage with cotton.

Cotton is second only to tobacco as a cash crop in North Carolina, it was further pointed out by F. D. Finch and J. R. Alford, local ginners.

"Inventories of cotton manufacturers are more depleted than in many years," Finch said, "and cotton can be planted without a complete change in farming operations. We are proud of the improved living standard of our farm people, and we cannot afford to stand by and face a 20 percent reduction in cash income, which will amount to approximately $3,417,300 for Wake County at present tobacco prices (Continued on Page 5)

Johnston Associational WMU to Hold Meeting At Pine Level Monday

Carload of Beef Cattle Sold Here in Three Days by Committee

Placement of beef cattle on the farms of the Zebulon trade area is already successfully underway, President C. V. Whitley of the local Chamber of Commerce said yesterday. The first car of heifers and steers has been ordered through County Agent J. L. Reitzel, and its sale has been oversubscribed.

Mr. Reitzel met with the Livestock Promotion Committee of the Chamber of Commerce last Friday night, and explained the method of buying the beef cattle, which are expected to sell from $85 to $110 per head. Present at the meeting in the Theo. Davis Sons building were Reitzel, President Whitley, Chairman Bob Sawyer of the livestock committee, Ed Ellington, Cashier R. Vance Brown of the Peoples Bank & Trust Company, Ralph Talton, and Ferd Davis.

After the plan to bring cattle to this area in an effort to augment farm income—certain to be lower next year because of cuts in tobacco acreage—was given the committee, Brown offered to finance the program from the time the cattle were first purchased until they are delivered in Zebulon. He stated that his offer, which was accepted by the Chamber of Commerce, was in line with his bank's policy of helping its own business by helping the farmer's business.

Bookmobile to Make Next Visit To Zebulon Monday, October 27

By Clyde Smith

Make note of these two books to read:

The Bright Promise by Richard Sherman. This novel deals with those twelve years, 1933-1945, which historians have already titled "the Roosevelt Era." But if this is a history, it is the history of a heart—the heart and ever-human spirit of Amy Ellery, whose story this is and who tells it as only she could have told it. It is a story of many things; of a man and a woman; of a marriage; of a time; and of what that time did to them. Turning its pages is like turning the pages of the recent past—so near and yet is forever gone—and more than one reader will be likely to nod his head in confirmation and say "That was true. All of it I saw. Part of it I was." For this is the stuff of which lives—many lives—were made.
