

Telephone Building Is Near Completion

(Continued from Page 1) that these lines have been surveyed and that work has started. The building on Horton Avenue is constructed with 13-inch walls of brick, no windows, but with an abundance of electrical outlets and lights. It is soundproofed inside to absorb the noise. The telephone lines will be run underground from the new building to the telephone post across the street so no poles will be erected around the new building. Besides new telephones, the additional circuits in the new exchange will eliminate present party lines, giving each subscriber individual listings.

Recipe for Clean Clothes— 1 load soiled clothes, lukewarm water for soaking, hot water (soft or softened), 1 to 2 cups soap, 1 lukewarm rinse, 1 cold rinse, starch (if desired). Soak clothes 15 minutes in lukewarm water with or without soap depending on how soiled they are. Fill the washing machine or tubs with hot, soft water, add enough soap for two-inch standing suds. If you have no machine, use a plunger to agitate the clothes, then boil five to 15 minutes. Wring clothes from soaking water and put in washing machine (or tub if no machine is available) and wash five to 15 minutes. Rinse in hot, soapy water, then in lukewarm water, and finally in cool water, using plenty of water.

Omit Ironing If You Wish — Turkish towels are more absorbent if not ironed. Most nylon garments dry with a very satisfactory finish and do not require ironing. Dry seersucker garments on hangers, smoothing and shaping while wet, then only seams need to be pressed. Stretch curtains, if possible, and press hems only. Some busy homemakers press only the hems of sheets to save time and ironing effort.
