Hints for Homemakers

By Ruth Current. If you have a tough time breaking in a new pair of shoes don't blame it on the shoe altogether.

Pediatricists say their files are full of case histories of people who have been wearing wrong size shoes for years.

Perhaps you would like to have these rules issued by a foot specialist when you buy your next pair of shoes: (1) Never tell the salesman your size and let it go at that.

(3) Examine the materials of the shoe carefully. Are the uppers made of soft leather which won't constrict on your feet?

(4) Make sure the shoes are roomy in the front part and snug at the heel. You should be able to wiggle your toes freely inside the shoes.

Be sure clothes are entirely dry before packing them for summer travel, clothing specialists warn. If clothes are even slightly damp from pressing or from a humid atmosphere, they will wrinkle very badly in a suitcase and may even mildew.

It's a wise precaution to take a look at stored clothing occasionally during the summer to be sure no mildew has started.
