

WAKEFIELD

We are happy to know the children's classes will reopen next Sunday for Sunday School at ten o'clock. Hope all can come. We have missed you all so much. This world is dreary and lone when the children are not home.

The Young People's Union will start classes at 6:30 p.m. on Sunday. Preaching at 7:30 p.m. As many as will come. We want to make a good start after the shut down.

We are very happy that little Jimmy Hodge is improving now after a spell of Poison Oak and blood poison. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Rev. John McCrimmon called to see him Monday. He was taken back to see Dr. Root today and he said he would have to take it easy a few more days and not go to School.

We are glad to hear that Dr. Clarence Corbett did not have polio as it was reported in Sunday's paper. (He was discharged Monday and went home.) He is the husband of Mildred Broughton, one of our home town girls.

Mrs. E. W. Hood has gone to Raleigh with her daughter, Mrs. Donnie Gay, for a few days and is going home with Edward Hood on Thursday for a stay up there in the mountains.

Mrs. E. V. Hood spent the weekend with her brother, Elvis Phillips, last week end. She is spending some time with Mrs. Vera Rhodes now. Mr. Hood is in Canada curing tobacco.

We are glad to hear Mrs. Kimball is better; also Mr. Tommy Baker is much better. We are glad.

Our heartfelt sympathy goes out to Mr. Durwood Stallings and family in the loss of his dearly beloved wife. It was a beautiful funeral and more pretty flowers than we could count. It's wonderful to be loved by everybody without the loss of one.

Mrs. L. J. Glover has been on our sick list, but is much improved. Miss Alma Cone is still at her mother's, Mrs. L. J. Glover.

We are sorry to know little Jack Faulkner was run over and hurt very badly last Saturday. He had a broken back and ribs and a cut on the head. He has a very slim chance to live. He is the 12 year old fice dog of the Faulknors.

Mr. W. S. Broughton went fishing the tenth and caught 13 big fish. He was lucky. I would like to have helped. I rather catch them than eat them when I am hungry.

We are sorry to hear of the bad fire Mr. Clarence Horne had. He lost his barns and 2 mules they say.

I sure am sorry the price of the tobacco has dropped off. I hope it will be selling good again as soon as possible.

Mrs. Lyda Bridges and Edith have already gone to teach. She is down on the coast somewhere. Will tell you when I find out.

God bless you all till we meet again. Good night.

—Vera Rhodes

Jr. Woman's Club

The Junior Woman's Club will hold its first meeting of the year on Tuesday night, September 21, at 8:00 p.m. at the club house. Miss Miriam Joyner, Wake County Assistant Home Demonstration Agent, will be a guest for the meeting. Mrs. George Temple will present the program and Mrs. Charles Hawkins will be hostess.

Birth Announced

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Todd of Norfolk, Va., announce the birth of a daughter, Brinder Fay, weight 8 pounds 12 ounces, on September ninth.

New Adhesive Tape

A revolutionary type of adhesive plaster has been developed, according to E. C. Daniel; owner of the Zebulon Drug Company, Rexall store here.

The adhesive plaster contains ingredients which are normal components of human perspiration and which minimize skin irritation.

The adhesive plaster, called Pro-Cap, is named for the principal ingredients which are fatty acid salts of zinc propionate and zinc capulate.

Mr. Daniel said that the origin of the new adhesive plaster lies in scientific investigations conducted over a period of four years in which it was noted that human perspiration played a vital role as a protective mantle against infection and fungus growth.

The local druggist who credited the Rexall Drug Company, Los Angeles, California, with a major part of this new development, said that principal beneficiaries of the discovery will be convalescents in hospitals and homes who require adhesive plaster for surgical dressings or corrective treatments.

The new adhesive plaster can be applied for long periods without irritation to the skin of patients under treatment, Mr. Daniel explained. It is now on sale at his drugstore.

THIS, THAT, & THE OTHER

The last part of this column was left out last week, and we received so many complaints that we reset it for you this week.

The young men who are being called by the draft these days have my sincere sympathy when they must give up plans for work or schooling. But the time spent in service may be made profitable, if this is desired. My oldest son told me a story that is striking proof of what may be done.

Eric was teaching in the Post Schools at Schofield Barracks some time before the second World War. Frequently he came in contact with a soldier who was usually partially intoxicated and generally unhappy. One day Eric remonstrated with this man, saying he would rather see a person get dead drunk once in a while and get over it than to see one always half drunk. The soldier replied that he had nothing to occupy his time after military duties were done. Asked why he did not read, he said he tried a book once and did not like it.

Eric thought a poor selection might have been made and recommended trying another book, offering to help choose it. The soldier liked this one and asked for advice on more reading. Eric found he was hunting on the globe in the library for places mentioned in his reading, and that he was learning both English and Geography.

Next he became interested in leather work, and wanted to know if he might join a class and learn this trade. At that time the classes were as large as was permitted; but my son offered to take the new applicant as a helper in some work he was doing on private orders. He learned rapidly, and by this time had practically stopped drinking. Finally he said he wanted to buy a set of tools of his own so that when his term of service was over he might come back to the states and "be somebody."

Eric secured for him orders for articles he could make, and the money for the tools was earned and paid. When he was leaving Hawaii he said proudly, "I've got a education and a trade."

He went to his home town in Pennsylvania and soon had a shop of his own. I saw a letter from him which said, "I'm doing good. I am married now and have got a fine trade in my shop. And when you come back to this country I want you to come to see us and stay as long as you will. I want my wife and friends to see you."

But Eric went to the Philippines, war came and he did not come back. I have lost the name and address of this one of his friends, but I love to think about him and his work.

Finch-Lee Marriage

Miss Evelyn Lee, daughter of Mrs. W. V. Lee and the late Mr. Lee, Zebulon, Route 1, became the bride of James A. Finch, son of Mrs. A. P. Finch and the late Mr. Finch of Bailey, Saturday evening, September 11th, in the Friendship Baptist Church. Rev. M. E. Godwin of Dunn officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Miss Jean Glover of Bailey pianist, and Clyde Finch, brother of the bridegroom, soloist, presented a program of wedding music.

Jack Farmer, of Bailey was best man and ushers were Charles Hawkins, Zebulon, and Fenton Strickland of Middlesex.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Marvin C. Lee, wore a white gabardine suit with navy accessories. She carried a prayer book, showered with a bouquet of red roses and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Ted Milan, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a blue-grey gabardine suit with navy accessories and carried a nosegay of yellow asters. Miss Frances Lee, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a pink suit with navy accessories, and carried a nosegay identical to the matron of honor.

After the ceremony, the bridal couple left on a trip to Asheville and other points of interest. For traveling, the bride wore a natural suit and a corsage of red roses from the bridal bouquet.

Following the rehearsal Friday night, Mrs. Ted Millan and Mrs. Charles Hawkins, sisters of the bride, entertained at a cake cutting at the home of the brides' mother, honoring the wedding party and friends.

The home was decorated with late summer flowers. The table was covered with a lace table cloth, centered with a bowl of mixed flowers and green and white burning tapers in crystal holders. The decorated wedding cake was served by the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. A. P. Finch, after the bridal couple cut the first slice. Mrs. Rachel Coates served nuts and Mrs. Wilber Lewis served mints. Mrs. Charles Hawkins presided at the punch bowl. Approximately 50 guests were present.

Ida Fisher Society

The Ida Fisher Society of the Methodist Church met with Mrs. W. D. Finch. Mrs. D. M. Fidler had charge of the program. Mrs. Marshall Jones, Mrs. Garland Richardson and Mrs. R. E. Kitchings gave interesting talks on the World Council of Churches.

Mrs. Pearl Massey, secretary-treasurer gave a report. Twelve members were present.
