

IT TAKES A ZEBULON MAN TO CATCH THE BIG FISH

Talk about landing big fish, well, Zebulon folks always seem to know how to drag them out of the water, and E. C. Daniel is no exception. He journeyed down to Morehead City for a fishing trip, and landed the largest catch of the day. In case you have trouble recognizing him, he's second from the right.

This, That, and the Other tea kettle was too full of leaves and twigs to hold much more was it entirely emptied for the process to begin all over again. Indians are said to have taught the early colonists how to use this shrub, which is a species of holly.

An ancient writer of proverbs listed four things as too wonderful for him to understand: "The way of an eagle in the air; the way of a serpent upon a rock; the way of a ship in the midst of the sea; and the way of a man with a maid."

If that ancient had been here last week he might probably have added to those numbered above the way of a citizen of the United States with a ballot in his hand. To this Mr. Gallup and others would probably agree.

Never am I invited to take a meal with friends or to make a talk anywhere that it does not seem imperative for me to dye something or work in dirt—or both—that day. I was getting up gladiolas last week when Mrs. Howard Massey asked my husband and me to supper with them, the Exum Chamblees and Mrs. Harper being other friends there for the meal.

The gladiols had to be looked after. Not having been taken up last fall, they were in sad shape, and moles had already begun eating the corms. Gladiolas multiply by splitting into two or more smaller corms or by forming numerous tiny ones at the base of the first. The really ambitious ones do both. As a rule the old part dries up, but sometimes it rots and the infection spreads to the young growth. That is one reason why they should be taken up every year or two. And it is much better to remove the dead or dying corm from the new ones. After curing until all foliage is dry enough to come off easily, we are advised to place the corms in paper bags and sprinkle naphthalene flakes over them to stay about ten days. This is to kill thrip, which might otherwise ruin the bloom next year. When the naphthalene is shaken off the corms may be stored in a box. They are easy to keep, as light freezing does not kill them; but should not be kept in too warm a place.

The tiny bulblets—if you prefer that name to corms—should be put in the ground as early as possible in spring; some will have small spikes of bloom in late summer, and all will bloom the second year. And there may now be something better to use than naphthalene.

Recently I read an article which declared we do not use our subconscious minds as we might and should. The writer said he never worries over anything forgotten; just puts his subconscious to work on it and goes about something else. He was rather technical, which I couldn't be; but I decided to try it for myself. It worked pretty well a few times; and then I persisted in staying awake one night and was saying poetry to myself and suddenly remembered part of one not seen for more than forty years, it seemed a real test of my subconscious mind to order it to find the first stanza of that poem, not one word of which I could recall. I fell asleep finally, and next morning as I stooped to pull on a stocking, plain as could be there came before my mind's eye a page of the Delineator with that poem on the last column of the left-hand page just as I had first seen it; and I began repeating:

"Beyond the reach of sky and sea; Beyond the touch of hand." That's the truth; but please don't ask me how it was done.

PLEASANT HILL

Hephzibah Baptist Church, Joe F. Roach, pastor, will have Sunday School at 10 o'clock in the morning and worship at 11 o'clock. In the evening B.T.U. will be at 6:30 and regular services at 7:30. We had present for last Sunday 168. We need that many more. Please come. The church needs you and you need the church services.

In spite of the heavy rain Wednesday night a goodly number was present for the Harvest Day at Hephzibah. Around noon the sun came out and those that brought parasols for rain used them instead for the sunshine. A large table was spread in the basement. There was enough food to feed many more. A table was loaded on the church ground with produce for sale, such as corn, hay, cotton seed meal, hogs, chickens, and many other items. We think the collection was some over twenty-three hundred dollars.

Most of the farmers have their crops in except some fields of cotton which are waiting for the cotton pickers to pick their cotton. I think while they wait they are losing weight.

We have a real grocery store that comes by our door twice a week now. Mr. Julian Johnson carries anything you need from chewing gum to 100 pound bags of feed.

Mr. Willard Gay was in a wreck a few weeks ago and was in the hospital but is at home now and getting on fine.

We are sorry Lawrence Puryear, son of A. O. Puryear, is on the sick list.

We are glad to report Mr. Clifton Carter is home from the hospital and also Mr. Roscoe Perry. Both are getting on fine.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfonza Starnes, Mr. and Mrs. T. Y. Puryear, Sr.,

Mr. and Mrs. John Carter and Mr. and Mrs. J. Q. Pearce attended the wedding of Mr. David Moody and Miss Dorothy Wall at Rolesville Church last Friday evening at 7:30.

Our sympathy goes out to the relatives of Mr. Ronald Perry, who was killed in a wreck a few weeks ago. Also Mr. and Mrs. Robert Allen Perry have our sympathy in the death of their baby last week. Also Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Haswell in the death of Mrs. Haswell's father, Mr. Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. Lennie Liles have returned from a visit in the mountains.

Mrs. E. W. Hood spent the week end in Raleigh with her daughter, Mrs. D. A. Gay.

Mrs. T. Y. Puryear spent Wednesday afternoon with her daughter, Mrs. L. H. Williford of Bethany.

Mr. T. Y. Puryear, L. H. Williford, A. O. Puryear and Maynard Puryear went on a deer hunt Monday of last week around Manches-ter.

Mrs. Ruth Puryear and children spent the week end with her mother, Mrs. Joseph Allen of Selma.

Mrs. T. Y. Puryear.
