BUICK FROM STEM TO STERN

This sturdy looking bumper and grille combination graces the front end of the complete line of 1950 Buick automobiles. Other distinctive features are the full taper-through front fenders, wrap-around bumpers with bomb-shaped bumper guards housing the parking light and direction signal indicators in front, and back-up lights in the rear, and identifying name plates on the front fenders. The cars have completely new bodies, and a new and more powerful engine is under the graceful hood of the new Super sedan shown above.

Left-overs Make Problem For Refrigerator Owner

I wonder if other couples have the same trouble with left-overs that Judy and I experience. When we purchased our refrigerator, we decided to look to future needs and get one large enough for several increases in the size of the family. An 11-foot refrigerator would serve the purpose perfectly, we thought.

The first time we looked inside, it seemed that, that refrigerator was the emptiest thing man had ever created. Except for a pound of butter and a dozen eggs, the shelves were bare. We wondered how and when they would be filled.

We don't wonder about such things any more, because every one of these shelves is littered with little bowls of this and small dabs of that. It's food too good to throw away, and yet not enough for a serving.

Frequent meals of brunswick stew and hash help solve the problem, but not entirely. The left-overs are gaining on us and it may be that we'll have to purchase another refrigerator to hold them all.

How come Monday mornings have to roll around so often. I dread them like nothing else. By Tuesday I'm getting in the swing of the week's work, and Wednesday and Thursday I'm so busy I don't have time to think about anything else. Friday and Saturday I don't mind working because I'm figuring out how to spend Sunday afternoon (usually at home). But Mondays turn up so often they spoil the routine.

I'm dosing myself with anti-histamine tablets four times daily according to the directions on the bottle. If all the magazine articles are true, a cold should not come within a half mile of me. Flu hit me last November and several could have occupied me since then — but none in the two weeks I have been dosing myself. I can't say definitely that the anti-histamine pills are doing their job, but I am afraid to stop taking them because they might be.

If these little tablets work as they are supposed to work, then I'll be satisfied. If they keep me from missing one day from work, a full winter's supply will be paid for.

Rotarians Hear Housing Problems, Suggestion for Community Council

Members of the Zebulon Rotary Club devoted the regular program time to business last Friday night, much to the relief of Barrie Davis, who was to speak as a substitute for Ferd Davis, home sick in bed with influenza. The problem of meals, maintenance of the Woman's Club house, and several other matters occupied the attention of the members.

The Rotarians decided to purchase some needed utensils for the club kitchen, and appointed members of the club service committee to supervise the buying.

The problem of the maintenance of the club house occupied most of the time. Members of the Rotary Club brought out the problems encountered by the Senior Woman's Club, telling of the Scout and youth organizations which use the building without charge. The Senior Woman's Club is the owner of the building, having purchased it years ago.

President Willie B. Hopkins appointed the Directors of the Rotary Club as a committee to meet with the Senior Woman's Club in February to discuss the problem with them.

Rev. Carlton Mitchell suggested a Community Council composed of the presidents of the civic organizations, the Woman's Clubs, the pastors of the churches, and the heads of the Masons, Eastern Star, Woodmen of the World, and other groups, which would direct the activities of the different organizations in community activities, eliminating duplication of services and efforts.

Rev. R. H. Herring gave his report for the March of Dimes. He lauded the Lions Club for the contribution they were making in the campaign, and suggested that the Rotary Club could do something along the same line. The weather, he said, had hindered the efforts of his solicitors.

March of Dimes Drive Making Good Progress, Says Chairman Herring

The March of Dimes campaign is making favorable progress, according to Rev. R. H. Herring, chairman of the drive. People in the community are realizing the need of funds to fight the crippling disease and are contributing liberally, he added.

Jimmy Wiggs, manager of Wakelon Theatre, says that the 1950 March of Dimes trailer, "More than Ever Before," starring June Allyson, is being shown each night through January 30 at the Wakelon Theatre.

The film trailer is a graphic and gripping portrayal of how the contributed funds of the American people are used to combat outbreaks of infantile paralysis. In four minutes of running time, the heart-rending story is told of how polio strikes its unsuspecting victims and how the county chapters of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis finance prompt care and treatment to end the story on a note of hope for recovered health.

The theatre manager said that contributions are being collected for the local campaign at the theatre, and he estimated that through Monday over $75.00 was received.

Although no quota or goal for Zebulon has been set, Chairman Herring said, his solicitors are making an effort to raise a record amount of money. He urged contributions of dollars, rather than pennies and dimes.

Organization Meeting For Legion to Be Tonight

A short meeting will be held tonight at 7:30 in the Theo. Davis Sons office to select a name and temporary officers for the proposed American Legion Post for Zebulon. Enough applications have been received for the local post to make application for a temporary charter, and Legion headquarters in Raleigh have promised to issue a charter promptly as soon as an application is received.

First membership applications were received from Carl Matheny, Thurman Hepler, Frank Massey, Gordon Temple, Carl Kemp, Ferd Davis, Patrick O. Farmer, Ralph Bunn, Raymond Massey, and Barrie Davis.

The post will be named in honor of some veteran for this community who lost his life in the recent conflict. Since the only business will be selecting two officers and a name, the meeting will last only 15 minutes.

WOW Camp to Meet On Wednesday Night

Little River Camp of the Woodmen of the World will hold its regular meeting Wednesday night, January 25, according to Consul Commander Thurman Hepler. He urged all Woodchoppers to be present to that plans for the coming year may be discussed.

Financial Secretary Claud Dunn asked that members of the camp turn in names of persons who are interested in joining the fraternity so that District Representative R. N. Hood may contact them.

Forty Game Schedule To Begin This Week For Semi-Pro Cagers

A schedule of 40 games has been drawn up for the five members of the Little River Semi-Pro Basketball League, with each of the teams playing two games each week during the eight weeks of the regular season. The schedule was announced by Barris Davis, league commissioner, on Sunday.

This week's games include Zebulon at Knightdale and Wendell at Zebulon. Dates for these games have not been made, but it is likely that Zebulon's home game will be played Saturday night.

Other games this week are Bailey at Wendell, Youngsville at Bailey, and Knightdale at Youngsville.

Managers of the five teams will form a Board of Directors which will rule the league. When the team rosters are received February 1, the Directors will rule on the eligibility of each player.

At the end of the regular season, a tournament to decide the league champion will be held in the Wakelon gymnasium. Standings at the end of the season will determine seedings.

Managers of the five teams are: W. C. Harrell, Jr., Knightdale; J. R. Stone, Bailey; Marvin Roberts, Youngsville; Dolphin Griffin, Wendell; and Jimmy Spivey, Zebulon. Rev. Carlton Mitchell is serving the Board of Directors in an advisory capacity.

Battery Strength Goes Over 50 with Transfer Of Recruit Pete O'Neal

The transfer of Recruit Pete Abner O'Neal from HQ Company, 30th Division, brought the strength of Battery A back to 49 men, Sfc. Clifford Gilliam announced yesterday. The transfer has been in the mill for over a month, and Sfc. Gilliam received orders on it late last week. The administrative assistant said that if the replacement for Sgt. George Henry Temple goes through, the battery will have 50 enlisted men. Sgt. Temple was discharged two weeks ago.

Sgt. Gordon Temple is preparing his schedule of instruction for the ammunition section, which will begin at the first drill in February. He will head the ammunition section in addition to his duties as machine gun sergeant.

First Lieutenant William Shore assumed his duties as assistant executive officer last night. A veteran with infantry experience, he will also serve as mess and motor officer, and will head the wire and radio sections. Lt. Shore is a law student at Wake Forest College, and a native of Winston-Salem.

A definite date for the entertainment of wives and guests of the members of Battery A has not been set, but Capt. Barrie Davis said it would take place within two weeks. Included on the program will be an exhibition of the weapons and equipment used by members of the unit.

S-Sergeant James Cone Receives Marine Diploma

Marine Staff Sergeant James Cone, son of Mrs. U. V. Chamblee, of Middlesex, N. C., received his diploma from the Noncommissioned Officers Leaders' Course at recent graduation exercises at Camp Lejeune.

Designed to train leaders for units of the Second Marine Division, the four-week course stresses leadership, tactics, and the technique of instructing troops in the complex skills of modern warfare.

Sgt. Cone's wife is the former Adelaide Newlin, of Mebane, N. C.

National Youth Week Observance Starts in Churches Next Sunday

Thousands of young people in Zebulon and throughout the nation will lead and participate in Protestant church services next Sunday (Jan. 29) and through the following week in celebration of National Youth Week, according to Dr. Isaac K. Beckes, executive secretary of the United Christian Youth Movement.

Some will preach. Others will read the Scripture or lead in prayer. Many will sing and otherwise take the places usually occupied by the minister and lay adults.

In many churches the young people will occupy the major offices of the church during the week, serving as chairmen and members of committees and taking the places of deacons, trustees, stewards, and other officials.

These activities are part of the nationwide observance of National Youth Week, which is being celebrated on a wide, unified basis for the seventh year.

Becoming increasingly popular,

the celebration is sponsored by the United Christian Youth Movement and its 40 member denominations, 38 church and youth state councils, and 18 national youth-serving agencies.

"God Designs — Youth Build!" is the topic for the 1950 celebration.

The youth observance begins with Denominational Day on Sunday, January 29 and closes with Interdenominational Day on February 5. Appropriate worship services for each occasion are provided.

Encouraging the widespread practice of having youth members lead church services and events, Dr. Beckes points out that this year special emphasis will also be given to Bible study, leadership education, visitation, a community-wide social event, family night, church night, and youth fellowship night. Special resource material is provided by the U. C. Y. M. and cooperating denominations.
