Crutches, braces, special equipment and other facilities, as well as camps like this, are essential for the treatment of many crippled children. You help Pete and every youngster in your community when you buy and use Easter Seals. They're on sale now at The Zebulon Record office.

Gordon Temple Named Local Scoutmaster

A special meeting will be held in the Boy Scout hut on Vance Street at 7:30 Tuesday night, Scoutmaster Gordon Temple announced last night, and all boys 11 years old and older are invited to register for membership in the Boy Scouts. Members of the Rotary Scout Committee will be present to help with the registration. The new Scoutmaster was appointed at a special meeting held Wednesday night with the Occaneechee Council assistant executive, Douglas Kelly, in attendance. Besides Scoutmaster Temple and Mr. Kelly, present at the Wednesday night meeting were Chairman Barrie Davis, Craven Brown, and J. P. Arnold.

The assistant executive agreed to re-register the Zebulon troop as of January 1, of this year so that old members of the troop would not lose their continuous membership standing. The 1949 troop charter expired December 31 of last year.

Meetings of the troop will be held on Tuesday night of each week, under the supervision of the Scoutmaster and members of the Scout committee. The court of honor, at which promotions and awards will be made, will be held in Zebulon each month, which will eliminate the necessity of transporting the Scouts to Raleigh.

Craven Brown will serve as assistant Scoutmaster under Gordon Temple, and J. P. Arnold and Barrie Davis will be advisers for the Explorer Scouts, who are 14 years and older. The Explorers will meet with the troop, but each month this group will hold a special meeting by themselves.

The new Scoutmaster urged men in the community to give their assistance in making the troop a successful project.

Three Appear on Club Program Here

A program of special merit was presented at the March meeting of the Woman's Club on Tuesday afternoon.

Presented by Mrs. L. M. Massey, Charles Horton, graduate student at Westminster Choir College, Princeton, N. J., gave a brief history of the college's founding and purpose. He emphasized the fact that its sole purpose is to increase the understanding and value of sacred music in church services and to train musicians for this work. By special request Mr. Horton played a piano solo, choosing a medley of popular airs.

Mrs. Jethro Stell gave a practical and interesting discussion of growing flowers for home decoration, citing personal experiences in planning her own grounds. She also gave advice on choosing plants for growth in the house. Decorative illustration was provided by a vase of mixed varieties of narcissus, a pot of crocus and one of Chinese strawberry, all brought by the speaker.

Miss Rebecca Talbert of Wake- lon's faculty made a short talk on some phases of her work in special education, explaining that much of its success is due to the cooperation of grade teachers, who share in responsibility for the children in Miss Talbert's room. Club women share in the community's pride in having the only rural school in the state which has this type of teaching, and appreciated hearing it defined.

SPRING CLEAN-UP ADVISED BY FARM AGENT

"With the coming of spring the earth takes on a new look which means that we should help nature by making it clean-up time around the farm," County Agent John L. Reitzel of the State College Extension Service said this week.

A few hours spent now to clean out the hazards may result in the saving of many days during the busy season later on, the farm agent asserted.

"A place for everything and everything in its place" is the primary safety rule emphasized by the National Safety Council. Disorder is responsible for putting one out of every five accident victims in the hospital.

County Agent Rietzel offered the following clean-up hints for farm families:

Gather and dispose of all tin cans.

Dispose of all broken glass.

Pick up all loose wire. It's easier to find before grass and weeds have grown.

Check and repair fences.

Fix gates so they swing easily.

Clean up feed rooms, graineries, corn cribs, wood sheds, etc.

Put the farm shop in order.

Don't provide hiding places for rats or breeding places for insects.

Burn all refuse, including branches pruned from trees.

Apply paint where needed.

Principal Fred Smith Attends Special Education Term

Principal Fred Smith of Wake- lon School returned to Zebulon Wednesday night from Chicago where he attended the twenty-eighth annual session of the International Council for Exceptional Children on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Mr. Smith, who represented the North Carolina League for Crippled Children, the State Department of Public Instruction, and the University of North Carolina at the convention, also attended conferences on special education with teachers from America, England, South Africa, and South America.

The local principal spent a day on an inspection tour of Chicago schools where ten million dollars a year is spent by the city for the education of handicapped children. "This tour alone was worth the trip," he reported. "Results obtained by Chicago educational leaders in teaching handicapped children would be almost unbelievable unless observed at first hand."

Among special discussions attended by Mr. Smith were those on medical services and techniques, therapy for physically handicapped children, and treatment for the mentally retarded.
