Your friends and neighbors

A fellow gets to know his neighbors pretty well here in the Carolinas—and nearly always a man's neighbors are his friends.

That's the way we here at the Carolina Power and Light Company find it, and we have a lot of neighbors in the Carolinas. In fact we are home folks too — all of officers and directors are citizens of the Carolinas — all of our 1700 employees take an active interest in the community life of the 295 towns we serve. In North Carolina alone there are some 8,750 stockholders who have invested more than twenty-three million dollars in the Company. They come from every walk of life—farmers—professional people, business men—yes even widows and orphans are included. Nobody owns controlling interest—our biggest stockholder owns less than two per cent of the total shares in the Company.

The owners of Carolina Power & Light Company are folks just like you—many of them your friends and neighbors who believe in free enterprise and want to see it continued.
