LOCAL MEN NOW AT FORT JACKSON

Captain Barrie S. Davis, commanding officer of Battery A, 113th Field Artillery Battalion, National Guard unit from Zebulon, discusses a firing problem at the Fort Jackson encampment of the 30th Infantry Division with First Sergeant Sidney Holmes of Zebulon. The local Guardsmen will participate in a three-day field problem this week. Official National Guard photograph.

Reunion of Chamblee Family Held Here on Sunday, July 2

The children, grandchildren, and great grandchild of the late Ella R. and William H. Chamblee held a family reunion at the family home last Sunday. Music, songs, and games were enjoyed during the day. One of the most outstanding events of the afternoon was the singing of songs by the six brothers who had sung in the past, accompanied by their mother at the piano.

Dinner was served buffet style on the long family dining room table. Chairs and small tables were arranged outside under the trees, where the barbecue fried chicken, potato salad, sandwiches, deviled eggs, pickles, homemade cake, iced tea, and bottled drinks were enjoyed.

Members of the family are: Mrs.

S. W. Harris, an aunt of Zebulon, Mr. and Mrs. Bayard Chamblee, Asheville, Mr. W. H. (Bill) Chamblee, Hickory, Dr. and Mrs. H. Royster Chamblee and Royster Chamblee, Jr., Raleigh, Mr. and Mrs. Joe W. Chamblee, Misses Marietta and Sue Chamblee, Richmond, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Don P. Chamblee, Misses Sally and Sarah and Don Chamblee, Jr., Wavely, Va., Mrs. F. Ross Conyers and Miss Mildred Conyers, Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Conyers and Kathy Conyers, Rocky Mount, Mr. and Mrs. Guy C. Lee, Misses Ella Ann and Faye Lee, Smithfield, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Terry and Jack Terry, Mr. and Mrs. Durwood D. Chamblee, and Mr. and Mrs. Exum A. Chamblee, Zebulon.

Tar Heel Farm Facts

Infected seed often are the source of bacterial blight, a disease which sometimes causes heavy losses in commercial bean plantings in Eastern Carolina.

Fewer chickens will be raised on farms in 1950 than in 1949. Nevertheless, egg and chicken meat supplies will remain adequate. Egg production in 1950 is likely to exceed the record of 1944 while the smaller laying flock anticipated for 1951 will not reduce output of eggs enough to affect civilian consumption adversely.

RUTH CURRENT:

Farm Home Hints

Home sewers who find difficulty in putting in a zipper neatly and firmly by machine stitching may welcome the idea of sewing in zippers by hand. Clothing specialists recommend hand sewing zippers for any kind of fabric where there won't be too much strain.

The attractive results of this hand-sewn method will please the most particular women for the stitches are hardly visible on the outside. Not only good looks but a more pliable opening is achieved by hand stitching zippers. That is why the finest gowns produced in Paris and New York custom houses are made with zippers sewn in by hand, specialists say.

Newer than the small zippers introduced fairly recently are even thinner zippers. The new small zippers are being used for a really delicate effect, especially in making dainty summer sheers.

Men Commended At Fort Jackson

Fort JACKSON—Men of Battery A, 113 Field Artillery Battalion, were preparing for any eventuality as first week training for the 30th Infantry Division ended. The "Old Hickory" Division is formed of National Guard units from North Carolina and Tennessee.

Capt. Barrie S. Davis, commanding officer of Battery A, expressed his satisfaction with the training carried out by his unit.

Men Cited

Commended for the interest they have displayed in their work are Pvt. Harold C. Moss of Route 4, driver; Pfc. George R. Massey, Jr., cook; and Pvt. Ellis P. Combs of Route 4, cannoneer.

The first four days of this week are being devoted to sectional training, with every man in the battery participating. Special emphasis is being placed on the two firing sections, under Sgt. Frank Massey and Cpl. Rudolph Liles.

Lt. Henry Mangum of Henderson has been assigned as executive officer for Battery A, in the absence of Lt. Philip Pearce, who was unable to attend camp.

RECREATION PROGRAM

Much Progress Noted

By Lee Rhodes

The summer recreation program is still progressing very rapidly. More activities have been added and a greater number of people are taking part in the different activities. Plans are being made to add more facilities and the recreational leaders are hoping that even more people will come and use these added facilities.

Swimming has been added to the list of activities carried out through the program. Each Tuesday and Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock the group will assemble at the playground and will proceed from there to Tippet's. Mr. Ap-

Tippet, Record, Red Cross to Hold Swimming Classes

Zebulon folks who want to learn to swim will have an opportunity to participate in a regular American Red Cross water safety program at a local pool, according to Louis Gray and Bob Emanuel, Wake County ARC water safety workers, who have arranged through Joe Tippet and the Zebulon Record to offer such a course this summer.

Mr. Tippet has offered the Red Cross use of his pool in the mornings for beginners' instructions, and in addition offered the use of his lake for instruction of advanced swimmers.

"I am very much interested in this program," he declared, "and will let the children and other non-swimmers use my pool without charge during the Red Cross instruction hours."

Completed This Week

Mr. Gray, Wake County Water Safety Chairman, said that the program should be worked out during this week as far as dates and hours are concerned.

"We are happy to have this site, so convenient to the people of Zebulon and the surrounding community, made available to us," he declared. "This will mean that many children and adults, who could not make the long trip to other pools where Red Cross training is given, may now learn to swim."

Lee Rhodes, Zebulon recreation director, and Herbert Appenzeller, assistant director, promised their cooperation in furthering the water safety program. The two recreation workers are already carrying children to Tippet's pool two afternoon each week.

Transportation Provided

Last year the courses were held at Lake Mirl, and the Record provided transportation for 14 children taking the water training. This year the newspaper will again provide transportation for all children who have no other means to get from Zebulon to the pool on Highway 64.

Registration announcements will be made in next Friday's issue of the Record.

penzeller and Mr. Rhodes will constantly be on guard against any accidents. Classes for those who are not experienced swimmers will be held on each of these two swimming days.

Teen Night Plans

A "Teen Night" is being planned for each Friday night. The first night will be July 14th. The program will consist of folk dances, square dances, and fun for all. The time and other arrangements will be announced later.

Remember that cooperation and friendship are the "key stances" of our program and for any successful program.
