Recreation Leader Speaks of Work To Zebulon Rotary

Lee Rhodes, popular director of the Zebulon recreation program, told members of the Zebulon Rotary Club about his work at the regular meeting held Friday night in the Woman's Club. He was introduced by Program Chairman Carlton Mitchell.

The speaker told of the activities which he, assisted by Coach Herb Appenzeller, supervises for the children who take advantage of the school playground.

Softball, baseball, badminton, horseshoes, and a number of other organized games are played, Lee said. He added that he had never known a town which has taken to softball in the way this community has, with over 160 active players.

Each Friday night a square dance is held in the Wakelon gymnasium as a part of the program. So much interest was displayed by adults that the dance will include everyone from now on, Lee said.

The speaker praised Zebulon for the interest it is showing in its young people, and assured the Rotarians that every cent spent on the program is doing a wonderful job.

Red Cross Swimming Course Begins; Bob Emanuel in Charge

The Red Cross learn-to-swim classes are being held at Tippet's pool all this week, beginning at 10:30 each morning. Bob Emanuel, who supervised the course last year, is again in charge of the instruction, aided by four assistants from Raleigh.

Lee Rhodes, recreation director for Zebulon, is accompanying the children each morning.

Transportation is being furnished by Theo. Davis Sons and parents of the children, and cars leave from the printing office and the school at 10:15 each morning.

Hail Relief Supplies To Be Stored in Rear Of Wakelon Drug Co.

Headquarters and storage room for Hail Relief has been located in the rear of the building occupied by Wakelon Drug Company, Ed Ellington announced yesterday. The gifts of groceries, flour, and other foodstuffs which are not needed immediately by the victims of the hail storm will be stored here.

Ellington praised the response of people in this community who have rallied to the aid of their neighbors. He said that suffering has been alleviated, but winter will bring new hardships to the families in the hail area.

Ruth Temple Attends Washington Meeting

Ruth Temple, daughter of the Maylon Temples, was the only 4-H member from Wakelon School to attend the Wake County 4-H Camp Week in Washington, D. C., June 27-30.

Ruth is one of the most active members of the local 4-H group, and she reports having had a wonderful trip to the Capital City.

VETERANS! KEEP THIS DATE IN MIND - JULY 25, 1951. IT'S ONLY 14 MONTHS AWAY, AND IT'S YOUR DEADLINE FOR STARTING A COURSE OF TRAINING UNDER THE GI BILL

Rev. E. H. Davis To Speak Sunday At Joint Services

There will be a joint worship and fellowship service for Zebulon and Wendell Methodist Churches at Wendell at 11 a. m. July 30. Members and friends of both churches are asked to bring a light picnic basket which will be spread in the basement of the Wendell Church immediately after the morning service.

The speaker will be Rev. E. H. Davis, veteran retired minister and former pastor of both churches. Mr. Davis is 90 years old and is probably the oldest minister that many of the listeners will ever hear.

This service is purely for purposes of worship and fellowship. There will be no business session. All interested persons are most cordially invited. Rev. S. E. Mercer, the pastor, will preside.

There will be no other preaching services at either church on July 30, as it is a fifth Sunday.

Substitute Speakers Entertain Lions Club At Meeting Thursday

Recreation Director Lee Rhodes and Coach Herb Appenzeller were guest speakers at the meeting of the Zebulon Lions Club last Thursday night, and they told the Lions about the recreation program being conducted at Wakelon School each day.

The talks given were not prepared, since the speakers were called upon when the guest speaker failed to appear. Coach Appenzeller compared himself to Mark Anthony who went to pay a visit to Cleopatra and declared: "I did not come here to speak."

New Small Grains Proving Valuable To Tar Heel Farmers, Says Expert

Atlas wheat, Arlington oats, and Colonial barley have all proved their worth on North Carolina farms by producing much heavier yields than older varieties grown in the State, says Dr. F. J. Bell, seed and small grain specialists for the State College Extension Service.

According to Bell, growers of certified Arlington oat seed made an average yield of 58 bushels per acre this year, compared with an average oat yield on only 30 bushels per acre throughout the State during 1949. The average on other oats (Victorian and Fulgrain) grown by the seed producers was

Zebulon Guard Unit Back to Routine Training Program

National Guardsmen in Zebulon returned to their regular routine of work and instruction last night at the armory on Vance Street. The members of Battery A took a week's vacation from drill following their 15-days of intensive work at Ft. Jackson, S. C., but last night's drill began the series of 48 drills to be held before next July.

Richard Bayliss Scarboro and Lonnie Ruffin Smith enlisted in the National Guard last week. Both are former service-men and will be valuable to the local unit.

Last night the men turned in the equipment drawn for the encampment, including tents, blankets, mess kits, and extra uniforms.

Capt. Barrie Davis read a letter from the Adjutant General of North Carolina to the members of Battery A, which told something of the gallant fight made by the National Guard in three wars. Although the 30th Division has not been alerted, the men were urged to make the most of their training so that they will be ready at any time.

4-H Club Week Going On at State College; Many Visitors Present

The 25th anniversary of 4-H Club work in North Carolina will be celebrated at State College July 24-28 when the annual State 4-H Club Week is held with some 1,400 members from all parts of the State attending.

Program for the week has been announced by officials of the State College Extension Service. Most of the speakers will be former 4-H Club members. All were outstanding in club work and now are outstanding citizens in their respective fields.

Governor Scott, one of the speakers for this year's program, is a former 4-H boy Dr. J. H. Hilton, dean of agriculture at State College, who also will speak, was a 4-H member in Cabarrus County.

The boys and girls will be guests of Governor and Mrs. Scott at the Mansion on Wednesday.

Barrett Delano Ray Completes Training

Barrett Delano Ray, seaman recruit, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ray of Route 3, Zebulon, N. C., recently completed his recruit training at the U. S. Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif.
