COWBOY BRINGS CHEER TO HOSPITAL

MRS. THEO. B. DAVIS

This, That, & the Other

Heralded as a wonderful discovery is frozen mashed potato. We are told that this delicacy may be made ready for the table in twenty-five minutes. Fine and good; but even more wonderful is the knowledge that by cutting the potatoes into small pieces and cooking them in only a little water, one may have mashed potatoes ready in twenty-five minutes without benefit of freezer locker.

The friends who gave me the following item credited it to Mrs. Paul Jones: When you have to crack and peel a coconut, put it into the warm oven of your stove for a while before trying to break it up. You will find that the meat comes out of the shell with

Hit and Run Driver Injures Local Woman On Monday Afternoon

Mrs. Frank Coiner was injured Monday afternoon when she was hit by a passing automobile as she crossed the street after leaving the Trailways bus she had ridden from Raleigh. The driver of the automobile continued without stopping, leaving Mrs. Coiner lying unconscious beside the highway.

Mrs. Coiner said that after getting from the bus, she saw the car coming, but that it slowed up, apparently for her to cross. As she was stepping up to the curb in front of Dr. L. M. Massey's house, the car struck her and continued on its way.

Help Comes Quickly

Dr. Durward Stallings and John Palmer came on the accident scene almost immediately and took Mrs. Coiner to the Zebulon Clinic, where Dr. Ben Thomas treated her. She suffered extensive bruises and stitches were required to close a wound on her arm.

The identity of the hit-and-run driver is not yet known.

far less trouble than if worked on when it is cold.

An expression in a conversation I overheard delighted me: "Well, she's got a lazy name; but she's the youngest in her family, and maybe when she gets responsibility, she'll do better."

Running animals home when I was a child meant hurrying their departure by shouts, sticks and stones. That was what we did when loose stock came around our home or were found gorging on the crops. And now when friends say, no matter how kindly, when they see me walking, "Mrs. Davis, I'd be glad to run you home," I have to remember they mean they'll let me ride with them in their automobiles before I can sincerely say thank you.

The late Mrs. G. M. Bell used laughingly to accuse her daughter, Lorna, of neglecting sweeping and dusting when making a room ready for company. She said that Lorna's method was to place a large vase of flowers on the center table—that was in the days when every well-furnished parlor had a table in the middle—and pull down the window shades. That was also prior to "centers of interest", but the idea was there all right. Lorna declared her way gave the visitors something pretty to look at and left her rested.

Many times now when I bring flowers into the house I recall that conversation and feel I ought to be dusting instead of arranging "bokays." But the flowers give us much pleasure and I do dust—sometimes.

Buying shoes is always serious business with me, both as to fit and to price. The elderly salesman who waited on me last week was courteous, patient and efficient. He listened carefully when I told him of wanting a pair of

Good Response Meets Recruiting Campaign For National Guard

The recruiting drive to build up the strength of the local National Guard unit is meeting with excellent response, WO Clifford Gilliam, administrative assistant, announced yesterday. Four recruits have enlisted in the local battery this week, he said, and interest is mounting in the community.

Goal for the recruiting campaign is 15 men for Battery A. Although the Table of Organization permits the unit to have 88 men, space limitations at the armory limit the number of men.

The transfer of Lt. George S. Hinds from Battery A of the 690th Field Artillery at Washington to the local unit was announced by Capt. Barrie Davis. Lt. Hinds has served for two years as motor officer of the Washington battery and will hold the same position here. He is a high school teacher in the Raleigh public schools.

Special Instruction

More of the men are receiving special instruction from Extension Courses received through the Army. This week Pfc. Clyde Morris and Cpl. Jimmy Spivey began the correspondence work.

The last class in atomic warfare will be held on Monday night. This is the third drill that Lt. Jack Potter and Capt. Davis have given lectures to the men, and completes a special Army course required for all men in the Regular Army and the National Guard.

Eldred Rountree Wins 'Practices' Diploma

Eldred V. Rountree was awarded a diploma for the successful completion of a training program of scientific farm management, feeding and sanitation practices, at a graduation ceremony held this week at the Albemarle Hotel in Albemarle.

PTA MEETING

The Wakelon Parent-Teacher Association will meet Monday night at 7:30 in the school auditorium. An interesting program has been planned, including a talk on hobbies.

All grade mothers will meet at 7:00 prior to the PTA meeting to discuss their plans for the school year. Both meetings will be very short because of the Minstrel practice afterwards.

Cecil Carlyle Is Burned, Suffers Injured Shoulder When Cylinder Explodes

Cecil Carlyle, body repairman at J. M. Chevrolet Company, was burned and suffered a recurrent shoulder injury Tuesday afternoon when flames broke out and badly damaged a Chevrolet convertible belonging to Jesse Holder of Route 1, Zebulon, in which Carlyle was welding at the time. Only fast action by Mr. Oliver Phillips and Johnny Mitchell, negro mechanic, saved Carlyle from more serious burns.

Immediately after the flames broke out, Carlyle rushed to the back of the body shop and returned with a pail of water. Just as he threw it on the fire, the hydraulic cylinder which actuates the top assembly exploded, sending flaming oil over the whole interior of the vehicle.

Smother Flaming Clothes

Carlyle fell down and back, pulling his shoulder out of joint, and his clothing caught fire. Mr. Phillips, aided by Mitchell, pulled the injured worker away from the flaming car and smothered the flames.

In fighting the fire, Mitchell was cut on the hand by glass falling from an overhead door. Heat from the fire shattered the glass, handicapping the firefighters. One jagged piece narrowly missed William Lee as it crashed to the floor.

Damage to the convertible was extensive, including the top, glass, and the entire interior, seats, steering wheel, and dash.

Bulldogs Meet Wendell Tonight at 8 in Second Encounter of '50 Season

Coach Appenzeller's gridiron Bulldogs rounded out their final practice before tonight's big game with the Wendell White Rams in Wendell. Kickoff is at 8:00 under the lights in the new Wendell recreation area, and a capacity crowd is expected to witness the battle.

An earlier season game between the two teams resulted in a close 7-6 victory for Wakelon, in spite of several Wendell threats to score.

Each team has lost only one game this season. The Wakelon loss came last week to Fuquay Springs by nearly half a hundred points, and the Bulldogs are hoping to bounce back tonight.

Favored in the first game by at least two touchdowns, Wakelon came through by the skin of its teeth. Both teams are rated even for tonight's engagement.

An attractive feature of the service Sunday will be special music rendered by Mrs. Grace Coltrane Killkelly assisted by Prof. Williams of Greensboro College and Mr. William Head, Director of the Lutheran Choir in Greensboro. Organist will be Prof. Carl Baumbach of Guilford College. The pastor will preach on "Singing the Lord's Song in a Strange Land."

PTA to Have Hobby Talks at Meeting On Monday Night

The Wakelon Parent-Teacher Association will hold its regular meeting Monday night, October 23, at 7:30 o'clock in the school auditorium. A very interesting program has been planned, and everyone is urged to be present.

Mr. S. E. Mercer will be in charge of the devotional, and special music will be given by Mrs. Carlton Mitchell, Mrs. James Alford, and Miss Helen Wall. A hobby program will be presented by the following: Joseph Temple, figure molding; Kermit Combs, rocks; Clarence Hocutt, magic; and Theo. B. Davis, woodworking.

The Negro Minstrel, sponsored by the P.T.A., will be given Tuesday night, October 24, at 8:00 p.m. in the school auditorium. Plan now to attend the year's most hilarious evening of entertainment, when you will see your local talent go into action in this outstanding blackface comedy. There will be singing and dancing by a well-selected chorus and a cast composed of outstanding talent, wit, and humor.
