

Library Finances No Problem

For years and years we have heard the need of a library for this community discussed by one or another organization, and we have waited hopefully but vainly for plans for a library to get beyond the discussion stage. It is like so many other good ideas; everybody agrees that the idea is wonderful, but nobody has the aggressiveness and know-how to formulate plans and get action.

Finances for a community library will prove a small problem once a workable plan is made and a campaign is begun. This community has contributed liberally for worthwhile causes, and its generosity can be shown again.

The lighting system for the Wakelon athletic field was purchased and paid for, though the majority of those living in this community said it could never be done.

Bleachers suitable for softball, football, or indoor basketball were obtained when folks said that contributions toward paying for the lights had milked our people dry.

Funds were found to pay the salary of a full-time director for our summer recreation program, and we believe it is only a matter of time before such a director will be paid to direct a year-round program.

The PTA realized the need of a public school music teacher, and it is well on the way toward obtaining the funds necessary for providing this teacher at Wakelon.

You can add to this list as much as you want to. What we are trying to get across is that finances will not be a problem once the plans for a library are worked out. We hope that one of our many community organizations will initiate action soon.

Why Vote Democratic?

We have been asked why we have thrown our support so completely to the Democrats, when, no doubt, there are some Republicans of great ability in our National government. We do not question the fact that there may be good Republicans, because we have never seen anything which was completely bad; but a few good Republicans do nothing to change our minds about the party best qualified to lead our nation.

By watching the members of both parties in the Senate and the House of Representatives, it is not difficult to discern which has the welfare of most of the people at heart. No vested interests have purchased the vote of the Democrats, for their's is the party of the forgotten man who voted the Democrats into power in the dark and discouraging days of the Great Depression.

In the eighteen years that have passed since 1932, our country has weathered the greatest and most terrible war in the history of the world, and now stands as a bulwark against the onslaught of militant Communism. Democratic leaders have been at the helm during these perilous times.

To admit to no mistakes would be to lie, for we know that no human is infallible. Some errors are bound to have been made in the past 18 years, but the fact that today we stand as the richest and most powerful nation in the world, with a standard of living higher than ever before, stands as a tribute to the sincerity and capability of Democratic leadership.

Seen and Heard

The bright smiles which light up the faces of the half a hundred National Guardsmen who belong to the Zebulon unit are caused by the arrival of the quarterly paychecks. Ever since the first week in October they have haunted the Zebulon postoffice in hopes that the checks would be there.

In a small rural community an unlettered farmer took over the management of the failing general store in the face of blunt warning from his friends that he would never be able to make it pay. In a few months he had the enterprise humming with urofitable business. An inquisitive acquaintance asked how he had accomplished the miracle.

The Record classified advertisements bring results. Folks bring in an advertisement to run two or three times, and then after the first insertion call for us to discontinue it because they have already sold what they advertised. That has happened for the past four weeks.

"Wal," the former farmer replied, "I guess it's because I believe in 'live and let live.' I buy an article for one dollar and sell it for two dollars. I'm satisfied with a one per cent profit!"

We saw a right goodlooking woman on the streets of Zebulon the other day. She is in her thirties and still unmarried. We asked her what she looked for most in a husband — brains, wealth, or appearance. She snapped back: "Appearance, and the sooner, the better."

The front page picture in the Record this week was taken by Fr. Frederick Koch, priest-editor of the North Carolina Catholic, pastor of the Wendell Catholic Church and a member of the local Lions Club. The North Carolina Catholic, with its editorial offices in Raleigh, is the official newspaper of the Catholic Diocese of Raleigh which includes all of North Carolina. Its circulation exceeds 5,700. It is printed by Theo. Davis Sons.
