Horace Heidt to Appear In NC State Coliseum Thursday Night, Dec. 7

Horace Heidt will bring his all new musical variety show to William Neal Reynolds Coliseum at N. C. State College on Thursday, December 7.

The new revue will feature 60 stars, young people whom Heidt has discovered on tour throughout the nation, including many who have been heard and seen on his weekly radio and television programs.

Local aspirants to fame are being auditioned and some of them may be given a chance to perform on the Youth Opportunity Program which appears in six or seven cities each week.

After 30 years in show business, there is no name more entitled to respect than that of Horace Heidt, who has made his reputation and his career by building other people to stardom.

When Horace Heidt moves through the United States with his musical revue, "Stars on Parade," and his radio show, the Original Youth Opportunity Program for Philip Morris, the mechanics involved make a complex military operation look simple. But everything is so carefully organized before the troupe leaves the Heidt ranch in Van Nuys that it moves like the traditional well-oiled clock.

Conservation Practices Result in Big Savings To Wake County Farmers

G. L. Winchester
S. W. Holleman

O. R. Whitley of the Knightdale Community signed a soil conservation plan with the Neuse River Soil Conservation District in October. He has already sown a meadow in oats to be followed with lespedeza in the spring. Lime will be applied in the spring, followed in the fall with a mixture of alfalfa and orchard grass.

Mr. Whitley has a very good growth of pines that needs some thinning. He will systematically thin this stand using the wood taken out for fence posts and fuel. Many of the 5 to 8 inch trees which have practically stopped growing due to overcrowding by larger trees will make four to five seven-foot posts. Many of these trees would die within the next five to ten years.

Other farmers signing conservation farm plans during the month of October were L. C. Liles, Jr., Knightdale; W. G. Wester, Millbrook; and W. G. Horton, Knightdale.

J. G. Olive seeded Kentucky-31 tall fescue in his wheat last fall. He harvested 35 bushels of wheat per acre and now has almost a perfect stand of tall fescue ranging from 8 to 12 inches in height. He will use this field for grazing his herd and angus cattle during the winter months.

County Red Cross Makes Appeal For Blood to Save Lives of Two

There are two certified needy Wake County people who are in the hospital in dire need of blood to save their lives. Your Red Cross has assumed the responsibility of getting blood for these people. One patient who is constantly bleeding needs at least 20 pints, the other whose doctor says she needs at least 22 pints. This makes a total of 48 pints of blood which must be supplied immediately. Your county has no free blood center, or donor registry, private solicitation is the only means of obtaining this blood.

Your Red Cross is already in debt 8 pints of blood to Rex Hospital which has so kindly lent this blood until it can be replaced.

Please heed this call, remember that life to these people is as dear to them as yours is to you. Their life will not be possible unless aid is given in the form of blood. All people wishing to help these patients will call Nursing Service, Wake County Chapter, American Red Cross, telephone 3-3014. Transportation will be furnished at any time of day from 8:00 a. m. until 4:00.

Ralph Fisher, Transylvania County Republican who tells some of power in strictly pro- and anti-will be back in the Legislature come January 1951. He's gunning for leadership of the minority party, too. If he wins, that could mean that he'll hold the balance of power in strictly pro- and anti-administration legislative snarls.

There's a rumor around that Frank Taylor of Wayne has the House speakership "in the bag." Opponent Fred Royster, Vance county tobaccoist, reportedly plans to hit the road in the west to see what gives. One so-called political expert observed the other day that "if Fred finds out what they think of him in the west, he won't even let his name be mentioned at the (Democratic) caucus." I dunno. Out of some 108 Democrats, each side is claiming more than enough to win. Could be this is a nice spot for a dark horse.

From Washington, via pony express:

Britain probably will request Uncle Sam to waive first payments on the 1945 loan from the U. S. due at the end of 1951. Seems to us we've heard that song before—say back in the "20's." Wonder what would happen if "Unc" got tough, for a change.

Report that Capus Waynick is fighting with Willard Thorp, assistant secretary of state for economic affairs, over who'll have the say on Point Four. Add to that President Truman's "appointment"—later changed to a "high pose in" — of Nelson Rockefeller as Point Four director, and you have quite a mess.

Out of the fuss, Washington grapevine says, is likely to come a snatch of Point Four from the State Department, lateral-passing it to a merger with a reorganized ECA after the current Marshall Plan expires in 1952.

North Carolinians like to see their sons stay home and succeed. But sometimes, I think, they like to see their sons go out and make good in other corners of the land—just to prove that it can be done, if for no other reason.

State Prison Official Gives Reply To Story Written by Summers

The Editor
The Zebulon Record

The November 3 issue of THE ZEBULON RECORD carried an article by Mr. Scott Summers in regard to purchases of drugs for our Prison Department. It was my thought that you might be interested in some facts about our purchases and the methods under which we operate.

Since July 1, 1950, we have purchased a total of $5,421.90 in drug supplies for our Drug Laboratory, all of which has been handled on a bid basis through the Division of Purchase and Contract. There have been three separate requests for bids in that period of time, and the business has been awarded to companies in this State and out of the State on the basis of price. During that same period of time, we have purchased only a total of $151.75 locally on what is designated as "confirming orders," this being for items needed in emergencies and purchased locally by our Pharmacist, after which a confirming purchase order is written.
