A bill probably will be introduced this week giving ABC officers the right to go into every county in the State in an effort to stamp out bootlegging.

Now, the ABC investigators can go only into those counties having legal sale of liquor or beer and wine.

The measure would have the effect of setting up a state-wide unit similar to the Federal government's Alcohol Tax Unit, which is the scourge of white liquor makers.

Much has been said about laxity of law enforcement in so-called dry counties. In many of them you can buy liquor easier and cheaper than you can in those counties having state ABC stores. Public apathy, indifferent law officers, and in some instances pay-offs are responsible.

This bill would give ABC officers the right to go into any county in the State to make investigations and arrests of bootleggers and other violators of the liquor, beer and wine laws. Its backers claim it would increase enforcement of the laws immeasurably and cut down bootlegging to a minimum. Ironically, opposition is expected from the dries — who yell for a state liquor vote but in many instances don't bother to try to enforce the prohibition laws in their own dry counties.

Incidentally, the Allied Church League has declared war — come

Wakelon Girls Capture Loop Lead With Thrilling Victory over Wendell

The Wakelonettes captured the lead in the East Wake County Conference by earning a hard-fought victory from Wendell after a thrilling last-period rally. The 41-39 triumph evened the Wakelon Conference record against their arch-rivals. Wendell took an early season Conference contest.

Jo Gill and Rose Pace led the Wakelon attack with 14 and 12 points, Rebecca Sue Nowell led the losers with 11 points.

In the nightcap, the Bulldogs took an overtime contest from the 1952 — on all legislators who aren't militant dries. This organization does not approve the present bill before the legislature, which would call for a vote on an all-wet or an all-dry State. It will draw up one more to its own liking and seek some legislator to introduce it. Such a bill would call for an all-dry or an "as is" state—the Allied Church League being afraid to take a chance on a real test of wet and dry strength. Their attitude is "we want you to quit selling liquor but we don't want to take the remote gamble that you might win and be able to sell your hooch in our territory." And they claim such a vote should be taken in the name of democracy! This corner believes the State would go dry if a referendum were to be held, but the question should be honestly answered and not on a half-way basis.

Bureau Leaders Meet To Discuss Plans, Select Convention Delegates

Officers and directors of the local farm bureau organization met in the Wakelon Agricultural Building Friday night to discuss and approve a program for the next regular meeting, which will be on February 12th; and to select delegates and alternates to the North Carolina State Farm Bureau Convention, which will be held in Asheville February 11-14th.

After determining who had planned to go, or who thought they might be able to go, the following were selected. Voting delegates: Raleigh Alford, Robert Ed Horton, and Rex Tippet; Alternates: Raymond Averette, H. H. (Bubba) Eddins, and M. L. Hagwood. There are possibly others who would like to go. We are by no means limited to the number who may attend. We are, however, only allowed three votes.

A special train is scheduled to leave Raleigh early Sunday morning (February 11th) for the convenience of those who go. Contact any of the above named delegates or alternates for full details.

The program approved for the next regular meeting (February 12th) will deal with the subject of tobacco. Dr. C. J. Nusbaum, State College Extension Service, will speak on the diseases, varieties, proper fertilizers, etc., of tobacco. He is very well informed on the subject, and should present the type program from which much benefit may be received.

There will also be a program for the women in the Home Economics Building. Miss Palmer has an interesting program lined up. Don't miss it!

Rotarians Give Views On Building Location

The location of the proposed municipal building for the Town of Zebulon occupied much of the time at the regular weekly meeting of the Zebulon Rotary Club, and nearly every member of the group was given an opportunity to state their viewpoint by forum director Vance Brown.

Consensus of the meeting was that: 1) Vance Street is the logical choice for the building; 2) the lot should be large enough for future additions to the building; and 3) cost should not enter into the choice of the proper location.

Vance, a member of the Zebulon Board of Commissioners who had been strong in favor of the location behind the Peoples Bank & Trust Company, requested Editor Barrie Davis to make sure the report of the meeting was included in the Zebulon Record.

Following the discussion on the municipal building location, several of the Rotarians expressed their opinions as to how well the local organization was following the principals of Rotary.

Opportunity to Operate Profitable Farm Business Available to All in N.C.

Opportunities for operating a profitable farm business in North Carolina are available to almost anyone who desires to obtain a living from the soil, three specialists of N. C. State College declare in a new circular issued this week.

The publication, "Farming Opportunities in North Carolina," is designed to describe briefly the agricultural resources of the State, indicate some of the major changes occurring which many influence agricultural opportunities in the future, and discuss some of the more important factors to be considered in selection of a farm.

The authors are Walter H. Pierce, associate professor of agricultural economics; Moyle S. Williams, farm management specialist; and W. D. Lee, associate professor of agronomy. Their 40-page publication replaces a previous circular on "Selecting a Farm in North Carolina."

Pierce, Williams, and Lee assert that North Carolina is at the threshold of a new era in agricultural development, with technological progress and economic developments providing both the necessity and the opportunity for significant changes in the State's farming system.

The authors point out that the Tar Heel climate, though varied, is characterized by a long growing season, abundant rainfall, and
