More Information Is Given On Nickels for Know How

Farmers have been hearing a lot lately about "Nickels for Know-How." What's it all about?

"Nickels for Know-How" is a plan to expand agricultural research and teaching in North Carolina through a farmer contribution of five cents per ton on all feed and fertilizer sold in the State.

The idea was originated by farm leaders of the State. The 1951 General Assembly passed an enabling act that gives farm people the opportunity to contribute directly for expanded research and education if they approve it in a referendum to be held November 3. The referendum is to be conducted by the North Carolina Grange and Farm Bureau and the Agricultural Foundation, Inc., at State College.

The Agricultural Foundation, incidentally, is a corporation made up of farmers and farm leaders for the purpose of receiving gifts or contributions to support and expanding program of research and education.

Farm leaders say North Carolina has such a varied climate and agriculture that more money is needed to solve the insect, disease, and weed problems of farmers. Even the generous appropriations made by the last two legislatures fall far short of the needs. Since farm people cannot expect more than their share of public funds, the additional money must be raised in some other way.

In the referendum, all persons who use feed or fertilizer, and their wives or husbands, will be eligible to vote. FFA, NFA, and 4-H Club members with crop or livestock projects of their own are also eligible.

The voting on November 3 will be conducted from 6:30 a. m. to 6:30 p. m., at the polling place used in the election of PMA committeemen. No special registration is required.

If approved by a two-thirds majority of those voting, the plan will be effective for three years.

Community Chest To Begin Drive Here October 23

The Zebulon Community Chest will begin its annual drive for funds on October 23, according to Mr. Gilbert Beck, local Chest Chairman. The Zebulon Community Chest was organized last year when the Raleigh and Wake County communities decided not to contribute participation in the same Chest.

Emphasis is being placed on the fact that funds contributed to the Zebulon Community Chest are spent according to the Board of Directors, which is elected by local people and knows the needs of this community.

The Community Chest funds are used to promote local programs, including the area Councils for both the Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts, and includes the support of the scouting program for both white and colored Scouts. Administration of the scouting program is necessary to its continuance. Both the Boy Scout and the Girl Scout Councils have been plagued by financial difficulty since the Wake County program was abandoned and the leaders emphasize the necessity of participation in the local communities if their scouting programs are to continue.

Recreation Help

The recreation program is also supported through the Chest. Although softball program finances itself, the recreation program for children which was carried on daily at the school during the past summer is supported by Chest funds. During the past year a number of our children learned to swim through this program and others learned habits of water safety. Salaries of leaders and funds for equipment are supplied by the local Community Chest.

During the past year emergency welfare cases were also supported through the Chest. Although the Chest does not undertake to provide continuing support for welfare cases, food and other essentials are supplied to tide over worthy cases.

Emergency Aid

The Community Chest funds are administered through a Board of Directors which is elected annually at a called meeting of all who have supported the Chest program. Present members of the Board of Directors include Gilbert Beck, chairman; Mrs. Vance Brown, Mrs. Wallace Temple, Willie B. Hopkins, Worth Hinton, and the Rev. Carlton T. Mitchell.

Chairman Beck emphasized the need for the support of all citizens in this worthy enterprise. Solicitation of commercial concerns will begin on Tuesday and the residential area will be canvassed later in the week.

Soil Conservation Agent Tells How To Save Water

G. L. Winchester
John F. McBane

Almost everyone in Wake County, and especially those in Raleigh and Fuquay Springs, is quite conscious of a water shortage. We all are aware that the rainfall for the past two years is far below normal. Our plight is serious but there are certain things that may be done over a long period of time that will insure more underground water from which our wells and springs are fed.

If all our lands were cleared of trees and cultivated in row crops, up to 30% of the normal rainfall would run off as surface water into small streams and eventually find its way into the ocean. This we do not plan to do. If all our lands were in woods and grassland, there would seldom be a flood along our streams for most of the water would be absorbed by the deep woods mulch and a lesser amount by the dense grass sod.

The moisture that is used by crops in a certain field on your farm fell on that field. There are exceptions to the above statements but in the majority of the cases that is true. We talk of ground water and capillary water but the greater part of the water used by plants fell within a few feet of the plant.

Our question should be how are we going to "trap" water so it will be available for plants? A cover crop growing on your land this winter will slow the flow of water allowing more of it to be absorbed by the soil. Any dead vegetation such as crab grass, lespedeza stubble, or corn stalks cut or shredded and left on top of the ground during the winter months will slow the flow of water and will prevent erosion and increase water infiltration. In the spring this material may be incorporated into the soil by disking or plowing. This organic matter will further increase the water-holding capacity of the soil. Do not burn any vegetation that is on the land.

A farmer told me last week he had just as soon have a good cover of dead grass on the land now as to sow a winter crop. I had to agree with him but I drove down the road less than five miles and saw a field of grass that had been burned.

Contour plowing now and contour cultivation next summer is a cheap and effective way of conserving water.

A reception will be given after the evening service honoring the forty-two new members received into the church during the past year.

Finishing work is being done in the sanctuary and it is expected that most of the work will be completed the early part of the next week, according to a statement by the pastor. A delay in securing folding doors for the sanctuary will cause postponement of the final completion for several weeks.
