Mrs. Betty Perry Wins Most Courteous Clerk Award for Past Week

Mrs. Betty Perry was honored for being the most courteous clerk of the week by the Zebulon Chamber of Commerce Saturday afternoon following the awarding of prizes in the Silver Harvest Day.

A $3 certificate award and special recognition was given Mrs. Perry, the first clerk to be selected in the campaign to encourage greater courtesy in Zebulon stores.

Each week anonymous judges will select one clerk to be honored on Saturday afternoon, according to Frank Wall, president of the Zebulon Chamber of Commerce.

Pvt. Raines Is Based At Camp in Virginia

Pvt. Charles C. Raines, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Raines, live on Route 1, Zebulon, is becoming acquainted with combat supply and communications problems during Operation Logex-52, now underway at Camp Pickens, Virginia.

His unit, the 313th Signal Operations Battalion from Fort George Meade, Md., has set up 33 teletype circuits and complete telephone and radio facilities for use during the exercise.

The operation is designed to train logistical forces in the support operations necessary for a theoretical field army of 450,000.

His wife, Betty, lives on Route 1, Falls of Neuse.

Battery A to Hold Encampment At Camp Butner on May 10-11

Last night marked the last drill before Battery A goes to Camp Butner this weekend for two days of firing with the carbines. According to Lt. George Hinds, who has had charge of the training of the carbineers, every man in the battery will be qualified with the carbine by Sunday afternoon.

Battery A will join the other four batteries of the 113th Field Artillery Battalion at Camp Butner at 1 p. m. Saturday.

The only men in the battery who will not participate in the carbine firing will be the Fire Direction Center personnel, who will work both Saturday and Sunday in section training under the executive officer, Lt. Jack Potter.

The Fire Direction Center, begun three drills ago, is covering 18 months of work in the two months remaining before summer encampment to be ready for the

Mediterranean Is Described in Story By William Jones

By William Jones

After having confined my travels to the eastern shore of Arabia with only an occasional four hour sojourn in Bahrain, a small humid island situated approximately 30 miles out in the Persian Gulf for the past nine months, it is quite easy to understand that I was as happy as a child with a new toy when on April 7th I climbed aboard the military aircraft that was to take me on the first leg of my vacation in Lebanon and on the island of Cyprus.

Aboard the same aircraft were several people who had planned far enough ahead to obtain reservations, accommodations and the necessary diplomatic clearances for a tour of Jerusalem, Nazareth, Bethlehem and other interesting points within the Holy Land during the Easter holiday.

Saw Damascus

I was indeed unfortunate in that I was unable to obtain reservations and visas in order that I might join them. However, we did fly over Damascus and I took several color photographs of the city and the nearby mountains.

We arrived at Beirut, Lebanon around noon and it was there that I had my first experience with foreign customs representatives. There my luggage was searched and I was told that I had brought along two too many cartons of cigarettes to say nothing of over a half box of cigars. However, this error was easily rectified with the surrender of the surplus cigarettes to be stored by the customs off ice until my departure from Lebanon.

I went directly from the airport of entry to the Normandy Hotel in Beirut. Here I engaged a room and began to arrange for a flight to Cyprus.

French Doors

My room in the Normandy was on the third floor with enormous French doors leading to a private patio overlooking the Mediterranean Sea just across the street. The towering palm trees along the sea wall added to the attractiveness of a scene. I felt wholly justified in exclaiming: "Mrs. Jones' little boy, William, shore is getting up in this world!"

Hephzibah WMS Has Joint Study Meeting

The circles of Hephzibah W. M. S. met jointly at the community center in April with Mesdames Lennie Liles, Kénchin Liles, Walter Gay, S. T. Whitaker, Roscoe Alford, Warren Dean, Dolphin Griffin, Sam Anderson and Floyd Johnson acting as joint hostesses.

The W. M. S. president, Mrs. Amos Dean called the meeting to order. The W. M. U. hymn was sung and watchwords were repeated. Miss Merrilan Baker sang a solo, accompanied at the piano by Miss Shirley Hinnant. Mrs. Fred Pearce gave the devotional with six members helping. She used as the theme, "And He Hath put a new song in my mouth."
