Wakelon School Finals Scheduled For This Week

Final exercises at Wakelon School will be held this week, the climax coming on Friday night when the Commencement Exercises for the graduating seniors will be held. Clyde A. Erwin, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, will be the featured speaker at the Commencement Exercises.

The finals began Sunday night when the annual Wakelon Senior Vesper Service was held, the Rev. Carlton T. Mitchell delivering the sermon.

Class Night ceremonies will be held in the school auditorium Wednesday night.

At Corinth-Holders School, Dr. C. G. Brennecks, head of the department of Electrical Engineering at North Carolina State College, delivered the principal address to the graduating class at the commencement program held last night.

The baccalaureate sermon was delivered Sunday by the Rev. S. G. Stevens, Pastor of Tabernacle Baptist Church near Wendell.

Finer Zebulon Group Delays Mass Meeting

The mass meeting called by the Finer Zebulon Committee for tonight has been postponed until Thursday night, June 5, according to Chairman Wilbur Debnam. Too many conflicts with other meetings and graduation exercises at Wakelon were cited as the reason for the postponement.

The Steering Committee Chairman said that every effort will be made to insure a good attendance at the mass meeting.

Project Report

At the mass meeting to be held next week, Attorney Frank Coiner will give a report on the five projects entered by the community in the Finer Carolina Contest. He will explain what has been done and plans for completing the projects.

The entire community will be asked to cooperate in the program. "Without everyone's aid, we cannot accomplish the goals we have set for ourselves," Debnam said.

Light Damage

If growing conditions are normal, grasshopper damage to U. S. crops this year is expected to be light and localized.

Legion Auxiliary to Sell Poppies Here Saturday

Members of The American Legion were urged to be among the first to put on memorial poppies on Poppy Day next Saturday in a message issued today by Charles Hawkins, Commander of the Zebulon Legion Post.

Reminding the veterans that the poppy is a symbol of remembrance for their fallen comrades, and provides very real aid for the disabled and needy children of veterans, Commander Hawkins said:

We Remember

"We all remember those comrades of ours who gave their lives for America so on Poppy Day let us be among the first to put on their memorial flower. Wearing a poppy is a little thing to do but it has big meaning. It means that we honor and are grateful to those who give their all that America might remain a free land. We who returned safely from war service most certainly owe this symbolic gesture to those who did not come back.

"And when we put on a poppy, let us remember, too, those veterans who are enduring suffering and sickness, and the veterans' children who are in need, and let us give generously for the little crepe paper flower which some disabled man has made for us to wear.

"The women of our American Legion Auxiliary will be on the streets throughout the day to bring the memorial flowers to the public. I am sure every American Legion member will give them his encouragement and any help they may need in carrying out this mission of patriotic service."

Zebulon's Finest Place He's Seen, Baptist Minister Tells Rotarians

After traveling over a good part of the world, Zebulon looks like the nicest place he has seen, the Rev. Carlton T. Mitchell told members of the Zebulon Rotary Club Friday night. His experiences include service with the Navy as a chaplain.

Program Chairman Ralph Talton introduced the speaker, explaining that the talk would be another in a series designed to acquaint the Rotarians with the backgrounds of their fellow members.

Born in Richmond, Va., in 1920, Carlton moved with his family to Roanoke, in Western Virginia. He said he learned to work at a youthful nine years of age, in his father's laundry. He graduated from high school at Roanoke.

His schooling included two years at Campbell and two at Wake Forest. He went to the Yale Divinity School for his theological training.

In 1944 he married a fellow student at Campbell College.

When he was released from active duty with the Navy, he served a year with the Baptist Church at St. Joseph, Missouri, coming to Zebulon from there.

Carlton's talk was informative and enjoyable. He included many humorous experiences to illustrate his talk.

Clean-up Campaign for New Park To Be Held Wednesday Afternoon

A clean-up campaign at the new community park site will begin Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock when workers will meet with bushaxes, shovels, and trucks to clear out the undergrowth and weeds, according to Ralph Talton, chairman of the Zebulon Recreation Commission. Every able-bodied man in the community is urged to help with the work, he said, so that the park may be developed as soon as possible.

"We're ready to get moving," Talton said. "We've dreamed about a park for years and years, and now we've got one given to us."

As soon as the grove of trees is cleared of weeds and undergrowth, plans will be made for equipping the park with benches, seats, fireplaces and other facilities. Various organizations in the community will be asked to provide the equipment.

A second day of work will be held Saturday afternoon for those who are unable to help on Wednesday.

"It isn't money we are after now," Talton said. "Folks always say they can't spare the money. What we want is time and muscle."

The money for purchasing the new park site was given to the Recreation Commission by C. V. Whitley and the land was purchased from Dr. Charles Flowers.
