Homecoming Held At Emit Church

Homecoming Day was observed Sunday, Oct. 26, at the Free Will Baptist Church near Emit.

The Rev. W. E. Anderson of Morehead City delivered the message at both the morning and evening services. He is one of the original founders and a charter member of the church.

Friends and former members who attended the Homecoming celebration were pleased and delighted at the renovations that had taken place. The sanctuary of the church has been remodeled with celatex panelling and ceiling. Hardwood floors gleam with beauty. New oaken pews and matching pulpit furniture further enhance the loveliness. No unsightly stoves that smoke and obstruct the view are in evidence, for a central heating system has been installed.

School Halloween Affair to Be Held Tonight at 7:30

On Friday, October 31st, the Annual Halloween Carnival will be held at the Wakelon School. It begins at 7:30 in the Wakelon Auditorium. Admission is ten and twenty-five cents.

In the auditorium there will be a cake walk and a series of Halloween skits interspersed with entertainment by Mrs. Wade's dancing class. A prize will be awarded the person wearing the funniest Halloween costume, so come dressed to win a prize. At this time the King and Queen of Halloween from each grade will parade across the stage before the audience.

Immediately after the auditorium events, there will be games, booths, fortune-telling, a country store, a hot-dog stand, and every thing else expected at a carnival in the Wakelon Gymnasium.

The climax of the evening will be the crowning of the King and Queen of Halloween. The prospective rulers are:

First Grade — Gayle Pearce and Charles Collins

Second Grade — Sandra Perry and Tommy Wood

Third Grade — Carol Gay and Jimmy Pearce

Fourth Grade — Billy Faye Privette and Sonny Perry

Fifth Grade — Judy Perry and Jerry Lee

Sixth Grade — Betty Puryear and Tommy Kimball

Seventh Grade — Judy Perry and W. D. Griswold

Eighth Grade — Hazel Tant and E. B. Pulley

Ninth Grade — Annie Pearl Woodard and Lawrence Puryear

Tenth Grade — Peggy King and Victor Pace

Eleventh Grade — Helen Faye Todd and Billy Massey

Twelfth Grade — Kaye Baker and Alton Temple.

Negroes Fail to Pass Second Ballot Test

Three Negro men, whom Rev. George Fisher, Raleigh Negro who identifies himself as a representative of the NAACP, charged were denied the right to register last Saturday afternoon, failed yesterday to pass a registration test directed by J. C. Little, Jr., chairman of the Wake County Board of Elections. The test was administered at the local town hall.

Walter, Eugene and Otha Holden were the Negroes failing to pass the registrar's test. Another local Negro, Joshua Jones, was declared by Fisher to have been denied the right to register, but Little's examination showed the name of Jones as duly registered.

Concerted Action Asked To Put Community Chest Campaign Over Locally

"If folks keep giving as they have for the past two days, the Zebulon Community Chest will have sufficient funds to operate under the proposed budget during the coming year," Ralph Talbot, campaign manager, said yesterday afternoon. He revealed that $1,452.25 had been raised by the teams of solicitors who were making united effort to give everyone an opportunity to contribute to the Community Chest.

The goal set for the Zebulon Community Chest this year is $2,400. This figure was set as a minimum with which the Chest could operate by the Board of Directors.

Last year the community contributed only about $525 to the Community Chest, and the agencies which participated were severely handicapped in their work because of lack of funds.

The businesses of Zebulon contributed most generously to the fund this year, according to R. Vance Brown, who by noon Thursday had reported over $1,000 in gifts.

Scattered reports from the residential districts showed that workers in those areas were receiving good response. Mrs. R. Vance Brown in District 1 reported $49.50 at noon yesterday.

District Two Report

In District 2 Mrs. Willard Gill reported $31.50. District 3, under Mrs. Rachel Privette, reported $20.50. From District 4, Mrs. Willie B. Hopkins reported $12.00. Mrs. Rachel Temple reported $41.50 from District 5.

The Wakefield community, headed by Mrs. Vera Rhodes and an efficient staff of solicitors, reported $115.00. Wakelon School had received $77.50.

The colored community reported $25.00 by noon Thursday, and solicitors there expected to exceed $100.00 before the drive ends today.

Booths have been operated in Peoples Bank & Trust Company and in the bus station. By 12 o'clock yesterday Mrs. Helen Screws, booth chairman, reported that $62.50 had been collected.

In Tuesday's Zebulon Record a complete list of all who contributed $1.00 or more to the Zebulon Community Chest during the drive will be published. This full page advertisement will complete the series given by the Record to publicize the work of the Community Chest and the agencies which participate in it.

Funds from the Community Chest will be used for recreation, Scouting, emergency local welfare, school lunches, and the United Defense Fund.

Uncle Ferd's Almanac

Tomorrow is All-Saints Day, or All-Hallow Day, which makes tonight All-Hallow E'en, or Halloween. When I was in the fourth grade (not too long ago, although my daughter thinks they still called automobiles "horseless carriages" when Daddy was in school), they still spelled it "Hallowe'en." But the apostrophe was dropped the summer between my 4th & 5th years at Wakelon, and is never used now, making Halloween easier to spell, if not to live through.

On the Celtic calendar (the one our folks in Wales and Ireland used before the Romans showed them how to make stronger brew out of rye than holly and mistletoe berries) tonight was the one night a year that witches roamed freely about the countryside. The superstitious among us still believe that spirits are abroad the night of October 31.

Now I do not believe in ghosts, witches, and the like, but in case I run across any, I want to know what they are and what to expect them to do — there's nothing like being prepared.

The first thing you are liable to run across tonight is a fairy, which can take any form, including that of the rake handle you stepped on and hit your head with. The best way to handle this situation is to take the rake calmly and put it in the woodshed instead of cussing your wife out for leaving it in the yard. She didn't leave it there on Halloween — the fairies did, and if you lose your temper, they'll give you a sure enough hard time. For instance, a fairy might take the form of your front tire and blow out just to spite you. Or it might turn into your battery and refuse to start your car.

Be careful walking from your house to the road. A pixy might twist the path so that you walk into your wife's rose bush instead of beside it. The best way to handle a pixy of this type is to pick up the briars out of your leg and say nothing; maybe your wife will think the dog broke her rose bush.

If you have to walk through the woods tonight, watch out for goblins. According to Little Orphan Annie, goblins are apt to be upstairs, but Annie is in error. Goblins live chiefly in woods, at least on Halloween. If a goblin accosts you tonight, wrap an acorn in an oak leaf, whistle twice, throw the acorn at the goblin, and he'll run like blazes.

You are liable to run into a gnome anywhere tonight, but you can tell one at a glance — they are solid green, and mighty ugly. Gnomes are hard to get rid of, but you can change one into a tall, handsome man by saying "Saddle and sirloin!" when you first see him. I don't know how you go about getting rid of the tall, handsome man.

If you pass by a blacksmith shop or a garage tonight, you can hear the dwarves at work. A dwarf used (Continued on Page 8)
