U.N. Stamp to Honor Human Rights Day

On 10 December the world will observe the anniversary of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, adopted by the U.N. General Assembly four years ago. In honor of Human Rights Day, the U.N. Postal Administration will issue the commemorative stamp shown above. It will be available in three- and five-cent denominations, in green and azure blue respectively. The flame, surrounded by the words "Human Rights" in the five official languages of the U.N. against a background of the two hemispheres, symbolizes the light of equality and freedom inherent in the Declaration.

INAUGURATION PARADE

Guardsmen to March

Zebulon's Battery A will take part in the inaugural parade given for incoming Governor William Umstead in Raleigh Thursday morning. The National Guardsmen will join citizen-soldiers from all over North Carolina in a long procession down Raleigh's Fayetteville Street, and the local artillery unit will be one of five motorized units in the parade.

The Guardsmen will arrive in Raleigh on the new Battery A trucks at 10 a. m. to take their place in the parade. Following the parade the men will eat dinner at Pullen armory in Raleigh.

Last night the Guardsmen were reissued their uniforms. They were turned in at the armory before Christmas for the annual inventory of Federal property.

The parade on Thursday will count as a paid drill for the men of Battery A, according to Sfc. Johnsey P. Arnold, unit administrator.

Other drills are scheduled for Monday night of each week until June 14, when Battery A will leave for 15 days of active duty training at Ft. McClellan, Alabama.

Two weekends of extra training are scheduled for May. On May 2-3 the battery will go to Camp Butner for carbine firing, and two weeks later the men will spend the weekend at Ft. Bragg for service practice with the 105-mm howitzers.

According to Sfc. Arnold, there are still vacancies existing in the local unit.

Special Meeting to Be Held to Decide Future Of Teenage Activities

Ralph Talton, Chairman of the Recreation Commission has called a meeting of teenagers and their parents at 7:30 o'clock, Thursday, January 8, at the Town Hall.

Members of the recreation commission and the teenage committee of the commission are especially urged to be present at this important meeting.

The meeting has been called to formulate plans for the continuation of the program. At present there is no means of adequately heating the room where the meetings are held each week. Before money is put out by the commission for this and other needs, some definite plans must be made.

If parents of teen agers do not come to this meeting in the interests of their children, it will be assumed that they have no wish or desire to participate in the program, which might eventually cause it to be discontinued.

Again all parents, teenagers, and interested citizens of the community are urged to attend this meeting.

Ed Ellington, head of the agriculture department at Wakelon School, was named chairman of the March of Dimes drive in the Zebulon community by Norman Screws, president of the Zebulon Rotary Club. The drive will begin next week.

Need for Funds Great In Fight against Polio, Dimes Chairman Says

The organization for the annual March of Dimes campaign in the Zebulon Community will be set up this week, according to Ed Ellington, chairman, and active solicitation of funds will be completed in two weeks. The campaign is sponsored here each year by the Zebulon Rotary Club.

"Iron Lung" receptacles will be placed at several public places to receive contributions, but the major portion of the funds will be received by solicitors.

The need for funds this year was emphasized by figures released by Chairman Ellington. The toll during the past five years equals that of the previous 20 years. It shows no signs of lessening.

The campaign for funds will be carried by our school children in the rural districts and by solicitors in Zebulon.

First Bids Are Lower Than Anticipated; Six Armories May Be Built

A National Guard armory for Zebulon may be constructed this summer from funds already available to the State of North Carolina, an official of the Adjutant General's Department told the Zebulon Record last week. Zebulon holds fifth place on the armory priority list, he said, and it may be possible to let contracts for five armories with funds in hand.

Two contracts for armories have already been let, with bids of about $98,000 and $99,000 accepted. This is considerably lower than original estimates of the armory cost.

Two more contracts will be let this month, and if costs for these two do not exceed the bids on the first two, bids will be requested for the Zebulon armory.

Nearly $600,000 is available for the construction of armories now, and additional Federal funds will not be given to the State of North Carolina until the appropriations for the fiscal year beginning July 1 are made. The armories are built with State and Federal funds.

The armory site on South Arendell Avenue was transferred to the State of North Carolina last year. The four acres land cost the Town of Zebulon $4,000.

Zebulon's National Guard unit was organized in 1949, and since that time has been housed in makeshift quarters in the rear of the old water plant. The inadequate quarters have prevented enlargement of the battery to its authorized strength of 108 officers and men. At the present time the unit strength is 56 officers and men.

The armory priority list was made up according to the needs of the National Guard units in North Carolina.

'Swan Song' Is Given By Carlton Mitchell At Rotary Meeting

Carlton Mitchell, pastor of the Zebulon Baptist Church and vice-president of the Zebulon Rotary Club, gave what he termed his "swan song" at the meeting of the Rotary Club last Friday night. He has been recalled to active duty as a chaplain with the Navy effective January 9.

The unusual talk was made up of Carlton's observations of the members of the club during the time he has been in Zebulon.

Taking each member in turn, he told of the effect the member had on the community and in several instances made predictions of things to come.

President Norman Screws expressed the sorrow of the club over Carlton's recall to active duty.

The American Legion Auxiliary met Friday night in the home of Miss Beth Massey. Membership was discussed during the meeting, and all dues must be in before January 20th. The program was devoted to business.
