Zebulon Lions Are Going To Roar in Windy City

When the Lions from all over the world get to roaring at their International Convention this week in Chicago, the loudest roars are sure to be sounded by representatives of the Zebulon Lions Club. That was the promise made by the four Zebulonians who left Saturday for the windy city.

Delegates from the Zebulon Club are Frank Kemp and Jerry Hagwood, who are in Chicago with their wives and 5,000 folders.

The 5,000 folders are reprints of the history of Zebulon which was published in the Zebulon Record last January. The Lions and the Zebulon Chamber of Commerce cooperated in having the re-prints made, and Lions Kemp and Hagwood assumed the responsibility of passing them out.

Mrs. Price's Twins Are Double Trouble

Mrs. Ruby Williams Price presented a pair of problems last Wednesday when she gave birth to twin boys at Rex Hospital. The problems result from Mrs. Price being under indictment on a morals charge. She was being held in the Wake County Jail before going to Rex for birth of the boys, previously being taken to the jail from the State Hospital.

Last April 9, in the Zebulon Recorder's Court, Mrs. Price was reported incompetent of pleading guilty or innocent to charge of engaging in prostitution with Negroes.

The State Hospital reported she has an IQ of 53, which placed her on a "Moron level." The hospital decided that she needed care, but not in the hospital.

Her 65-year-old tenant husband received sentences totaling seven years at his trial last March on charges of assignation aiding and abetting in prostitution of his wife with the Negroes. He is serving the time.

The Wake County Jail does not want Mrs. Price and her twins back, since there are no facilities to care for them there. She is not mentally ill enough to be treated at the hospital. Her relatives cannot care for her.

Mrs. Price's twins are proving problem children already.

COMPLETES BASIC

Guardsmen Clean Up After Camp

Arms and equipment used during the June 14-28 summer encampment at Ft. McClellan, Alabama, were cleaned and stored at last night's assembly of Zebulon's Battery A. The rifles and carbines were stored in the arms room for safekeeping until next spring, and other material not needed for armory training was packed away.

The 54 officers and men of the Zebulon unit took about $500,000.00 worth of equipment with them for use at camp.

Regular armory training will be scheduled each Monday night until December, according to WO Johnsey Arnold. Special emphasis will be placed on training the newer members of the battery in specialized skills.

National Guardsmen from Zebulon were paid nearly $3,800.00 for the 15 days of active duty, according to First Sergeant Sidney Holmes.

Other new officers were installed at the last meeting in June, which the new president missed because he was in Alabama with the Zebulon National Guard unit.

Following the talk, committee appointments for the coming year were made, and the new president told of the goals he hopes the club can attain.

THE FIRST SERGEANT SPEAKS TO PARENTS

What of Your Son's Future?

By the Old Sarge

First Sergeant Sidney Holmes, recognized all over North Carolina as one of the best "First Sergeants" in the Army, has over 21 years of service behind him. Many present day Colonels began their military careers under him as privates. He was offered a commission in the Regular Army in 1941, but refused because he preferred to remain a First Sergeant where he could help raw recruits develop into good soldiers.

Your Son's Responsibility

The responsibility for helping to preserve the freedom and security of our nation must be shared by everyone — not just a few. For more than 300 years, it has been the responsibility of the young men of every community to defend their homes and their country — not only against foreign enemies but also against natural disasters such as flood . . . tornado . . . hurricane . . . blizzard . . . forest fire. Today, as in the past, your son, and every physically fit young man, must be prepared to accept this responsibility if our homes and our country are to endure.

In the National Guard, your son may rise as high in rank and position as his interest, ability and experience will take him. Most of our higher commanders of the Guard and many general officers of the regular Army and Air Force began their careers as privates in the National Guard.

Officer's Commission

Your son may qualify for an officer's commission by attending an Officers Candidate School, by taking a correspondence course, or by taking aviation cadet training. Over 60,000 Guardsmen — one out of every five — earned commissions in the period 1940 to 1944. Guardsmen may qualify for appointment to the United States Military Academy. An average of twenty-two Guardsmen are graduated from West Point and commissioned in the regular Army each year.

Develops Leadership

National Guard training prepares young men like your son to give orders and to direct groups of people. It develops initiative, loyalty, dependability and other qualities of leadership. It will help make a man and a leader of your boy.

As a Guardsman, your son may qualify for free retirement pay. For every drill period, he will earn (Continued on Page 3)
