Last Rites Held For Pitt Pastor, Wakefield-Native

The Rev. James Edwin Hoyle, 68, retired Baptist minister and poultryman of Winterville, died at his home near Winterville Friday night at 11 o'clock.

Funeral services were conducted at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel at Greenville at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon by the Rev. E. G. Cole, pastor of the Baptist Church of Winterville, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Laughlin, pastor of the Pactolus Baptist Church. Burial was in the Winterville cemetery.

He was the son of the late Henry Ransom and Martha Hayes Hoyle, and was born in Franklin County and reared in the Wakefield Community of Wake County. In the early 1930's he was pastor of the First Baptist Church of Las Cruces, New Mexico.

While pastor of the First Baptist Church at Wingate, he was made chairman of the Board of Trustees of Wingate school. Through his efforts the school was raised from an unaccredited high school to an A-1 junior college.

During the 44 years he spent in the ministry he also held pastorates in North Carolina at the First Baptist Church at Lenoir, Nashville, Andrews, Raeford, Whitakers, Pactolus and Chocowinity.

Survivors Listed

He was first married to Deanie Mae Horton of Zebulon, who died in 1930. He was later married to Bertha Carroll of Winterville, who survives, with their daughter, Patricia, of the home. Also surviving are three sons by his first marriage, J. Edwin Hoyle, Jr., of Richmond, Va., Daniel S. Hoyle of Hickory, and Ransom G. Hoyle of Winterville; four grandchildren; a brother, Dr. Irby H. Hoyle of Henderson; two sisters, Mrs. John E. Ayscue of Buie's Creek and Mrs. Lorenzo Temple of Zebulon.

Farmers May Save Income Tax Money with Grain Storage Bins

Special income tax deductions have been provided by Congress for grain producers and warehousemen who complete or acquire additional grain storage facilities between January 1, 1953, and December 31, 1956, county agent Grady Miller reminds farmers of Wake County.

Public Law 287, recently signed by President Eisenhower, provides, in place of the ordinary depreciation allowances, for income tax deductions based on amortization over a 5-year period of the cost of building new grain storage facilities or of converting or enlarging existing space for grain storage. The deductions apply to corncribs, grain bins, grain eleva-

FOR TINY TOTS

The belle of kindergarten wears a feminine little cotton frock to set off her blonde curls. Her dress is a gay red, white, and black plaid cotton with an everglaze finish. Designed by Nanette, it has a wide yoke front and sleeve bands piped in red and white, with a knitted round collar in white.

Buffaloe Rites Held At Bethany Saturday

Luther Martin Buffaloe, 64, of Wendell, died unexpectedly of a heart attack while visiting friends Thursday night at Zebulon.

A retired farmer, he had made his home at Wendell for the past two years with a son, Ronald Lee Buffaloe. He was the son of Mrs. Ellie Evans Buffaloe of Zebulon, Route 4, and the late Webb Buffaloe.

Funeral services were held Saturday at 3 p. m. at the Bethany Baptist Church near Wendell. The body was at the church for one hour prior to the funeral services.

The Rev. John Garner, pastor of the Rolesville Baptist Church, of which Mr. Buffaloe was a member, officiated, assisted by the pastor of the Bethany Church, the Rev. Claude Connell. Burial was in the church cemetery.

Township Votes 20-to-1 for Bond Issues; Only One "No" Ballot at Mitchell's Mill

Ed Ellington Hits Tenancy Problem

The two main problems facing this community are juvenile delinquency and tenant farmers, Ed Ellington, head of the agriculture department at Wakelon School, told members of the Zebulon Rotary Club last Friday night. He stated that immediate attention should be given young people and tenant farmers.

"Juvenile delinquency is our number one problem," he said, "and it is caused by parental delinquency."

The speaker cited as proof of juvenile delinquency the reckless driving and deaths caused by young people on the highways, the lack of study effort by school children, and the moral laxity of youth.

Ed called attention to the fact that "75 percent of high school students never study at night." He blamed parents for their failure to guide and discipline their children.

"Tenant farmers as a group," he said, "are the richest people on the face of the earth for 60 days in the fall, and paupers the rest of the year."

He blamed this on the insecurity of tenant farmers who frequently must move from one farm to another every year, and feel no permanency nor inclination to improve the land and buildings of the farm where they live.

Encourage Tenants

He urged that farmers with ability should be encouraged and helped to own their own land.

Children of tenant farmers are not the best students in school, Ed said. He cited agricultural students who are taught to practice conservation in their farming, with plans being made for years in advance. "How can they be expected to follow conservation practices," Ed asked, "when the school child does not know whether he will be on the same farm the following year?"

Ed concluded his talk by reviewing the two problems, saying that they had been on his mind continually.

Sidney Eddins was welcomed into the club as a new member by President Barrie Davis.

Visitors included Larry Whitehead of Abilene, Texas, and Tom Turner and Olin Binkley of the Wake Forest College faculty.

On Friday night of this week, Governor P. D. Midgette of Englehard, head of District 278, will make his official visit to the Zebulon club.

The annual Teachers' Night is scheduled for October 23, in the Wakelon cafeteria.

Yarborough Here

Lt. Col. Edward Yarborough, commanding officer of the 113th Field Artillery Battalion, and Major Darrell Perry, battalion executive officer, were visitors for the weekly drill of Battery A, Zebulon's National Guard unit, held last night. They conducted an informal inspection of the men in the unit and the training.

OKAYS BUDGET

R. Vance Brown

M. Brown, chairman of the budget committee of the Zebulon United Fund, announced yesterday that the committee had approved a $5,000 budget here this year, and had sent the approved list to UFD directors for action.

Oakley Services Held In Virginia Yesterday

Word was received here Sunday of the death Saturday of Arthur Oakley, 52, of Hampton, Va. He was the son of the late Jasper W. Oakley of Zebulon.

Funeral services were held Monday at 2:30 p. m. in Newport News, Va.

Survivors include his stepmother, Mrs. W. O. Perritt of Butler; two step children, Mrs. E. T. Palmer of Hampton, Va., and Junior Mitchell of California; one sister, Mrs. Frank Morris of Hillsgrave, Rhode Island; two brothers, Bobby and Tommy Oakley of Raleigh; and a step-sister, Mrs. W. L. Mitchell of Raleigh.

Fire Truck Delivery Is Accepted By Rural Department Saturday

The beautiful, red, rural fire truck was formally dedicated in ceremonies held in front of the municipal building Saturday afternoon ending a long wait for members of the Zebulon Rural Fire Department and the volunteer workers who labored so long to perfect the organization of the rural fire department and secure the truck. Officials of the Rural Fire Department, the Zebulon Farm Bureau, and the Town of Zebulon participated in the dedication.

Bev. Asbury, pastor of the Zebulon Baptist Church, opened the ceremony with prayer.

Accepts Key

M. L. Hagwood, president of the Zebulon Rural Fire Department, Inc., was introduced by Barrie Davis, who served as master of ceremonies. The Fire Department president spoke on behalf of the Rural Fire Department after accepting the key to the truck from Davis. He then presented the key to Zebulon Fire Chief Willie B. Hopkins,

Favorable Vote Is Relatively Light

Three hundred Little River Township voters went to the polls at the local fire station and at Mack Perry's store on Saturday, October 3, and registered overwhelming approval of a $72,000-000 bond issue for schools and mental hospitals.

There were 274 ballots cast in the Zebulon precinct, but several ballots had to be discarded because of failure to comply with voting regulations. The margin on both issues was better than 20 to one, with 257 ballots for the school bonds and twelve against; the hospital bonds also received 257 favorable votes, but only eight votes against the bonds were counted.

The Mitchell's Mill voters, according to Registrar Mack Perry, were about as close to being of one mind as they can get — without being unanimous. There was only one vote against the school and hospital bonds, with 25 votes being cast for the two proposed issues.

The relatively light vote in this township was still heavier than in most other areas, and the margin of approval was considerably wider here than elsewhere. Gov. Umstead for example, had come out in favor of the bonds, but his home county of Durham was less than one-fifth as strongly in favor of the bonds as was Little River Township.

The larger vote here was due, in large part, to the publicity given the bond proposals. Local merchants sponsored advertising explaining the issues to the public, and heads of civic organizations reminded their memberships of the campaign. The local effort, while not as spirited as most drives because of the lack of organized opposition, was in striking contrast to the somewhat listless campaign on the state level.

who will be in charge of maintaining the truck and training the new Rural Volunteer Fire Department.

Ed Hales, chairman of the Finer Carolina Steering Committee for Zebulon, spoke of the accomplishment, and heaped praise on Robert Ed Horton and the Zebulon Farm Bureau for their work on the project.

Horton Speaks

Robert Ed Horton, chairman of the successful Rural Fire Truck Project entered in the Finer Carolina Contest, spoke on behalf of his committee, recognizing some of those who had participated in the work.

"I feel like a little boy who hoped all year that Santa Claus would bring him a special present at Christmas," Robert Ed said, "and then woke up Christmas morning to find his dreams come true. But getting this fire truck is better than any Christmas I ever knew," he added.
