Juniors to Give Play

The juniors at Middlesex high school will present the annual junior class play in the school auditorium Friday evening, April 2. The play this year is entitled, "Kay Beats the Band," and it should prove most amusing and interesting.

Senior Trip

The Middlesex seniors will leave on Thursday, April 9, next week, for their annual Educational Trip. They will return Sunday evening, April 12.

This year's group will tour not only the nation's capital but also Mt. Vernon, the famous home of Washington. They also are planning to pay a visit to the famous Luray Caverns in Western Virginia.

The seniors will be accompanied by two teachers, Mrs. Margaret Williford, the 12th grade home room teacher, and Mr. Jake Wright, Jr., the 9B home room teacher. Both will act as chaperones and guides.

The seniors realized a net profit of at least $560: from the supper held recently and this is the main source of the wherewithal with which to make this trip. The amount realized from the annual supper is the largest ever derived from a similar event. A gross of nearly $800 was achieved.

CTA Elects Head

The new head of the Middlesex Classroom Teachers Department is Mrs. Mozelle Amspacher, the 6-7th grade teacher, who will represent the school during the coming year at county and state meetings involving the CTA.

Mrs. Amspacher succeeds Mrs. Fred Wolfe, the 3-4th grade teacher, who has served as local CTA representative for the present school year.

Senior Superlatives Elected

A list of 16 superlatives, ranging from the "most versatile" to the "neatest dresser," has been chosen by this year's senior class.

The complete list of superlatives is:

Most versatile, Faye Watson and Doris Tyson; most athletic, Rose Manning and Bobby Murray; most attractive, Ellen Rose Lewis and Thelma Bradshaw; most studious, Anne Price, Ellen Murray and Jack Bass; most likely to succeed, Ada

Mae Wrenn and Billy Murray.

Most dependable, Nelson Brantley and Katie Stone; most popular, Lou Daniel and Eva Jean Debnam; most bashful, Benny Griffin and Louise Lane; most intelligent, David Daniel and Sarah Cone; most talkative, Louise Bryant and Betty Jean Taylor.

Wittiest, Betty Lou Williams and William Morgan; friendliest, Hilda Gray Massey and Russell Ward; best school spirit, Frances Pace and Franklin Lewis; cutest, Jimmy Murray and Charlotte Brantley; quietest, Creasia Lewis and Annie Joyce Liles; and the neatest, Hattie Batchelor and Fred Strickland.

Little Butter Sold

Relatively little butter has been sold to the federal government under the price support program this fall, but cheese and dry milk sales have continued moderately large.
