

THE ZEBULON RECORD

Volume XXIX. Number 42.

Zebulon, N. C., Friday, March 4, 1955

Theo. Davis Sons, Publishers

National 4-H Club week begins today at Wakelon and thousands of other schools throughout the nation. The week honoring 4-H members will continue through March 13. Wakelon students have done well in statewide and national 4-H competition in recent years, with Ruth Temple taking national honors in 1954 food preparation.

Zebulon Barbers to Give Proceeds In Part to Crippled Children Drive

Zebulon barbers will participate next Tuesday in the state wide "Barbers' Kick-off campaign for Crippled Children," Kermit Corbett, owner of City Barber Shop, said this week.

Tuesday's program is co-sponsored by the Associated Master Barbers of North Carolina and the North Carolina Society for Crippled Children (State Easter Seal Society).

Initiating the Society's Easter Seal program barbershops will contribute proceeds amounting to at least 30% of Tuesday's receipts.

Purpose is to increase Society funds and thereby help expand services designed to help North Carolina's physically handicapped, whether children or adults.

This society does not duplicate the work of any other state organization. Yet they treat every type of crippling disease, officials say, including those originating from accident cases.

55% of the proceeds of each barbershop will be returned by the Society to a society affiliate located in that area.

Community Service

Therefore, according to J. D. Messick, Society president, and Y. Z. Cannon, public relations officer of the Associated Barbers, contributors will not only be helping North Carolina's crippled but they themselves will benefit, not only by gaining in prestige but by doing their own community service.

Rodney McNabb Addresses Rotary On Club's Objects

Rodney McNabb, president of the Zebulon Rotary Club, addressed members last Friday night on the subject of Rotary information. He discussed briefly three phases of the club's work, treating attendance, membership, and club objects in turn.

Rotary membership is different from many clubs, he said, in that actual attendance is required. In this connection he praised D. D. Chamblee, who has had over sixteen years of perfect attendance with the local unit.

Membership groupings include active, additional active, honorary, senior active, and past service, President McNabb said. Special honor is attached to the senior active classification, he added, pointing out that several members of the local club are qualified for each membership. The late Rev. R. H. Herring was the only honorary member of the Zebulon club.

The objects of Rotary, he concluded, are best summed up in the two mottoes of the organization: "Service above self" and "he profits most who serves best." The latter motto, he emphasized, does not mean material profit, but means that profits in the form of mental satisfaction come from service well performed.

Willie B. Hopkins served as the club's three-minute speaker. He spoke on the need for a civil defense organization in Zebulon, citing the hurricane of last October 15 as a time when an OCD organization could have rendered real service. Mr. Hopkins asked Rotarians to support a local defense organization.

Dr. L. M. Massey announced Rotary programs for the next month. Tonight C. V. Whitley will speak on buyer-seller relations. Next week Dr. Young of the University of Georgia faculty will address a meeting of Rotarians, their wives, and guests. March 18 will see the Rev. B. A. Asbury discussing community service, and the Rotary film, "Adventures in Rotary," will be shown March 25.

Visitors at the Rotary meeting last Friday night were Dr. O. T. Binkley, seminary faculty member, Leland Jones, hardware dealer, and R. H. Forrest, high school principal, all members of the Wake Forest Rotary Club.

Livestock Winners

The Shepard High School 4-H Club last Monday, Feb. 28, won the annual Livestock Judging Contest at N. C. State College in Raleigh, Shepard 4-H teacher J. T. Locke said Thursday.

The Barry O'Kelly Federation, including Wake, Sampson, Harnett, Wayne and Duplin counties, sponsors this annual affair.

The program last Monday included the judging of dairy and beef cattle, swine and poultry.

Second and third place winners respectively were Pikeville and Warsaw.

Shepard will represent the local federation in the state contest which is slated for June in Greensboro.

HEART REPORT

The 1955 Heart Fund campaign in Wake County ended Monday with a total of $9,027.20 contributed, Wake Chairman Arch T. Allen announced today.

Scout Week

Zebulon Girl Scouts begin National Girl Scout Week observance this Sunday with special church services.

Local troops will meet in both the Methodist and Baptist Churches at nine forty-five.

These services will initiate week long activities commemorating the forty-third anniversary of girl scouting in the United States.

Juliette Low convened the first meeting of girl scout troops in Savannah, Georgia, March 12, 1912.

Anniversary Theme

This year's anniversary theme is Believe, Belong, Build.

Accordingly, Mrs. Wilson Braswell, in charge of the program, said, "The girls Believe in God and Country and by Belonging to the Girl Scouts they are helping to Build a better future."

Lay Speaker to Be At Methodist Church

Ed Legates of Raleigh will be the Certified Lay Speaker at the Zebulon Methodist Church this Sunday morning, March 6, at 11:00 o'clock. Mr. Garland Richardson will preside at this service.

This is a part of the program to give "voice to silent pulpits" in churches that do not usually have morning services every Sunday morning. During the Lenten Season there will be over 1,000 Laymen speaking in churches in the N. C. Methodist Conference.

The Pastor, Rev. Troy J. Barrett, will be at Wendell at 11:00 o'clock Sunday morning and at Zebulon at 7:30 o'clock. The topic for the evening hour will be, "Do You Know the Shepherd?"

Cagers at MHS

The girls and boys basketball teams representing the junior classes of Wakelon and Middlesex High School will meet Tuesday night at Middlesex. Game time is 7:30 p. m. It is not a varsity contest.

Symphony Group Presents School Program Monday

In an hour long matinee performance last Monday Dr. Benjamin Swalin and members of the North Carolina Little Symphony entertained some twelve hundred students, eight hundred of them present in the Wakelon School auditorium and four hundred others listening in their rooms over the school inter-communication system.

School children from Wakelon and Wendell were there.

When the program was finished the students sounded an ovation, loud and sustained, mixed with whistling and shouting, showing their appreciative response to several types of music—classical, romantic and modern.

Concert selections ranged from the very serious to the light and gay — from Franz Schubert's "Fifth Symphony" to the popular "Typewriter Song," from Tschai-kowsky's "Nutcracker Suite," to a North Carolina folk melody, "Cripple Creek," upon which N. C. composer Lamar Stringfield based his orchestra suite, "From the Southern Mountains."

Between selections the conductor's wife, Mrs. Swalin, narrated short stories about or relevant to each selection, primarily for the benefit of the younger children.

The Little Symphony which appeared here has some thirty-five less members than compose the Full Symphony which with 65 persons will begin its annual tour of the state in April.

Principal Franklin Jones of Wakelon, before coming to Zebulon, worked with the organization in Henderson and was responsible for the concert engagement here.

CORRECTION

Mrs. Cleo Wiggs Cannady of Hopewell, Va., whose marriage was reported in community correspondence in Tuesday's Record, called this week to state that the report was erroneous. The Record regrets this error.

TRACTOR MAINTENANCE AIDED

J. C. Ferguson, extension agricultural engineering specialist at State College, is shown here (second from left) as he gives instruction in proper tractor maintenance to three county 4-H Club leaders at one of two 4-H Club Tractor Maintenance Leaders' Schools held recently at State College. County leaders shown include: Milton Fouts, Macon County; Tom Hurt, Wilkes County; and Earl Swain, Polk County. The schools were sponsored jointly by the American Oil Company and the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service. Ferguson was in charge of instruction assisted by other members of the extension agricultural engineering department. L. R. Harrill, State 4-H Club leader, said that trained adult leaders provide opportunities and guidance for a large number of young people to learn to operate and to care for tractors successfully.
