

Electric Starter For Power Mower

RACINE, WISCONSIN—The first self-contained electric starter for home power lawn mowers has just been announced by the Jacobsen Manufacturing Co. With this new development, it is now possible to start your power mower as easily as you start your car or vacuum cleaner. A light step on the Tip Toe starter and the engine purrs into action to provide easy, smooth power mowing. The new self-contained electric starter means an end to starter pulling. This new starter is just one of many features that have been introduced by Jacobsen. They were the first to put rubber tires on power mowers, then pneumatic tires; they also pioneered a power mower for putting greens and made the first automatic recoil starter. The electric starter is another forward step in making it easy to have and really enjoy a smooth and well kept lawn.

School Committee Evaluates Shepard

Representatives of the Southern Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges visited with Shepard High School, Zebulon, April 12, 14, and 15, to make an evaluative study of the school's program. Local School Board members and the Chairman, Mr. T. E. Hales along with Mr. C. V. Whitley, Member of Wake County Board of Education, were present at the first general session on Wednesday night, April 13, to welcome the members of the visiting committee headed by Dr. Rudolph Jones, Professor of Education, Fayetteville State Teachers College. Several conferences were held with student groups at which time the pupils interpreted practices and techniques to the committee with respect to the school's philosophy. Parents and patrons as well as students and faculty members demonstrated untiring efforts during the process of evaluation. There was great enthusiasm on the part of all persons concerned. A final written report on committee findings will be made within the next several weeks. However, final action on the school's application for membership in the Southern Association will not be taken until October. The oral report, which was made at the closing session by the visiting committee Friday afternoon, April 15, indicated that many desirable practices were observed during the evaluation. Several constructive criticisms were offered which can prove of inestimable value in improving the instructional program.

TO LOCAL CITIZENS:

The Wakelon School faculty endorses the idea of raising funds by the School Appreciation Dinner and for the purposes stated in the letter written to all school patrons who are being given an opportunity to buy a ticket. We feel that it will mean a great deal to the community to have the Wakelon School become a member of the Southern Association of Colleges since it is the highest honor a school can receive — only about one fourth of the schools in North Carolina are members of this group. Acceptance by the Southern Association of Colleges is a guarantee to you and to your child that his school is offering him the best in the instructional program and in equipment and supplies. We urge your participation in this project.
