MONEY AND BANKING
In Everyday Living

THE WEDDING GUEST stood still, for at the height of the festivities a realization struck him: In a few years he, too, would face the duties of "the Father of the Bride"—with all the expense of a wedding to meet. The day did indeed arrive; and chatting about it afterward with one of our officers, the Wedding Guest said "I'm glad I started preparing for it far enough ahead—by banking something every payday!"

HOW LONG HAS IT BEEN since you last made an inventory of your life insurance? If you have an endowment or twenty-payment policy maturing soon, this is a fine time to consider buying U. S. Savings Bonds with some of the proceeds; and depositing the rest in a savings account with us as a reserve, "emergency" fund.

NEXT TIME THE WIND deposits a few shingles on your front lawn, take a good square look at your roof. It may be time to have a roofing contractor figure on a new roof, new flashing and new downspouts. When you get his estimate, we'll be glad to give you friendly, sound advice on financing.

THE WOMAN AND HER BANK: A recent survey covering widely separated areas of the United States revealed that women do just as much day-to-day banking as men; have almost as many bank dealings above and beyond the routine of deposit and withdrawal. We have never underestimated the importance of you ladies in the family financial picture! You have a standing invitation to bring all your banking problems to us for prompt, courteous help.
