Children's Home Is UF Beneficiary

Located in Greensboro, N. C., the Children's Home Society is one of the oldest and largest adoption agencies in the entire country. Founded fifty years ago, it helps babies and adopting couples from every community in the state. It is non-sectarian. It offers its services free of charge. More than 5,000 children have found homes and fond parents through the Children's Home Society.

Under the guidance of a statewide board of directors, elected annually, the Society endeavors to keep its policies and adoption practices of the highest calibre, adjusting to the changing times and conditions, adopting the best of the most recently approved procedures for giving every safeguard necessary to protect the lives and happiness of adopted children and parents.

Adoption planning deals with the deepest and most abiding human emotion — the mutual love between parents and children. It must be surrounded by an atmosphere of absolute integrity, sincerity of purpose and devotion to the highest spiritual values. It must be centered upon creating the best possible future for the child.

Only a qualified adoption agency, such as the Children's Home Society can guarantee that all obligations to the child are fulfilled.

To The Editor:
The release sent to you dated October 19 for immediate release perhaps I did not make myself as clear as I should concerning distribution of polio vaccine. I wish to clarify it in this manner.

The Federal purchased and controlled vaccine referred to as the smaller portion in my article is distributed through the State Board of Health to local health departments.

All other vaccine so far as I know is distributed by the manufacturers through wholesale houses and drugstore channels to the medical profession and this amount has nothing to do with the Federal purchased and controlled vaccine sent to the local health department.
