

THE ZEBULON RECORD

Volume XXX. Number 8.

Zebulon, N. C., Friday, October 28, 1955

Theo. Davis Sons, Publishers

CRACK NATIONAL GUARDSMEN

Pvt. Rudy Pearce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivon Pearce, Route 2, Zebulon; Pvt. Joseph Raper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Raper, Route 1, Wendell; Cpl. Joseph A. Lambeth, Millbrook; and Cpl. Charles Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Millard Clark, Route 2, Wendell; are checking the rifles, carbines, and machine guns in Battery A's arms room at Davis armory in Zebulon. Cpl. Lambeth is machine gun sergeant, and Cpl. Clark, a graduate of the Ft. Sill, Okla., artillery maintenance school, is artillery mechanic for the unit.

3,000 New Men

By CWO Johnsey P. Arnold
Battery A Unit Administrator

(Ed. Note: The North Carolina National Guard is presently conducting a campaign to increase its strength by 3,000 men. Battery A last week began its local campaign to build its strength to full authorized strength. Here is a progress report to date.)

After attending a Recruiting Conference at Wilson on October 13, 1955, the North Carolina National Guard launched the most concentrated and extensive Recruiting drive in its history aimed at 3,000 veterans and young men between the ages of 17-18½ years.

At the Recruiting Conference the officers and Enlisted Men who attended heard very interesting speeches by Major General John Hall Manning, Adjutant General of North Carolina, and Major General Claude T. Bowers, Commanding General of the 30th Infantry Division. Their talks centered around the history of the National Guard, and the many advantages offered to young men and veterans who join the National Guard.

Some of the advantages are, they can earn, learn and train while at home and at the same time reduce their Reserve obligation. They can enjoy the privilege and feel the (See GUARD, Page 8)

The 105-mm howitzer firing sections of Battery A have earned the reputation of being crack cannoneers. In addition to firing the weapon, they keep the $27,500.00 howitzer in superior mechanical condition at all times. Shown inspecting one of Battery A's howitzers are Pvt. Coil D. Perry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Coil J. Perry, Route 2, Wake Forest; Sgt. Connie M. Bunn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Bunn of Zebulon; Pfc. Clarence (Spot) Beddingfield, Zebulon; and Sfc. Herman Moss, Wendell, who is married to the former Miss Peggy Richardson.

Community Begins United Fund Drive Toward $5,500

The Zebulon United Fund Drive got off to an enthusiastic start when Harold Bronfin, Field Director of Carolinas United spoke to the Group Captains and workers in the Town Hall Tuesday night.

He told the group that the United way of giving is the most economical in time for the solicitors. He stated that the workers have no easy job, and that the job demands certain fundamental things which we use in our relationships from day to day; namely, tact, persistence, conviction, and knowing your story.

Every one of the agencies solicited for in the United Fund does good work and is providing a service to the community. The agencies are here to stay. They're not going to leave as long as the need exists for them, even though some communities refuse them support.

He stated that we live in a democratic community and if it is the will of the people that these agencies be supported, then the drive will succeed. Most people want the opportunity to give, and if they are contacted, and given the chance, they will be happy to Give Generously!

Give and give generously when you are contacted by the workers. In this way a multitude of drives, can be done away with. The workers are giving of their time and effort, with no thought of remuneration, because they believe in this method of raising funds for the benefit of their community.

Listed below are the Captains and their workers. The first named in each district is the captain.

1. Mrs. Ed Ellington, Mrs. W. A. Allman
2. Mrs. Guilford Buffkin, Mrs. Loomis Strickland, Mrs. Robert Privette, Mrs. Georgia Croom.
3. Mrs. Charles Creech, Mrs. Rochelle Long, Mrs. Robert Ed Horton, Mrs. Paul Strickland, Mrs. Billie Privette.
4. Mrs. Willie B. Hopkins, Miss Ruby Dawson, Mrs. Armstrong Cannady, Mrs. Ferd Davis, and Mrs. Randolph Hendricks.
5. Mrs. Wallace Temple, Mrs. Avon Privette, Mrs. Sidney Holmes, Mrs. Rodney McNabb.
6. Wakefield Community — Gilbert Beck, Mrs. Virginia Bunn, Mrs. Vera Rhodes, Mrs. Ruby Waaz, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Green, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mitchell, Mrs. Jim Ingram, Mrs. Louise Kimball, Mrs. Glen Hinton, Mrs. W. M. Sutton, Mr. and Mrs. Sprite Ferrell.
7. Wakelon School, Franklin Jones, Mrs. Fred Page, Mrs. Wal-

PTA Barbecue Set for Tonight

The annual barbecue supper sponsored by the Wakelon Parent-Teacher Association will be held tonight in the Wakelon cafeteria. Plates are $1.00 each. Proceeds from the supper will be used to help toward the 1955-56 PTA project — the purchase of $1,100 worth of curtains for the Wakelon auditorium.

Those unable to purchase tickets to the barbecue in advance may wait until they are at the cafeteria tonight to buy their plates.

24 Homes Are Ready For Special Weekend

Jorge Clavijo

A civil engineer from La Paz, Bolivia, South America, Jorge Clavijo is one of 44 foreign students coming to Zebulon.

Students to Arrive Here on Friday, Return on Sunday

Many more homes are needed to care for the foreign students who will visit Zebulon during the World Comes to Zebulon weekend November 4-7. Through yesterday, 24 homes in Zebulon were planning to care for 37 of the expected 44 foreign students from the University of North Carolina.

Mrs. Willie B. Hopkins and Mrs. M. J. Sexton are serving as chairmen from the Baptist and Methodist Churches to secure homes where the students will stay.

The hosts for the students will be expected to provide breakfast and dinner on Saturday and Sunday for the students. A banquet for hosts and students will be held Friday night by the Zebulon Lions and Rotary Clubs, and a barbecue supper will be staged in Davis armory Saturday night.

The World Comes to Zebulon project has been endorsed by all Zebulon civic organizations and by the School of Public Health of the University of North Carolina, in which most of the foreign students are enrolled.

This is the largest project of its kind ever attempted, and the only one in this part of the country. Its purpose is to promote international understanding by giving both foreign students and the people of this community an opportunity to know and appreciate each other's way of life through personal acquaintance.

The students will arrive Friday afternoon, November 4, and will return to Chapel Hill after dinner Sunday, November 6.

"Trick or Treat" Planned Sunday

On Sunday, October 30, the young people of the Baptist and Methodist Churches, will carry out their Trick or Treat project. The young people, under the direction of Rev. Troy Barrett, Armstrong Cannady and H. A. Hodge, Jr. will canvass Zebulon Homes in a unique Halloween Stunt. The treat that these canvassers expect from each home is some article of clothing. The clothing will be shipped to Church World Services, New Windsor, Maryland, for distribution to the needy areas of the world.

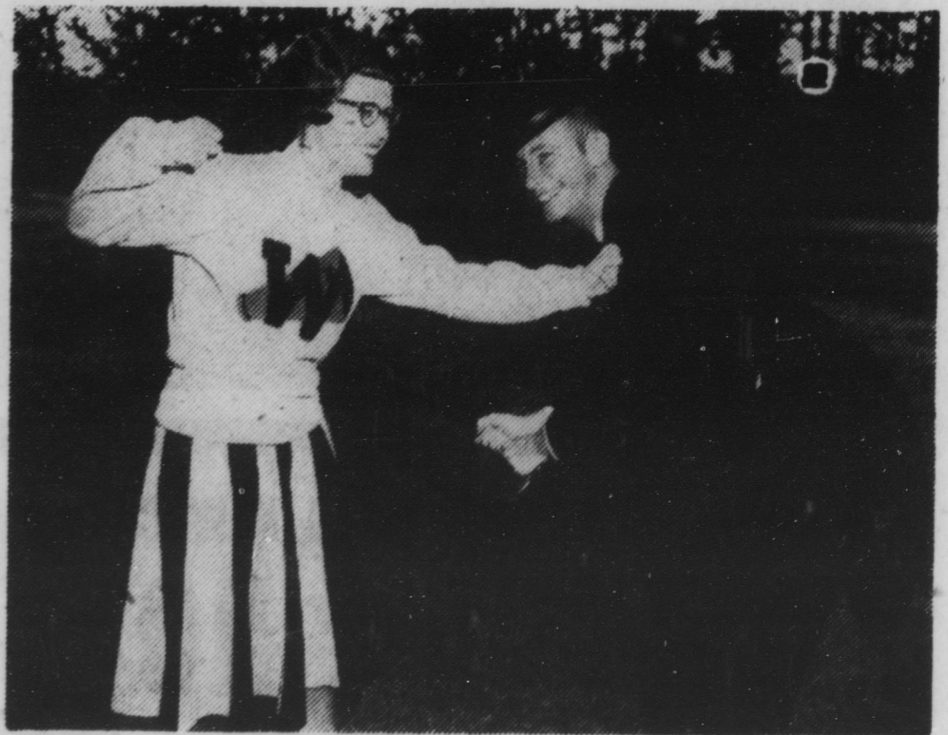

An Organizational Meeting of canvassers will be held at the Baptist Church beginning at 4:30 p.m. Assignment will be made and the canvass will begin at 4:45. Those people who have clothing they wish to contribute are asked to leave them on their front porches.

At 6:30 p.m. the young people will go to their respective churches for their Vesper Services and at (See "TRICK OR TREAT", Page 8)

Week of Prayer

The Week of Prayer and Self-Denial will be observed at the Zebulon Methodist Church on Sunday evening, October 30, at 7:30 p.m. The program will include interesting talks on Brazilians and Korean Chapels and Bethlehem Centers in Burma, India and Liberia.

CHEERLEADER AND DEMON DEACON

Juanna Joy Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mitchell of Zebulon, and Joseph Rayford Whitley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis H. Whitley of Middlesex, stage a mock fight at Groves Stadium at Wake Forest College. Miss Mitchell is a cheerleader; Whitley the deacon you see prancing around at Wake Forest football games. Both are seniors. Miss Mitchell is majoring in English. Whitley is planning to get a degree in business administration. (Photo by Irvin Grigg)