Precautions Suggested For Hog Raisers

Hog raisers are in for serious trouble when flu invades the swine herd, the American Foundation for Animal Health warned farmers today.

"Fall pigs may be very susceptible to swine influenza because of the chilly, changeable weather at this time of year," the Foundation said. "Adequate housing, good bedding, and proper ventilation should be provided and other preventive steps taken to avoid losses."

Swine influenza is not a major swine killer, but it takes a tremendous economic toll because it causes poor feed efficiency, losses in weight, and lowered fertility.

The Foundation suggested that farmers practice the following precautions to keep swine flu from their herds during the winter months ahead:

1. Provide well-bedded, well-ventilated and draft-free quarters. Overcrowding and night piling should be avoided.

2. Watch for warning signs of influenza, such as listlessness, coughing, watery eyes, loss of appetite and difficult breathing.

3. Isolate newly-purchased pigs for at least two weeks before allowing them in the home herd.

4. In the event of symptoms, have the trouble diagnosed immediately so proper nursing and treatment can be started.

State College Answers Timely Farm Questions

What determines the grade of an egg?

Quality alone determines the grade. The quality is determined by the shell, air cell, yolk, and white. One of the most important requirements for a high-quality egg is that the shell is clean and unbroken.

What preparations should I make for growing spring flowering bulbs?

If you plan to grow them for several years, it pays to prepare the soil thoroughly and fertilize liberally. Use a fertilizer such as 8-8-8 at the rate of about four pints per 100 square feet. Mix the fertilizer thoroughly with the soil and make sure that some of the fertilizer is placed as deeply as the bulb is planted.

When is the best time to breed dairy cattle?

Farmers should plan their breeding and calving schedule to provide maximum fall milk for the base-setting period. Thus it's a good idea to breed as many cows and heifers as possible between November and December 15. Cows bred during this period will freshen between August 10 and September 23.

There were more people living on U. S. farms in April, 1955, than a year earlier, but the farm production has dropped three million since 1950.

Thanksgiving

Lord God, we give Thee thanks this day.
Humbly, in our simple way.
For all the gracious gifts which Thou
Hast deigned so richly to endow—
For life—for every passing minute—
For this, Thy world, and all things in it!

We give Thee thanks, dear Lord, for these—
The green beneficence of trees.
The kindness of rain, the birth
Of springtime from a barren earth—
The earth that bears the bread we break:
In gratitude for Thy sweet sake.

We thank Thee, Lord, for healing song.
For courage, wise and tall and strong:
For all the laughter and the tears
That mould the pattern of our years:
For truth and trust and constancy.
For faith that lets us lean on Thee!

We give Thee thanks for ears to hear.
For feet to tread Thy pathways here.
For hands to touch, and lips to sing
Thy name in every lovely thing—
For friendship with our fellow men—
But mostly for Thy love.
