

Jr. Woman's Club Meets Next Tuesday

The Junior Woman's Club will meet Tuesday, Jan. 17, at the Woman's Club House.

Mr. Jerry Lowicki, local dental technician, will be the guest speaker. His topic will be "International Understanding."

Mrs. Norman Screws will be in charge of the program.

All members are urged to attend this very important meeting.

Wedding Invitation

Mr. and Mrs. Bevon Denton request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter, Kaye Frances, to Charles Dennis Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Millard Clark, Saturday, January 14, at 7:00 o'clock at the Pilot Baptist Church.

The public is invited.

Wendell Library

Because of the cost involved in renovating the old Wendell Christian Church, the Wendell Town Commissioners voted not to accept the building as site for the town's library.

The commissioners were of the opinion that it would require the sum of $10,000 to renovate and remodel the building, taking all the money that could be realized from a special tax levy for this purpose and leaving none for operational expenses.

M. C. Todd, Wendell civic leader and president of the Bank of Wendell, had offered the building to the town to be used as a public library provided the building was remodeled according to an architect's plans furnished by him and sufficient funds made available to operate the library.

The decision not to accept the building was made Thursday at the commissioner's regular monthly meeting.

School Menu

MONDAY: Hamburgers with cheese, buttered potatoes, slaw, fresh apples, rolls and milk.

TUESDAY: Smoked sausage, turnip greens, pink beans, corn and loaf bread, jello with whipped cream, milk.

WEDNESDAY: Sliced luncheon meat, steamed caggabe, field peas, onion rings, peanut butter, raisin graham cracker sandwich, bread and milk.

THURSDAY: Chicken with rice, tossed salad, green peas, banana pudding, bread and milk.

FRIDAY: Vegetable beeg soup, pimiento cheese sandwich, ice cream, crackers and milk.

Methodist Speaker

Dr. Howard P. Powell, Minister of the Edenton Street Methodist Church, Raleigh, will share his wide experience with the Zebulon Methodist Church in a two-evening emphasis on Prayer, Monday and Tuesday, January 16 and 17 at 7:30 each evening. Those in attendance, and others too, are encouraged to read the booklet, HOW TO PRAY by E. Stanley Jones.

These meetings, sponsored by the Commission on Evangelism of the church, are for the purpose of deepening the prayer life of the church and to help the membership prepare spiritually for the revival in March.

This year's North Carolina cotton crop averaged 354 pounds of lint per acre, 35 pounds above the 1954 average yield per acre and 20 pounds above the 10-year average.

Jones Named Head Of March of Dimes

Franklin Jones, Wakelon School principal, has been appointed the Community Director for Zebulon during the March of Dimes Campaign.

Jones said that there will be March of Dimes containers in the local stores throughout the community in which persons may contribute to the fund.

He said that the American Legion Post will sponsor Blue Crutch Tag Day January 14. On city and village streets, the Legionnaires will sell miniature crutches, the symbol of the crippled child.

The Mothers March on Polio will be held Thursday evening, January 26. Those that wish to give are asked to turn their front porch lights on and a collector will call upon them for the gift.

Jones said that the greater Zebulon area will be covered during this campaign.

Wake County collected $30,000 last year, but it was necessary to spend $5,000 more than was given.

Zebulon's goal this year is $1,000, though it is hoped that this goal will be exceeded.

George Vinson of the Riley Hill School and G. L. Crews of Shepard School are also participating in this drive.

Jones pointed out that while great strides toward victory over polio have been made through the discovery of a vaccine, much must still be done before polio is licked.

Local Guard Unit Passes Inspection With Flying Colors

Battery A, 113th Field Artillery Battalion, was inspected Monday by Lt. Col. Clyde W. Gibson, Inspector General from Third Army in Atlanta, and the Regular Army officer expressed satisfaction with the appearance and knowledge of the local Guardsmen. The inspection began in early afternoon and continued through the drill Monday night.

A careful check was made of all administrative and supply records and equipment during the afternoon, and an inspection in ranks was made during the drill.

Training was observed during the second hour of the assembly and a critique by the visiting inspector followed.

Many high Guardsmen, including Brig. Gen. Edward F. Griffin, commander of the 30th Infantry Division Artillery and Civil Defense Director for North Carolina, were present Monday night.

Other visitors included Lt. Col. Lee, senior Army artillery adviser for the 30th Division; Maj. Carl Comptom, administrative assistant for the 30th Division Artillery, Greensboro; Maj. Darrell Perry, 113th Field Artillery Battalion executive officer; and Maj. Barrie Davis, Division PIO and former commander of the Zebulon unit.

The men of the artillery battery exhibited the highest degree of training attained since the unit was organized in 1949. Although the grade given could not be revealed by the inspector because of Third Army regulations, he indicated that it would be the highest ever awarded Battery A.

The 105-mm howitzer battery is commanded by Lt. Jack Potter, who took command in July, 1955. At the 1955 encampment, held six weeks after Lt. Potter became battery commander, the unit earned a Superior rating for its performance.

CWO Johnsey P. Arnold, administrative, supply, and maintenance technician for Battery A, was commended for his work; as was Sfc. Jimmy W. Spivey, supply sergeant.

Washington Report

By Bill Whitley

SERIOUS. It's practically unanimous that America's farm problems are at the emergency stage, and government officials are almost all agreed that the problems should be settled on a non-partisan basis. In short, it's a job to be done, and not one to worry about who will be credited with solving it.

But as serious as it is, there is an element of humor in it. Traditionally, Americans are people who can smile even under the worst circumstances. The worst we have produced some of this country's most amusing and humorous literature, for example.

Naturally, then, there is the lighter side to the American farm dilemma. Farmers find themselves kidding each other about the low prices they are receiving, and they make jokes to forget the crisis they face.

BEST. Recently, the Washington correspondent for the Winston-Salem Journal, Pat Munroe, went through the midwestern farm belt, and he turned up what is considered the best joke of all about farmers and their troubles.

As Pat tells it, the incident took place on a midwestern farm where pork isn't worth a pig's squeal.

It seems that this hog farmer was awakened in the night by his wife.

"A thief is out in the hog pen, John. He's stealing every hog we've got."

John hushed his wife and whispered: "Don't make any noise. You might run the thief away before he gets the hogs."

ROSES. During the Christmas holidays, Congressmen get far more Christmas cards and other holiday greetings than they can possibly acknowledge.

But one lawmaker, Sen. W. Kerr Scott, received a Christmas gift that he'll remember all year.

The six ladies who make up his secretarial staff all chipped in and gave him roses for the whole year of 1956 — one rosebud each morning to put on his lapel.

(Confidentially, the Senator says he's not accepting unless the girls themselves agree to pin the roses on his lapel each morning when he arrives for work.)

VISITORS. Quite a few Tar Heels were seen moseying around Washington as the new session of Congress opened.

Some were tourists, a few were interested in legislation, and some others were still Christmasing. But one was checking on chewing tobacco.

He was Mr. Arch Taylor of Winston-Salem, one of the old-time chewing tobacco manufacturers. For years he has been spending Senator Scott a carton of chewing tobacco from time to time.

The other day, he walked into Scott's office and said:

"Just wanted to make sure the Senator is still getting his tobacco okay."

It takes a considerate gentleman to be that concerned about the safety arrival of chewing tobacco.

WAKELON WINS DOUBLE HEADER

Wakelon girls just couldn't miss when they tossed the ball at the goal Tuesday night. Wakelon won over the Glendale girls by a score of 57-47.

Peggy Green led the girls with a high score. She was credited with 26 points.

The Wakelon boys came out of a long end with a score of 58-53. They were opponents of the Glendale boys.

Robert Jenkins and Joe Wayne Tippet were high scorers during the boys' game. They scored 18 and 19 points, respectively. Jenkins grabbed 15 rebounds.
