Cloud-high basketball players reach right up there with high living-costs these days. But in the home-game of "balance the budget", one steady player still scores points for your team at a low cost admission price. Reddy Kilowatt's star performance, for the average residential customer, costs 99% less per unit used than it did 15 years ago. Reddy and your service team at CP&L do all right in the national ratings, too! Here again you pay about 99% less than the national average for every unit used. Quite a record when you reflect that your living costs have jumped more than 90% since '39. So why not keep Reddy busy? He's tireless — he's efficient — he's CHEAP!
