Boosters Club Has Dance Scheduled for Fri. Night

The Wakelon Boosters Club will sponsor a dance Friday night at the high school gymnasium beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

Marsh Knott will direct the orchestra for ballroom dancing. The square dancing string band will be under the direction of Elbert Pearce. Records will also be used for jitterbugging and bop dancing.

An amplifying system will be used for greater enjoyment during the dance.

This dance is open to members of the Boosters Club, athletic participants and their dates, cheer leaders and the coaches.

During the evening there will be refreshments for those attending.

THE MAN-ON-THE-STREETS SAYS

Isenhower Becoming Candidate

Man-on-the-street opinions of President Eisenhower becoming a candidate for a second term if the Republican party desires to nominate him.

"I wish he would think about his health," one housewife said. "His doctors can't tell everything. Only he himself knows how he feels."

"If I were him I'd run for that Gettysburg farm and stay there instead of running for the presidency," said another.

"Between Ike, Benson and 139 tobacco, the farmers are in for it," quipped a farmer.

"Mind you I'm not a Republican by any means," said one, "but he has got the respect of the world, at least."

"I hope Nixon isn't his running mate," retorted a secretary. "I hope he has a running mate that is more mature and with good judgment. After all, Ike might die and we'd need somebody with a good head on them to take his place."

"With Ike a sure-fire candidate for the Republican party, I'd say the Democrats are going to have to do some hustling."

Celebration for Local Girl Scouts Is Set for Sunday

The Zebulon Girl Scouts will participate in the forty-fourth birthday celebration of the Girl Scouts of America March 12.

The Girl Scout organization was founded by Juliette Gordon Low.

It began with an 8 member troop. Now there are more than 2,000,000 Girl Scouts in America.

Sunday, March 11, the scouts will attend the Methodist Church in a body and be recognized. The Rev. Troy Barrett, pastor of the church, will deliver a sermon in conjunction with the anniversary of the scouting program.

Mrs. Alger Batts, area chairman for this district, urges the girls to be uniformed when they appear at the church. A color guard will also participate during the worship hour.

Each girl is reminded to bring her offering for the Juliette Low Foundation, which will be taken that Sunday.

The Brownie Troop is under the leadership of Mrs. Ray Goodwin and Mrs. T. E. Hales.

Mrs. Woodrow Watkins, Miss Rebekah Talbert and Miss Lois Thompson have charge of the Intermediate Troop.

Annual PTA Convention Scheduled in Charlotte

The 36th annual convention of the North Carolina PTA Congress of Parents and Teachers will be held at the Hotel Charlotte in Charlotte, April 17, 18 and 19.

Theme for the convention will be "Education — Our Investment in the Future."

Governor Hodges will bring greetings to the delegates at the opening session on April 17, and address the convention on "The Present — A Challenge for the Future."

A banquet session April 19 will close the convention.

HD Club Women Compile Cookbook

North Carolina's home demonstration women have just published a cookbook, and, according to Verna Stanton, assistant state home agent, it's a volume worth owning.

This particular collection has more than 400 recipes representing every area of the Tar Heel State — favorites of the mountain folk as well as of the coastal families. The book also features some of the fine old Southern dishes which have been handed down from family to family through the generations. It also includes new, up-to-date recipes — favorites of club members, their families and friends.

Putting the book together involved going over thousands of recipes, testing each to determine the best, and then organizing the recipes into book form. A state-wide committee of club leaders supervised the planning, editing and publishing of the book. Serving were Mrs. Rufus Hayne of Walnut Cove, chairman; Mrs. Graham Sawyer of Camden; Mrs. Stephen Watson of Wilson, Route 2; Mrs. D. C. Cole of Rutherfordton; and Mrs. L. C. Deaton of Candor.

The cookbook is a six by nine green and gold volume planned for your easy use and reference. It contains 16 sections devoted to everything from pickles to poultry, cheese and eggs to cakes and cookies salads to soups.

Miss Stanton explains that all cookbook proceeds will go into the state home demonstration treasury to help out with general expenses of the organization. If you are interested in getting a copy, see your local home demonstration agent or write to Box 5097, State College, Raleigh.

Training Kits For CD Issued

Local Civil Defense Directors in North Carolina now have training kits to instruct the public about radioactive fallout, what it is, and how individuals may protect themselves from its ill-effects, State Civil Defense Chief Edward F. Griffin disclosed today.

All necessary tools for conducting a simple, non-technical, two-hour course of instruction, combined in one kit, have been sent by the state office to city and county Civil Defense officials.

The material consists of an Instructor's Guide, a film strip, a public booklet "What You Should Know About Radioactive Fallout," and a leaflet "Facts About Fallout." Publicity aids, such as pastors, press releases and radio material are included. Leaflets and pamphlets on fallout have been available to local directors for several months, Griffin said.

Further helpful information in process of distribution to local communities is provided by revised copies of a technical bulletin "Shelter From Radioactive Fallout." It gives detailed diagrams and instruction about two types of shelter, permanent and emergency temporary, which may be used in providing either for individual families or shelter for large numbers of people, such as evacuees from target areas.

Two Guard Officers Will Participate In 'Lucky Flash' Exercise

Two National Guard officers from Zebulon will participate in the Third Army Command Post Exercise "Lucky Flash" at Ft. Bragg for three days beginning Friday, March 23. More than 1,000 Army, National Guard, and Reserve officers and key enlisted men are included in Lucky Flash.

Lt. Col. Ferd L. Davis and Major Barrie S. Davis will serve on the 30th Infantry Division staff. Col. Davis will be a General Staff member, heading the Military Government section, and Major Davis will head the Enemy Order of Battle section in the G-2 section.

Four North Carolina National Guard units are included in Lucky Flash. They are the 30th Infantry Division headquarters, 30th Infantry Division Artillery headquarters of Greensboro, IV Corps Artillery headquarters of Charlotte, and 196th Field Artillery, Group headquarters of Kinston.

Assemble at Ft. Bragg

The North Carolina Guardsmen will assemble at Ft. Bragg with members of 20 other Third Army units plus officials from higher Headquarters of the Army, and Ninth Tactical Air Force representatives.

Lt. Gen. Thomas F. Hickey, Commanding General of Third Army, said that advance planning for this comprehensive 24-hour map maneuver has been underway for several months.

From the Exercise Headquarters established at Ft. Bragg, General Hickey will direct all "movements" of the participating units against a simulated Aggressor Army.

All seven of the southeastern states in the Third Army area will be represented by units taking part in Exercise Lucky Flash.

Active Army player commands represented in the exercise include Headquarters Third Army, Ft. McPherson, Ga.; Headquarters XVIII Airborne Corps and Headquarters 82nd Airborne Division, Ft. Bragg; and Headquarters 3rd Infantry Division, Ft. Benning, Ga.

Selected officers of the Ninth Tactical Air Force at Shaw Air Force Base, Sumter, S. C., will participate as the "supporting air force."

Accident Here Monday Morning

Monday morning about 7:45 Tommy Baker and Francis Wall collided at the intersection of Church and Sycamore Streets.

Wall was traveling west on Sycamore Street, while Baker was on North Street.

Baker, 76-years-old, suffered a slight concussion but was not hospitalized. His daughter, Miss Gladys Baker, who teaches in the Knightdale school, was an occupant of her father's car and suffered only a minor scratch or two.

Wall was uninjured except for slight contusions of the knee.

Investigating Officer Willie B. Hopkins estimated damages to each car in the neighborhood of $350.

On Dean's List

Lavinia Ellen Murray, daughter of Mrs. Cecil Murray of Middlesex and Ada Wrenn, daughters of Mrs. C. F. Wrenn of here won a position of the Dean's List for work done at Campbell during the fall term, Dean A. R. Burkot has announced.

The students qualified for this honor by having no demerits in force, no grade below a C, satisfactory class attendance and an A or B average for work done during the past semester.

Opening Success

Around 3,000 persons attended the grand opening of Wakelon Superette, Thurman Murray and Frank Wall have announced.

The Superette opened Friday, and is one of the most modern and complete grocery markets in the South.

"It was wonderful the way people came in to congratulate us and wish us the very best," the owners stated.

Zebulon Boy Scouts Now Ready for Exposition

Zebulon Boy Scouts will participate in the Oconeechee Council Boy Scout Exposition, it has been learned.

Final plans for the Exposition on March 17 at the State Fair Arena have been announced by Dr. James S. Bethel, general chairman.

The public exposition, first of its kind in the council, is sponsored by the Sir Walter Lions Club of Raleigh.

Some 10,000 Scouts of the council's 12 counties will participate in the exposition of Scout skills, training and activities.

The exposition will open at 2 p.m. and close at 9 p.m. More than 200 booths already are planned for the event. Zebulon's Scouts will be represented with an entertaining and educational booth prepared and exhibited by them.

Ribbons and prizes will be presented at the close of the exhibition by Dr. Bethel.

Scouts will arrive early Saturday, March 17, to set up the projects. They will return home that night.
