Wendell Vet Technician Presented Chevy Truck

Highlight of a meeting of the Wake Breeders Cooperative, Inc., was the presentation of a new truck by Wallace White of the Universal Chevrolet Company of Wendell to the Cooperative Technician, Ralph Baugh. This was the fourth truck furnished by Mr. White.

The growing work of the Cooperative was stressed at the annual meeting.

D. C. Worth, secretary, announced that 1,311 cows were bred in Wake County artificially last year. He stated that this brings the total to 7,863 cows bred artificially since the program began in Wake County in 1949.

W. B. Franks, president of the group, stated that the Cooperative has an excellent program for dairymen and single cow owners in Wake County.

Semen used in the breeding program is purchased from the American Breeders Service in Carmel, Indiana, and is flown to Charlotte where it is distributed throughout North Carolina.

Bulls employed have all been proven to transmit production before they are put into the stud.

This year the conception rate has been close to 70 percent, which is about a 5 percent increase over last year. Reason the service is as good for a one cow owner as a dairyman is that a one cow owner can get the same service as a dairyman by calling the Technician, Ralph Baugh, at Wendell 2041 or Raleigh 38007.

At the present time semen is available for Jersey, Guernsey, Brown Swiss, and Black Angus breeds. The Board of Directors voted to take on Hereford semen in the near future.

Carlton Blalock, Extension Dairy Specialist, told those at the annual meeting that the average bull in the stud in which the semen was received cost $7,500.00 before he could be used. He further stated that use of frozen semen was continuing to be studied and there is a possibility that it may be used.

The annual meeting this year is reported one of the best ever held in Wake County.

Wendell Principal New NCEA Head

H. Douglas Hall, Wendell School principal, was elected president of the Wake County Unit of the North Carolina Education Association at the meeting of the unit held in Wendell last Thursday night. He succeeds Principal E. N. Farnell of Fuquay as head of the organization, which has over 400 teachers as members.

Mrs. Elwood Perry of Zebulon, a teacher in the Wendell High School, was elected secretary of the unit at the same meeting, and Mrs. Doris Privette, Wakelon commercial teacher, was named treasurer.

Miss Helen Wells, N.C.E.A. Field Secretary, spoke at the county meeting on "Professional Ethics," before more than 250 members. Wendell faculty members presented a short play on the theme.

RECEIVES PIN FOR ACHIEVEMENTS

Spurgeon L. Hagwood (right), Universal Chevrolet Co., Inc., Wendell, receives from I. X. Sarvis, assistant general sales manager of Chevrolet, a diamond pin emblematic of his retail selling achievements. He was among 48 top Chevrolet salesmen in the nation who were taken to Detroit by the company for a two-day entertainment program climaxed by a gala banquet celebrating record-breaking 1955 sales. Many of the salesmen attending the event sold more than a million dollars worth of automobiles last year. The entire group, the company estimated, accounted for a staggering $40,000,000 in automotive business.

Explorer Scout's Booth Hottest At Exposition

The following letter was sent to the Record by Armstrong F. Cannady, Explorer Scout Advisor, in explanation of the unfortunate accidents which occurred to these Zebulon scouts during the Exposition at Raleigh last Saturday.

Dear Readers:

In order that you know first hand about the misfortune of the Explorer Scouts of Zebulon at the 1956 Scout Exposition, this is the story. Being the leader of the group, I believe it is unjust for people to exaggerate the accident of the boys who worked so hard and spent so much of their time freely so that the community of Zebulon would be well represented in the council. I myself heard numerous accounts of the accident by people who did not even go to the Exposition, and not one of the comments was true or complimentary of our boys. There is a true story of heroism to be told about the day that as yet has not been mentioned.

The fire was the second bad luck of the day for the Explorers of Zebulon at the Exposition. Post No. 540 of Zebulon had planned for our booth a sun dial with the use of flood lights to simulate the sun placed at different angles in the booth and focused on a rustic sun dial made of sand and twigs on the floor of the booth. By turning on only one of the lights at a time we could demonstrate how the time on the face of the clock changes as the sun moves from east to west during the day.

We had heard the loud speaker blast out several times during the morning asking the electrician report, but we didn't know why they wanted him. We found out when we plugged in our flood lights at $1.85 each. There were (See SCOUTS, Page 5)

Bobby Alford 'Week' Leader

Bobby Alford, a 1940 graduate of Wakelon school, was recently honored by being elected Printing Week chairman in Charlotte.

Alford, a native of Zebulon, is owner of a commercial art firm in Charlotte. Designs from his studios are seen on television and in leading magazines and newspapers of the nation.

He appears in a picture in the magazine Printing, March issue. With him in the photograph are Miss Charlotte Printing Week, Janice Hudson; and Charles E. Schatvet, president of Guide-Kalkhoff, Burr, Inc., New York, who was the speaker for the Charlotte convention.

Bob is the son of Mrs. Susie Alford and the late Mr. Alford.

Shoe Contract

Kannon's Department Store in Wendell has been awarded the contract for the purchase of 1,300 pairs of shoes for the North Carolina patrolmen by the State Division of Purchase and Contract.

These shoes will be issued to patrolmen and driving license examiners over North Carolina.

The amount of the contract was not released.

Franklin County Men Given 2 Yrs. On Each Count in Assault Case

OUT OF RACE

Kidd Brewer

Kidd Brewer, Raleigh insurance salesman and newspaper columnist, declared this week that he has been forced out of the race for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor because his health has been endangered by the strenuous schedule of the past year.

Record to Present Holy Week Series

For the week preceding Easter The Zebulon Record will feature an unusual series of character sketches of some of the great personalities connected with the events of Holy Week. Each of the character sketches will be accompanied by an artist's pen sketch.

Author and artist of the series is the Rev. Howard W. Ellis who was on the threshold of a promising career in commercial art when he made his decision to enter the ministry.

A Methodist minister, now connected with the Board of Evangelism of the Methodist Church, he continued his art study at the Chicago Art Institute and the American Academy of Art as well as his theological training at Garrett Biblical Institute.

The character sketches present the men about Jesus as live, virile, and strong. The Rev. Mr. Ellis (See HOLY WEEK, Page 5)

J. C. Tant, 22; Wesley Pearce, 25; Horace Tant, 20; and Ervin Whisnant, 26, were sentenced to two years on each count against them Thursday morning in Recorder's Court by Judge Irby Gill.

The four Franklin County men were charged with assault on a north Little River Township family, temporary larceny of a car, and assault with a deadly weapon on three men.

A fifth man, Gaston Pearce, was not available for trial. Officers have now learned that he has been arrested by federal authorities and is lodged in a Fayetteville jail.

All five men are under Federal charges for impersonating FBI agents. Four will be given a preliminary hearing before Commissioner Henry A. Bland of Raleigh; J. C. Tant has already waived hearing on the Federal charge, and has been released under $1,000 bond.

The first testimony was given by Mrs. Nona Boone, who lives near W. A. Perry's Store. She testified that the five men came to her home in a drunken condition.

"What did these men tell you?" she was asked.

"They said we had to go with them."

"What did you say then?" "I said I would die in my shoes before I would go," she answered.

Her testimony revealed that the first appearance of the men at her home was about 6 o'clock. The next happened around 8 o'clock. "What did they do at your (See COURT, Page 5)

PTA Meeting Monday Night

Mrs. Eldred Rountree, Wakelon PTA president, announced yesterday that the March meeting of the PTA is set for Monday, March 26, at 7:45 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Miss Talbert will be in charge of the nursery and will be aided by the Girl Scouts.

Mrs. George Henry Temple, program chairman, has announced that the Rev. Bev. A. Asbury will be the featured speaker for the evening, using the theme, "The Crisis of Religious Education." Mr. Asbury, pastor of the Zebulon Baptist Church, is well known in this area and needs no introduction to (See PTA, Page 5)

Free Subscriptions

Three Zebulon groceries, in cooperation with The Zebulon Record, are promoting interest in Zebulon during March by giving to their customers one-year subscriptions to the Record without charge or obligation.

Wakelon Superette, Temple Grocery and Market, and Rondal Phillips Grocery are participating in the promotion.

A limited number of subscriptions will be given to persons living in Wake, Franklin, Johnston, Nash or Wilson Counties who are not now subscribers to the Record.

Non-subscribers to the Record who live in any of the five listed counties are invited to ask for the free subscriptions at either of the three groceries.
