Mrs. Clifton Daniel, Jr. Likes Place Despite Heat

Mrs. Clifton Daniel Jr was officially welcomed to Zebulon Sunday. And she likes it here.

"I like Zebulon very much," she said in an interview. "Everything and everybody is so nice."

She and her husband were the guests of honor at an "at home" given by Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Daniel Sr. Sunday afternoon from four until six o'clock.

Mrs. Daniel Jr. was rather reticent about answering any questions, and pointed to her husband and laughingly said:

"He answers all the questions."

Daniel, always impeccably dressed and very courteously, smiled at his wife's statement and said:

"You can say my wife likes it very much here. She would probably like it much better were the weather not so hot."

"It gets hot out in Missouri, too," Mrs. Daniel Jr. replied.

The temperature during the reception was in the upper nineties.

Questioned further about various topics, she graciously declined to give answers.

Mrs. Daniel Jr. was dressed in a smart dusty pink silk dress, short sleeved, and wore a corsage of two white baby orchids. Her shoes were a criss-cross of beige-colored straps and high heeled.

When Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Jr. attended the morning worship service at the Zebulon Baptist Church Sunday, she was attired in a two-piece dress of blue with natural color straw accessories.

The Daniels arrived Saturday and were feted at a dinner party at Scandia Village in Raleigh Saturday night given by Mr. and Mrs. John K. Barrow of Ahoskie.

Following their visit here with Mr. Daniel's parents, they en-trained at Raleigh for New York at 9:20 Sunday night.

Solutions Given For "Office Hangover" By Murine President

Office "hang-over"—that "how-can-I-ever-get-through-the-rest-of-the-day" feeling that hits many of us every afternoon is a familiar problem on the white collar front and one that still defies satisfactory solution.

Modern tensions, poor working conditions, dissatisfaction with the job, excessive eating (at least at noon-time) and a long list of other probabilities have been cited as causing this almost universal "three o'clock drag."

But according to James B. Braun, president of The Murine Co., leading eye-drop producer, information has recently been brought to light which may open up a whole new approach to the (See SOLUTIONS, Page 4)

Soil Bank Explanation To Be Given Thursday By Agriculture Heads

Hospital Official Sees No Site In View Now

Attorney Foster Finch, vice chairman of the Wake County Hospital Authority, sees no site in view at present for the proposed hospital clinic.

The pecan grove site on Poole Road which was considered some weeks ago by the Authority and the Commissioners did not meet approval and has been temporarily abandoned.

Vice chairman Finch said the pecan grove site seemed to be the most agreeable and satisfactory site considered by the Authority and Commissioners thus far, even though at the last minute it was cast aside.

At present no other sites are being considered, he said, and there are no meetings scheduled for the Authority or Commissioners as far as he knows.

He said it may be two or three weeks before the Authority and Commissioners meet again, possibly after the fourth of July.

Hinton Is Victor In Constable Race

Waylon Hinton of Emit defeated Kermit G. Bailey of Kenly in the O'Neals constable run-off race Saturday. Hinton received a total of 383 votes.

Hinton led the contest for constable of O'Neals Township in the May 26 primary, but fell short of a majority, and Bailey asked for a run-off to which they were entitled by law.

Hinton is a farmer, and this is his first entry into the political field.

Thursday night, June 28, G. L. Winchester, Wake County Soil Conservation specialist, will give an address at the Zebulon Municipal Building.

Winchester's speech will concern the soil bank program, which is of especial interest to all farmers. He will give the details of the program, with a full explanation of how it will operate, the necessary procedures for participating in the program, and other facts.

The soil bank program, initiated under the Republican administration, reduces the acreage of basic crops below the farm allotment or base.

Robert Ed Horton, president of the Farm Bureau, urges the farmers in the surrounding areas to be present at the meeting which opens at 8 o'clock.

This series of meetings is being conducted over Wake County. Marsh Knott and Howard Boling will be in charge of the meeting to be held in the Wendell Town Hall.

On Wednesday night at 8 o'clock, a similar meeting will be held at Corinth-Holders school with Johnston County Farm Agent C. W. Tarlton, Labon Greene, and B. Harvey Parrish in charge of the discussion of the soil bank program.

Wake County agricultural workers returned from an area meeting where they were armed with details on the administration of the "acreage reserve" phase of the soil bank act.

C. M. Hester, office manager, said that the ASC office will begin signing agreements with farmers who wish to participate in the program Wednesday, June 27, 1956.

According to information given by state officials at the meetings, Wake County growers of cotton, wheat, corn and tobacco who reduce their acreage below their farms' established allotments (or base in the case of corn) may earn payments for doing so.

The provisions of the acreage reserve program which will affect local growers follow:

The farmer must:
1. Put land in the reserve that (See SOIL BANK, Page 6)
