7,200 Volts Take Lineman's Life Near Town of Bunn

A lineman with Stackhouse Construction Company of Goldsboro was electrocuted about 1:30 o'clock Wednesday one and one-half miles northwest of Bunn on Highway 39, it has been reported by Ralph Talton, Zebulon Carolina Power and Light Company manager.

Stackhouse Construction Company was doing contract work for CP&L, and the young lineman, J. T. Iverster, 22, of Wilmington, had climbed a pole to install hardware when he came in contact with an energized wire carrying 7,200 volts.

He was given artificial respiration by fellow linemen but to no avail. Dr. Cole, a Bunn physician was called, and pronounced him dead.

The body will be taken to Wilmington for funeral arrangements and burial.

Ruth Temple Winner Of Ford Scholarship At 4-H Club Congress

Ruth Temple

Draws Own Plans For Remodeling Home

Ruth Temple continues to pile up 4-H Club honors to her already growing list.

In Chicago Monday, Miss Temple's sewing, cooking and canning knowledge and achievements won her a $300 Ford scholarship at the National 4-H Club Congress.

Three other such high honors that have come Miss Temple's way were trips to National Club Congress in 1954 as state food preparation winner, Danforth Camp in Michigan, and as a delegate to National 4-H Camp in Washington this year.

The local girl has shown her wares in more than 200 exhibits and 68 demonstrations, 233 talks, 16 radio and television appearances and 125 stories. Her projects include 4,201 meals served; 231 quarts and 104 packages of frozen foods; 138 quarts of canned fruits and vegetables; 179 garments and 95 articles made; and many, many others.

She put effort into many phases of running the home and farm—management, electricity, better grooming, but most of all room and home improvement. Her completely-drawn plans for remodeling her home are being followed.

She has been active in 4-H Club work since she was in the fifth grade, becoming outstanding as she participated in high school club work. She was selected because of the vast number of long-time records she has kept of her work with 4-H projects.

Miss Temple accompanied other Tar Heel delegates to Chicago to attend the National 4-H Congress held in the Windy City. The North Carolinians joined more than 1,200 other delegates from all over the U. S. staying at the famous Conrad Hilton Hotel.

Twenty-year-old Miss Temple is a sophomore at Woman's College of the University of North Carolina. She plans to major in home economics with an eye toward extension work.

She is the daughter of Maylon Temple and the late Mrs. Temple.

Seventh English Teacher Here

After a half year of battling English under the tutelage of six teachers, Wakeon High School English students begin with a seventh teacher of English today.

Miss Elizabeth Boles of Wilson has been hired to replace Mrs. LaRue Stalvey of Knightdale, Principal John Hicks announced today. Mrs. Stalvey submitted her resignation effective November 30. Her reason for resigning was due to an illness and death in her immediate family.

Miss Boles is a graduate of Atlantic Christian College, Wilson, with a Bachelor of Arts Degree. She has a class A English certificate. She has been working toward her Master of Arts degree at East Carolina College this fall.

The new teacher is 39-years-old.

Times Foreign Ed Coming to State

E. C. Daniel, Jr., world famous newspaper correspondent and international figure, will be the lead-off speaker at the annual Institute of Religion in January at Raleigh's United Church.

Daniel, assistant foreign editor of the New York Times, spoke to the North Carolina Press Association in Chapel Hill in September.

Mrs. Daniel will accompany her husband to North Carolina, and they will visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Daniel, Sr., while in the state.

Library Closed

Zebulon Community Library will be closed beginning today until further notice, it has been announced by library officials. This closing is due to the fact that the library is now undergoing full scale renovating and remodeling. Library officials will announce the reopening date in this paper.

Brother of Local Woman Makes Furniture Formula

The brother of Mrs. James Alford has been given a meritorious citation by DuPont Company for perfecting a formula which gives a protective coating for furniture and other woodwork.

Warren Tyson, Jr., a chemical engineer with DuPont in the Company's Philadelphia plant, developed and perfected the formula only a few months ago.

The protective coating will resist burns from cigarettes, scratches, water marks, and other injuries so often left on furniture.

Tyson, 37-years-old, has been with the Philadelphia plant for six years. Prior to that he was with DuPont's Savannah River atomic plant in the research division.

He is a graduate of N. C. State College, and is married to the former Dorothy Kiely of Hartford, Conn. He is the father of four children, three boys and one girl. His parents reside in Wendell.

Kids, Santa's Coming!

December 14 at 4 p.m. will be a wonderfully exciting day for the children of Zebulon and the surrounding communities.

That's the day Santa comes to town.

Santa Claus has informed the Chamber of Commerce, which secured his coming, that he hasn't made up his mind whether he will arrive in Zebulon atop a Cadillac automobile or one of the city's fire trucks.

Which ever way he comes, he will be heralded by the black and gold uniformed band of Wakeon School.

Each afternoon until it is time for Santa to gather his bags of toys for his midnight trip, he will be here to take messages and orders from his little friends.

Local Baptist Training Union to Attend 'M' Night

Dr. C. C. Warren

Dr. Casper C. Warren, President of the Southern Baptist Convention and pastor of the First Baptist Church of Charlotte, North Carolina, will address the annual "M" Night meeting of the Training Union of Raleigh Baptist Association at 7:30 p.m. on December 4, 1956, at Memorial Auditorium in Raleigh.

A native of Mingo, in Sampson County, North Carolina, Dr. Warren graduated from Wake Forest College in 1920. He practiced law in Dunn, North Carolina, before entering the ministry. Dr. Warren received his Th. D. degree from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky, in 1928. He has served pastorates in Danville, Kentucky, and Little

Town License Plates Go on Sale December 1st

Town license plates will go on sale December 1, according to Town Clerk Willie B. Hopkins.

The license plates arrived this week, and will be put on sale simultaneously with the sale of the North Carolina license plates.

As in the past, the tags will cost $1, Hopkins said. The colors this year are orange lettering and figures on a black background. They are manufactured and secured from the North Carolina State Prison Department.

Number 1 plate will be issued to Mayor Wilbur Debnam, the next five numbers go to the Town Commissioners, plate number 7 to the town manager, number 8 and 9 to the police chiefs, 10 to Deputy Sheriff Earl Duke, and 11 to town Attorney Ferd Davis. The volunteer firemen will also receive plate numbers from 12 through 26. The remainder of the tags will be sold to the town populace.

Approximately 400 license plates were sold to the residents of the town last year.
