Noted Flower Expert Says Arranging Is Changing

The pulse of flower arranging is changing, one of America's noted experts in the field of flower arranging has said.

Before approximately 300 women — most of them garden club members — Mrs. Ruth Emerson Kistner pointed out the primary features of making flower arrangements for the home in a lecture-demonstration given April 2 in the Wendell School auditorium.

Mrs. Kistner was sponsored by the Wendell Garden Club Council composed of the Wendell Garden Club, the Morning Workshop and the Hoe'N Hope Garden Club.

The new trend, Mrs. Kistner said, is to use artificial objects with real flowers in creating an artistic design. Such objects might be grapes, leaves, figurines or other fitting objects.

But, she cautioned, no accessories should be more than one-third of the finished arrangement.

She said if there is one place in the American home which commands attention, it is the dining room table. This vantage point claims the most attention, and it is usually the focal point of the entire home.

In creating a design for the dining room table, the flower expert said she likes to make an arrangement which is different on the right side from the left. Such arrangements, she said, create illusions of beauty and originality.

After all, she said, a flower ar-

Woman Sentenced For Shooting Off Man's Arm

Josephine Sherrod, Negro woman of the Riley Hill section, was sentenced to two years in prison by Judge I. D. Gill in the Zebulon Recorder's Court last week, following her conviction of an assault with a deadly weapon on Henry Smith, Negro pulpwood worker.

Testimony indicated that Smith had spent two days at the juke joint operated by the Sherrod woman and was shot by her when he decided to return to his home and wife.

Judge Gill stated that he would consider suspending the sentence on payment of a fine and costs, payment of Smith's hospital and medical bills (Smith's left arm was shot off by the shotgun blast), and good behavior for two years, but the defendant appealed. Appeal bond was set at $750.

Other cases handled in the local court included:

5985. Walter Boddie, no operator's license, writ of habeas corpus ad prosequendum issued to Cary Prison Camp Superintendent.

Miss Eddins' duties will include being in charge of the arrangements for productions, committees and installation services.

She has served as prop manager, script girl, and many other duties with the Playhouse since being a student at Meredith.

Miss Eddins is a senior at the Baptist school. She became a senior last semester. She is majoring in English and minoring in religion.

Since being at the school she has been active in extracurricular activities, including BSU, college chorus, the literary society, and the journalism club.

Town politics has not picked up any momentum from last week.

Last week four persons filed for candidates in the May 7 election. All were incumbents.

No other persons have filed for posts on the town government up to Wednesday of this week.

Incumbent Norman Screws, "I want to see Zebulon take advantage of the times. I want to see it grow on very sound economic basis."

He also added that he would like to see more sidewalks paved and curbed. He said he has learned by way of the grapevine that in the future Powell Bill funds might be used for such purposes.

Heretofore, Powell Bill funds could be used only for streets.

"I would like to see our recreation program expand," Incumbent Kermit Corbett said. "I am a firm believer that if we help our youth we are bettering our community."

Corbett said, too, that he realizes that only so much can be accomplished with a limited budget such as Zebulon has to work with. But he believes that the present town board had done very well under the circumstances.

"We have worked together very harmoniously," Corbett said. "There has been little or no friction."

Sacred Music Concert Is Well Received

The sanctuary choir of the Zebulon Baptist Church, its conductor and organist overcame the difficulties of Sir John Stainer's "Crucifixion" last Sunday morning, and the performance was regarded by those who heard it as one of the best ever given at the local church.

This choral meditation on the sacred passion of the Holy Redeemer dwells at length on Christ's last day on earth. It depicts the garden episode, the trial and His death.

The soloists rendered their selections with deep reverence and feeling. The entire choral work has a lugubrious quality, yet the richness of the music overcomes this mournful feeling.

Soloists were Mrs. Frank Kemp,
