Southern Bell Wins Safety Award

Telephone employees in Zebulon have again in 1958 helped Southern Bell and the Bell System win the National Safety Council's top award, the "Award of Honor," it was announced today.

The award, highest safety award in the nation, has gone to Southern Bell and Bell System employees for six out of the past seven years, according to J. J. Tilson, Southern Bell Manager here.

There was not a single lost-time injury among telephone employees in Zebulon exchange during 1957, not even among employees driving Company vehicles.

"We are very proud of the safety record of Zebulon employees," Tilson said, "and the part they had in winning this award."

Throughout the Southern Bell territory, there were only .54 lost-time injuries per million man-hours of operations. And there were no fatal on-the-job accidents. The Bell System's safety record makes the communications industry the safest of all industries, according to the National Safety Council.

Forestry Projects To be Encouraged

North Carolina's 4-H forestry awards and camp program will be sponsored again this year by Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co., in cooperation with the Agricultural Extension Service, according to Walter M. Keller, extension forestry specialist.

Keller says that the purpose of the program is to encourage Tar Heel 4-H'ers to acquire knowledge and experience they need to be successful forest owners and local leaders through participation in 4-H forestry practice and training activities.

Southern Bell will underwrite expenses for the annual 4-H forestry camp, including travel expenses, for all delegates and counselors. Each county is invited to send one delegate. Twelve assistant county farm agents are invited each year to serve as counselors.

In addition to sponsoring the camp, the telephone company will provide silver medals to county best-record winners, a trip to 4-H Club Congress for the state 4-H forestry best-record winner, trips to State 4-H Club Week for district demonstration winners and awards for the state demonstration winner.

Keller points out that, since Southern Bell first began sponsoring the forestry program in 1955, participation in individual 4-H forestry projects, such as planting, timber stand improvement and tree identification, has increased 43 per cent and project completions are reaching the 4,500-member mark. Since 1954, county participation in the 4-H forestry demonstration program has grown from 17 to 46 counties.

Also, in the past three years, two of North Carolina's best-record winners have received national awards.

Forage diseases take an annual toll of forage legumes and grasses from Tar Heel farmers.

TOM ELLIS

Quote:

TOM ELLIS says: "I have always taken a stand for continued segregation of the races whether it be in the intimacy of the classroom or elsewhere. As Counsel for the Pearsall Committee I studied the school segregation problem for the State for over 15 months. I did not just vote for the Pearsall Plan — I actively supported and made speeches throughout Wake County urging its adoption."

Thus, ever since 1954 Ellis has been on Record not only as favoring continued segregation, but has taken positive action to preserve separate educational facilities. It is one thing to favor separate facilities and another to be willing to publicly fight the battle of continued separate facilities.

Ellis is one of the Counsel who are attempting to preserve separate school facilities in the legal actions in Raleigh, Holt v. Board of Education and in Montgomery County, Covington v. Board of Education.
