Mrs. Bunn, Mrs. Moser Retire; Total Years Of Service Almost 100

"There was one night of sadness," Mrs. E. H. Moser said. "When I thought of my friends who had leisure and could sleep on rainy mornings, the sadness disappeared and I turned over and went to sleep."

That is the only touch of sadness Mrs. Moser has felt about retiring from the class room after 43 years of faithful and dedicated teaching. Many is the morning she has felt like sleeping when the rain was falling softly. But she had to get up, ready herself, and get to her class room.

There have been times when she felt slightly ill, or her attitude was somewhat edgy. She had to forget her minor infirmities, had to cast off her irritations and be off for a full day of working with children.

She summed it up with, "I have liked it very much. Sure, there have been things I haven't liked. Teaching, like anything else, has its problems, its annoyances. But it has been my way of life for so many years, a way of life which I have loved."

Mrs. Moser never intended to be a teacher. She wanted to be a business woman or a doctor. Both of these professions were out of the question for the young lady from Dobson in Surry County.

She said she would have liked very much to have been a doctor. Her paternal grandfather was a doctor and so was her brother. Then there was another brother who was a dentist. The medical profession ran in her family where the men were concerned and it was her great desire to become a counterpart of her male relatives.

However, she went into the teaching profession, a profession which was prominent on both sides of her father and mother's families. A great many of her parent's relatives were in the field of education and it was quite natural for her to follow in their footsteps.

Mrs. Moser was born Myrtle Folger, daughter of the late Romulus S. Folger and America Booker Folger of Dobson. She was born March 10, 1888, and is one of 10 children.

Her father was a prominent lawyer in the little county seat of Surry County. He later became clerk of the court, a position he held for 25 years.

Mrs. Moser is the oldest of the second set of children. There are only two of the 10 children living now, Mrs. Moser and a sister, Mrs. Ruth Funderburk of Washington, D. C.

She had a happy childhood, full of fun and amusement with her many brothers and sisters. Her father, she indicated, was a firm disciplinarian and ruled his household with an iron hand, though.

After graduating from Dobson public school, she attended Greensboro Normal, now Woman's College of the University of North Carolina. She did not graduate, but through the years she has attended other state institutions connected with the Greater University of North Carolina until she has the equivalent of a college degree. The

Station WETC Not On Air Yet; Met Difficulties

Radio Station WETC, Wendell-Zebulon, has met with difficulties and has not begun its daily broadcasting, according to one of the managers.

There was trouble with the transmitter and equipment had to be replaced, thereby delaying the opening. It was scheduled to open last week.

A proof of the station's programming was submitted to the Federal Government this week for approval. The manager said when this is approved—which takes not more than 10 days and not less than five—the station will be ready for full operation.

Recreation Program Officially Begins On Monday, June Eighth

Zebulon's summer recreation program will officially begin Monday, June 8. Each afternoon leadership will be provided in varied activities such as softball, volley ball, badminton, tetherball, and many other activities.

Director Dave Smith said one of the four Little League baseball teams will receive fundamentals in baseball and batting practice each afternoon. Badminton, volley ball, and horseshoe courts will be set up beside the baseball field each night for use by anyone who desires to participate in any of these games.

At the first tryout for Little League baseball, 55 boys turned out for the four teams. They were graded on their ability to run, throw, and hit. These boys will be divided into four teams: Rotary, American Legion, Lions, and Independents.

There will be four games a week; two on Tuesday night and two on Thursday night. Any boy who did not get a chance to try out and would like to become a member of one of the teams should Accolades of praise were heaped upon the head of one of Wake-lon School's distinguished teachers and one of the town's most beloved citizens Monday night.

The words of praise were for Mrs. F. E. Bunn, who after 46 years of teaching, retired Tuesday.

E. H. Moser, prominent retired educator, said Mrs. Bunn "doesn't need any eulogy from me or the community. Her life has been her eulogy. She wears the laurel of a golden crown that the youth of the community, many of them adults now, have placed upon her, and she will wear it with an aura. She has drunk the cup of life to the fullest and drunk it wisely. She has lived a full and useful life. Her life in the community is one of the most remarkable you could find anywhere. She has been a grand teacher all the way along. There isn't a person in the community who deserves this tribute more than Mrs. Bunn."

Mrs. F. E. Bunn

Moser was principal when Mrs. Bunn first came to Wakelton School.

C. V. Whitley, chairman of Wake County Board of Education; Fred Smith, Superintendent of Wake County Schools; and John J. Hicks, Wakelton principal, appeared on the program at the banquet honoring Mrs. Bunn and remarked of her extraordinary teaching qualities.

Mrs. Bunn was named the Teacher of the Year for 1958 in February.

She is the former Annabel Newton, daughter of the Rev. J. B. Newton and Margaret Ella Watson Newton. She was born in Aulander in Bertie County 70 years ago.

She was graduated from Winterville High School and Oxford Female College. Other colleges she has attended have been East Carolina, the University of North Carolina, and N. C. College. She holds a life certificate.

Her first position after graduating from Oxford College was at Pilot School near Zebulon where she was principal. After three years at Pilot she came to Wake-lon where she has rounded out more than 40 years of teaching. Her tenure at Wakelton has been solely with seventh graders.

Her interest in the civic affairs of the town has been shown by her activities. For over 25 years she served as superintendent of the Junior Department of Zebulon Baptist Church Sunday School. In her church she has served as a Deaconess, president of the Woman's Missionary Society, worked with the Baptist Training Union and was a member of the church choir before the graded choir system. She has served as president of Zebulon Woman's Club and is a member of the Wednesday Afternoon Club, the town's oldest female organization.

Because of her superior work in the field of education, she was awarded in 1956 a life membership in the National Education Association given by the Wake County

Funeral Chapel Sold

It was disclosed Monday that C. V. Whitley has sold his interest in his funeral chapel to Norman Screws and Crafton Hudson. The price of the sale was not revealed.

Whitley operated a funeral parlor in Zebulon since 1931. The new business was incorporated on June 1.

Screws and Hudson said there will be no change in personnel and they will continue the same efficient service as has been given in the past.

The new funeral home will offer funeral services of the highest caliber, ambulance service and are the owners of the Zebulon Mutual Burial Association.

Both Screws and Hudson are graduates of Gupton-Jones College of Mortuary Science of Nashville, Tenn. Screws has been a mortician for 27 years and Hudson has 11 years service.

Screws, 46, is married to the former Helen Monk of Goldsboro. They have one child, a daughter, Norma Helen, 4. Hudson, 30, is married to the former Ruby Holland of Salemburg. They have two children, Paula, 6, and Stuart, 2.

Campbell Graduates

Tommy Hoyle Temple, son of Mrs. L. R. Temple, and Robert Hobgood Jenkins, son of Mrs. J. S. Buffalo, were presented diplomas in the associate in arts division at the Campbell College graduation exercises held May 29.

Betsy Ruth Massey, daughter of Mrs. G. A. Massey, was presented a diploma from the college upon graduating from the high school division.

New Postal Service Improvements Added

Sweeping postal service improvements designed to guarantee next day first class letter delivery for some 10,000 people in Zebulon and the 259 miles of rural routes served by the local post office, Postmaster M. J. Sexton announced today.

Postmaster Sexton reminded local post office patrons that all mail should be in the Zebulon post office not later than 5 p.m. in order to be dispatched on the day of mailing so it will benefit from the accelerated service.

Exhaustive series of daily tests have been made by U. S. Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield's aids to determine the efficiency of this additional improvement which has been assigned to post offices throughout the United States.
