Corinth Firemen Put Out Fire

The Corinth-Holders Rural Fire Department answered a call for help about 10 a.m. Monday to the farm of Ed Hocutt, where Leonard Bunn's barn of tobacco was afire.

The 325 sticks of tobacco were burning furiously when the firemen arrived, and they were able to extinguish the fire with only $100 damage to the barn and $250 damage to the tobacco.

The outstanding success of the firemen was due to the early call for help and two schools of instruction held at Corinth.

Total value of the barn and contents, none of which was insured, was estimated at $1,500, according to E. J. Corbett, treasurer.

Roy Richardson is chief of the Corinth-Holders Department.

There were 20 firemen who answered the call for help. The firemen are notified of fires by a large siren which can be sounded from any of three locations where calls are received.

Throughout the tobacco season the rural firemen will have volunteers on duty on Sunday to answer any calls for help.

Robert Lee Privette Heading Wake County Guidance, Testing Program

ROBERT LEE PRIVETTE

The son of a local couple has been named director of Wake County's guidance and testing program.

Robert Lee Privette, 27, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Privette of Gill Street, was named director of this program on April 15. His appointment was made by the County Commissioners.

Privette will be working with the county's 17 high schools and about as many elementary schools. His job will be primarily working with individual students on a referral basis and with the counselors in each of the schools in providing them with basic information in vocational, personal and career guidance.

He says of his work: "It is very interesting. It touches on all the things I have always liked. The rewards are great when you see pupils helped in choosing wholesome and proper careers."

He is a 1953 graduate of N. C. State College with a degree in Industrial Arts Education. After completing an Army tour of duty of three and half years, being first lieutenant in the Corps of Engineers, he enrolled in the University of North Carolina and was awarded a Master of Education degree in guidance and pupil personal services in 1958. He was with the local National Guard for four years.

Last year he was on the faculty of Garner High School, teaching sociology, his college minor, and economics.

He is married to the former Phyllis Wood of Talladega, Alabama. They have two children, Suzanne 3½, and Gregory, 3 months. The family resides at 2250 Circle Drive, Raleigh.

Here Is Job Picture For North Carolina

Good rains last week gave relief to all growing crops in the Raleigh-Wake County agriculture area. Dry weather has damaged tobacco and corn considerably. Cucumber harvest has been cut short. Tobacco harvest is getting under way in some sections while in other sections it will be late and not begin until about July 20.

Insurance Agent Undergoes Operation

D. D. Chamblee, veteran insurance agent of Zebulon, has undergone a major operation for the removal of his gall bladder in Carolina General Hospital in Wilson. He is improving and is now able to receive visitors.

License Examiner To Get Training

License Examiner Clarence Hocutt will be in Fayetteville Tuesday, July 21, for in-service training in the district office.

Commissioners' Wives Homemakers, Career Women

The wives of Zebulon's newest commissioners are both career women. They are closely associated with their husbands in their respective businesses.

And yet they are both some of the finest homemakers to be found. They are genuinely interested in their homes and love housekeeping for the most part.

Bernice Magdalene Hepler is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Marley of Staley. She was born December 2, 1919, and is the fifth child of eight children. Her father is a retired farmer and miller. After graduation from Staley High School she attended Winthrop College in Rock Hill, S. C., for two years. There she finished a commercial course.

Her first job was with a dentist in Greensboro, approximately 12 miles from her home town. She was later bookkeeper for a drug firm and then Mock Judson Vohinger Co.

It was while she was with Mock-Judson that she met her husband. He insisted upon dropping the young lady off at her boarding house after work. The acquaintance-ship blossomed into romance and then into marriage. They were married July 2, 1938.

Mrs. Hepler loves flowers. Their handsome Georgian Colonial home on North Church Street reflects her green thumb qualities. Some time in the very near future she plans a rose garden. Roses are her favorite flower, and yellow ones are her favorite color.

She is a good cook. Her husband vouches she is the best steak and banana pudding cooker hereabouts.

Her artistry shows up in her home. She has keen and unusual qualities when it comes to decorating. Period furnishings are her favorite and her home shows it. Each room reflects her good taste and exquisite arranging.

Since becoming a member of the Order of the Eastern Star in Wilmington in 1944, she has been very active in this organization. In Wilmington she was a member of the Golden Rod Chapter, No. 142. When she came to Zebulon 13 years ago, she helped form a chapter here, Wakefield-Zebulon Chapter, No. 133, of which she is past Worthy Matron, 1954-55.

She is a member of Zebulon Methodist Church, and taught the Intermediate Sunday School Class in her home church in Staley. She is also a member of the Lioness Club, having held the position of Lioness Tamer, Circle II of the Women's Society of Christian Service, and is a past treasurer of the local PTA.

This soft spoken, very unassuming commissioner's wife considers herself more of a follower than a leader. She enjoys belonging and helping actively in club work, but leaves the leadership to the other fellow.

Mrs. Hepler is 5 feet four, weighs 140 pounds (97 when she was married), has blue eyes and chestnut brown hair.

She is the mother of one child, a daughter, Connie LaRue, 16.

Alice Joan Farmer has a secret regret. It is that she did not study medicine.

Mrs. Farmer, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Medlin of Bailey, was born December 23, 1918.

She is the oldest of nine girls. There is an older brother.

After graduating from Bailey High School in 1937, she was forced to stay out of school for a year because of the serious illness of her mother. It was while her mother was in the hospital that she became more familiar with the profession of nursing and she made up her mind she wanted to become a nurse. Previously she had been accepted at East Carolina College and she had intentions of becoming a school teacher.

She graduated from Rocky Mount Sanitarium School of Nursing in 1941, and subsequently held positions in hospitals in Rocky Mount, Raleigh, Wilson, Baltimore and Duke.

After her graduation, she was night supervisor of her alma mater. While in Baltimore she was supervisor of obstetrics at the University of Maryland Hospital.

She loved nursing, exclaiming it is a wonderful profession. She did not like obstetrics particularly, though. Private duty is her first love, and is the only type of duty she has ever done.

She keeps her license renewed, but has no intention of using it in the very near future. A promise to her husband and a demand from him when they moved to Zebulon was that she not don a uniform again. She has not.

Mr. and Mrs. Farmer were married December 10, 1941. Shortly thereafter her husband went into the armed forces.

She has a number of hobbies. She likes to paint with oils and on china. Because of the lack of time she hasn't done much of it. Then there are cross word puzzles and bridge, which she loves as a means of relaxation.

Anything growing she likes. In the horticulture line roses are her favorite. But if it's green and growing she likes it.

Travel is another of her favorite hobbies. She is genuinely interested in seeing how the other parts of the state, nation and world live. When she retires she intends doing a great amount of sight-seeing.

She enjoys keeping her home at the corner of North and Church Streets. Cooking, she hates. Other household chores she doesn't mind.

Contrary to her opinion, her husband thinks she is the greatest cook to be found anywhere.

She is a member of Zebulon Methodist Church, having moved her membership from her home in Bailey only recently. Since she has been in Zebulon she has been very active in the American Legion Auxiliary. She has served as president of this organization, and is a charter member of it.

Mrs. Farmer is five feet three, weighs 105 pounds, has expressive blue eyes framed with glasses and has dark brown hair.
