Opening Day Sales

Wendell Averages $60

Wendell joined North Carolina's 17 markets Tuesday with opening day sales averaging about 60 cents a pound.

According to Roy Clark, Jr., Wendell tobacconist, the tobacco seen there Tuesday was of average quality.

Clark went on to say that the prices were better on opening day this year than last year.

There were a few piles that sold for 72 cents, but the practical tops in price was 71 cents. The average was around 60 cents.

He spoke of the good selection of tobacco seen on the market on opening day.

It was one of the most successful opening days for the Wendell market in 7 or 8 years, Clark said.

Clark said in general the farmers were not disappointed in the prices received for their weed. He said he canvassed the town's merchants and they voiced the same opinions: they had heard no disappointment from the farmers.

Clark estimated that 325,000 pounds of tobacco was sold in Wendell Tuesday. Wendell has four warehouses.

Farmers Warehouse, owned and operated by Clark and his father, L. R. Clark, Sr., sold 88,790 for $53,863.08 for an average of $60.66.

F. E. Bunn Retires From State LGC

For F. E. Bunn now there is a lot of television viewing, a moderate amount of gardening, walks with his grandsons, and lots and lots of reading.

He is doing just as he wishes and he can, for you see, he's retired.

Bunn rested his pencil and pen from signing State documents June 30. He served as senior accountant with the Local Government Commission for 28 years.

When Bunn went with the State in June of 1931, the Local Government Commission was an infant agency of the State Government. This State agency was created in the early part of 1931 by the legislature of that year.

The Local Government Commission deals primarily in issuing bonds to cities, towns and counties which apply for them. These applications for bond monies may be for sewer systems, water plants and schools, or to cover debts incurred by the counties or municipalities.

But now Bunn is through putting his signature to bonds with six, seven and eight figure digits.

Bunn is the son of the late Cade D. and Betty Young Bunn. He was born March 16, 1880, at the family home near Zebulon. There were seven children in the family. Bunn was the "knee baby." The only other member of his family now living is a brother,

Local Youths Receive Injuries In Accident

Miss Judy Overman is still at Rex Hospital as a result of injuries received in an automobile accident Wednesday night, August 12.

Miss Overman, daughter of Mrs. Roger Baker, suffered a slight concussion and minor back injuries. She has overcome the concussion but must remain in the hospital for back therapy.

The accident occurred approximately 100 yards from the intersection at Eagle Rock, according to Investigating Patrolman F. R. Wicker. The car, a 1957 Ford, was driven by Anne Hopkins, 19.

Patrolman Wicker said Miss Hopkins approached the sharp curve near Eagle Rock at a moderate rate of speed and applied her brakes, causing the car to skid. The vehicle skidded into the small ditch and gently rolled over. The time of the accident was set at about 9:30.

It was reported that the occupants of the car, Miss Hopkins, Miss Overman, Jay Godwin, Tom-

Balcony Converted To Soundproof Nursery

A unique nursery is in store for the mothers of the Zebulon Methodist Church, according to an announcement from the minister, the Rev. William K. Quick.

The Rev. Mr. Quick revealed that the Official Board of the church has given the go-ahead on the conversion of the church balcony into a sound-proof nursery "cry-room."

The ceiling of the balcony will be lowered twelve inches and a sound-proof mineral tile will be installed. Sound-proof glass will be installed in the three removable panels at the top rear of the church sanctuary and carpet will be laid wall to wall on the floor.

The worship services of the church will be piped into the nursery and the mothers, with their infants and little tots, will be able to see the minister, choir and congregation, and also hear the service and participate in the services.

The congregation and minister will not be able to hear the cries or playful children in the sound-proof nursery.

The minister exhibited delight of the proposed new addition to the church.

No nursery during the church worship services is provided at this time, although the Church School has two nursery groups, the pastor said.

The new nursery-cry-room will be ready by September 6 and will be in use thereafter. The Church School nurseries will also be moved to the balcony. A crib-nursery, a nursery for tots to two years of age, and a nursery for two and three year olds will result. This action was necessitated because of the rapid growth of the Church School at Zebulon Methodist Church.

In Marines

Marine Acting Sgt. James C. Scarborough of Route 4, Zebulon, is serving with the First Marine Aircraft Wing at Iwakuni, Japan.

The First Wing provides helicopter assault transportation and tactical air support for the Okinawa-based Third Marine Division, and flies patrol missions over the Sea of Japan.

F. E. Bunn

Will Bunn, a prominent Raleigh lawyer. Will was the baby of the family.

Schooling was interspersed with farming. He attended Midway School near where the cotton gin is now. For a few months each year, after the crops were housed or so they could be handled, Bunn and his brothers and sisters attended this one room school.

Later, he entered Wakefield Classical and Mathematical Academy and from there he was graduated. One of the teachers at the Academy, R. E. Sentelle, encouraged Bunn to further his schooling. In 1902 he enrolled at King's Business College in Raleigh.

His first job was as bookkeeper of Creedmoor Supply Company. He stayed with this firm for one year.

He recalled that when he was at Creedmoor it was election year. Bunn has always been one of the staunchest Democrats, and he said he found himself in a nest of Republicans.

Laughingly he said they asked him to help with the balloting because he had a good script and he was tempted to write in some good Democrat names.

From Creedmoor he went to Henderson to keep records for Watkins Hardware Company. He was with this business two years.

Bunn came to Zebulon as cashier of the first bank established here July 1, 1907. He was working in Youngsville as the assistant cashier of that town's bank when he was asked to take over the cashier's position of the newly organized bank. He remained with the bank as its head until the depression forced it to close.

This genial gentleman stays well informed by reading many of the State's newspapers, and leading magazines of the country. He especially prefers Life, both for its excellent news coverage of national and world events and because of its many pictures.

Since his right eye hemorrhaged some years ago, the vision has failed and he is able only to distinguish objects vaguely. Because of this his reading has been diminished.

He enjoys working in his vegetable garden and his wife often calls him down for working too strenuously because of his heart. He suffered a slight heart attack several years ago.

Of his garden this year, he said he had a fine prospect but then the rains came and almost ruined it.

His health is generally good, now, he said. He is getting along fine.

For the first few years he drove to Raleigh to work. Then during the war he was instrumental in getting a commuters bus and he rode that continuously until he stopped work.

He is looking forward to sleeping late this winter and not having to brave the sleet, ice and snow. He'll just lie abed and listen to
